SENATE, 236 TO 17, AUTHORIZES HERRIOT TO GO TO LONDON

Poincare Warns French Premier That He Will Be Judged by Results Alone.

NEW POLICY ON THE RHINE

Nationalist Theme of Delayed Evacuation Accepted by Government Before the Vote.

QUESTIONED ON WAR DEBTS

Herriot Replies That He Can Only Appeal to the Allies' Spirit of Equity.

PARIS, July 11.—Before obtaining in the Senate tonight a vote enabling him to go to the London conference, Premier Herriot agreed to accept the Nationalist theme that the five, ten and fifteen year delays for the evacuation of the Rhine bridgeheads had not yet, almost five years after the Treaty of Versailles went into effect, begun to run.

M. Millerand, when he was Premier three years ago, first enunciated the doctrine that until Germany began to currently fulfill her treaty obligations, the periods fixed for the Rhineland evacuation had not begun. Premier Poincaré made this point one of the foundations of his foreign policy.

Premier Herriot's acceptance of this position is especially significant now, because the Germans demand that in return for accepting the Dawes plan they shall obtain definite assurances as to the Rhineland occupation, and it is their view that in next January, when the treaty shall have been in effect for five years, Cologne should be evacuated. While Premier MacDonald of Great Britain has made no statement on this point, other leaders in the British Labor Party have said that the British should withdraw.

Despite this concession, M. Herriot scarcely obtained a vote of which he may boast, for there were only 236 Senators who voted for him, with 17 against him, out of 430 members of the upper house. M. Poincaré, who issued such a long warning to Premier Herriot last night, voted for him tonight with the understanding that he would be held in strict accounting for his work in London.

Before the speech of M. Herriot today Senator Daucet offered a speech of caution in which he made a pessimistic review of the French fiscal situation. He was in favor of the Dawes plan as the best way out of a bad situation, but pleaded that France should remain strong militarily against another effort of Germany to escape payments. He thought that in view of the many reductions of French claims against the Reich France had the right to ask a reduction of what she owed to the Allies. He was sorry that England and France did not take this view, and expressed the opinion that France could never pay.

Foreign Debt and Budget.

"The budget of France cannot be shaped to take into account the foreign debt, which today stands at 120,000,000,000 francs," he said. "With the menace of such a debt, no budget is possible. This question must be finished with. France has never denied her debt, but with what is she going to pay? Is she going to try to pay these one hundred and twenty billions with the hundred billions which she may get under the Dawes plan? If so how shall we pay for our reconstruction?"

Confronting the Senate frankly with the knowledge that a majority of its members really were against him, Premier Herriot said he regretted that the debate preliminary to the London conference had gone so far. He protested against being tied with chains, but said that he would try to bear some of them.

Admitting the serious divergence between the British and French views, he said that the good-will of Premier MacDonald, which he was trying to match, was the best factor in the situation. He asked the Senate to forget the bitter dispute which arose over the Chequers meeting, and to pay attention only to the most recent statement of the two Premiers.

Premier Herriot urged the necessity of putting the experts' plan into force at once and said that General Dawes and his colleagues had recommended cooperation between the Allies and Germany, and that he and Premier MacDonald were going to try to permit the minimum of politics to enter into their negotiations. His statement that he would protect the commission on reparations brought a number of interruptions from those who had observed that Premier MacDonald, in his speech last night in the House of Commons, showed that he had not accepted the French view.

M. Poincaré dryly remarked that while what M. Herriot said was interesting the agreement he would bring back from London would be more important. The former Premier asked the Senate to permit Premier Herriot to go to London and to reserve its judgment for fruits in his labors. In fact, before the end of the debate, M. Poincaré was defending Premier Herriot.

Hopes America Will Help.

The Premier made an interesting statement to the effect that by taking the most optimistic view of what the Dawes plan would bring to France, the total could not be much more than 40,000,000,000 gold marks in present values, because the present value of payments

Long Island Fare Increases Suspended Until Nov. 22

The Public Service Commission and the Transit Commission will start joint hearings in New York Aug. 5 to determine the advisability of the increase.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11. — The American Army airmen arrived here last evening from Aleppo and will continue their journey to Bucharest tomorrow night. The hop from Aleppo was without incident.

Before they left Aleppo, a telegram was dispatched to a notary in Constantinople announcing their departure. The telegram, however, arrived two hours after the airmen.

PARIS, July 11.—With the receipt of dispatches from Constantinople that the American fliers arrived there yesterday and are expected to leave today, the keenest interest has been aroused here in their flight.

Preparations have been made at Le Bourget, airport of Paris, for the reception of the air argonauts, and an impressive reception will be accorded them on their arrival. It is hoped that they can get here by Monday, the 14th.

Delegations from the French Air Ministry, headed by Laurent Eynac, and from the American Embassy officials, as well as large numbers of enthusiastic Frenchmen and Americans, will geet the fliers.

It is a source of great sorrow that financial difficulties prevented France from participating in the world flight, and the French people have the keenest interest in the race. It is safe to say that the French appreciate the task already accomplished by the airmen fully as much as Americans do.

He will use the same machine he expected to pilot toward the pole, and will gather data for the future polar flight.

Locatelli will be accompanied by five persons, including two motor experts, an observer, a mechanic and a wireless operator.

Officials of the American Embassy have provided the Lieutenant and his aids with credentials to be used on American territory.

TREASURY SUSPENDS CERTIFICATE SALES FOR CHEAPER MONEY

Stops 4½ Per Cent. Financing When Call Loans Are Offered at 2 Per Cent.

ORDER EFFECTIVE JULY 15

Saving Stamps Are Included—Policy to Continue Until Conditions Change.

THRIFT BONDS IN DEMAND

Disparity in Rates Has Made Them Popular in New York Market.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Treasury today ordered suspended all sales of Treasury savings certificates and stamps effective July 15. Acting Secretary Winston said the present money market did not warrant the Treasury paying 4½ per cent. interest on the savings securities when funds might be obtained at much lower interest.

Further sale of certificates will be held in abeyance until conditions have changed. Call money was quoted at 2 per cent. in the New York market yesterday and Treasury officials recalled that the last issue of certificates of indebtedness was floated at a rate of 2¾ per cent. The savings certificates bear 4½ per cent., compounded semi-annually for five years.

More than $400,000,000 in Treasury certificates is now outstanding. The first sales—in the form of war savings stamps—were made in 1918, but those have been retired and each subsequent year has seen a new issue. Almost $100,000,000 of the issue of 1924 has been sold.

Sale of the certificates was suspended in eighteen States last Feb. 3, on account of financial conditions in some of the Northwestern sections. Objection then was raised to the Federal Government continuing to make money out of areas where banks were failing and conditions generally were regarded as poor.

Savings certificates have hitherto formed an important part of Treasury fiscal operations. Late in the war the idea of promoting nation-wide saving was worked out and the war savings certificates made their appearance. Through the sale of 25-cent stamps the Treasury, in 1918, obtained more than $1,000,000,000, and this materially aided in financing the war. Later the savings certificates succeeded the savings stamps and they became an adjunct to the Treasury refunding operations, but their usefulness has steadily decreased as open money market rates have fallen.

Demand for Treasury certificates has been strong in New York as a result of the disparity in interest rates on this prime Government paper and rates obtainable in the open market for ordinary commercial paper loans. The institution of the plan to encourage thrift through the offering of Treasury certificates met with excellent results, according to reports received from all parts of the country. The placing of money in Government paper resulted in strong protests in some of the Western States, where banks reported that serious inroads were being made into their savings deposits, ordinarily paying 4 per cent. interest, by reason of the Government savings plan, which some savings bankers described as competitive business.

The factor that has prevented the widespread investment of money by banks themselves in Government paper has been the limitations placed upon the nature of such investments. Under the Treasury plan it was intended solely for individual savings and not for the investment of large sums by institutions.

Bankers said yesterday they looked for no change in prevailing money rates, which range from 2 per cent. on call loans to 3 per cent. or thereabouts on longer-term loans, for another two months, at least.

Philippa Wendell Will Also Wed an Earl; Elder Sister Is Wife of Earl of Carnarvon

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 11.—The marriage of the Earl of Galloway and Philippa Wendell, daughter of the late Jacob Wendell of New York and Mrs. Wendell of Sandridgebury, St. Albans, Hertfordshire, will take place in the near future.

Miss Philippa Wendell, daughter of the late Jacob Wendell of this city, is a sister of Lady Carnarvon, formerly Miss Catherine Wendell, who in July, 1922, was married to Lord Porchester, as he was known before the death of his father, the Earl of Carnarvon, famous for his discovery of the tomb of Tutankh-Amen. She is also a sister of Jacob Wendell, who in April, 1923, married Miss Eileen V. Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr of London. Reginald L. Wendell is a younger brother.

Miss Wendell's father, Jacob Wendell, died in April, 1911. He belonged to an old New York family, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wendell, having had a house for many years in East Thirty-eighth Street near Fifth Avenue. He was a graduate of Harvard and was for many years interested in amateur theatricals. A few years before his death he went on the professional stage, appearing at the New Theatre in "Antony and Cleopatra" and in "The Blue Bird." It was in 1901 that he married Miss Marian Fendall of Baltimore. His brothers were the late Evert Jansen Wendell and Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard University.

Mrs. Wendell and her children have for some years made their home in England. She has a country place, Sandridge, at Sandridgebury, near St. Albans, Hertfordshire.

Sir Randolph Algernon Ronald Stewart, twelfth Earl of Galloway, succeeded to his title on the death of his father in 1920. He was born Nov. 21, 1892, and was educated at Harrow and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst. He served in the World War and was a prisoner in 1914-15. He is a Captain, Reserve of Officers, Scots Guards. He has an estate of 69,000 acres. The Earls of Galloway descend from Sir John Stewart, younger son of Alexander, fourth hereditary Lord High Steward of Scotland, whose son, James, was ancestor of the Royal House of Stuart.

The former Earls of Galloway also had immense estates in Scotland which were the scenes of many famous events in history. Some of this land in the south of Scotland its former owners were compelled to offer for sale owing to agricultural depression. One of these estates offered for sale was Baldoon, which in 1669 was the scene of the weird and mysterious tragedy that forms the theme of Sir Walter Scott's "The Bride of Lammermoor."

The young Earl of Carnarvon, despite his large inheritance from his father was reported this year as having decided to enter business.

10,000 Sent Sympathy to Coolidges by Wire; President's Father With Him in White House

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—More than 10,000 telegrams of condolence had been received tonight by President and Mrs. Coolidge on the death of their son, Calvin Jr. Letters and resolutions were just beginning to arrive and the White House staff expected that these would outnumber the telegrams.

It is a policy of President Coolidge that each communication to the White House should be given individual attention and this policy already has greatly increased the size of the stenographic staff.

If a personal letter is written to each person who sent a telegram of sympathy, it will necessitate an addition of 35 or 40 employes over a period of several weeks, a White House employe estimated today. To acknowledge the letters and resolutions will require, of course, an even larger force.

Returning this morning on their special train from Vermont, where their younger son was buried yesterday, President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the greater part of the day in seclusion at the White House. No callers were received and the President attended to only the most pressing executive business. Both the President and his wife were very tired from their journey and worn by grief.

In the early afternoon the President accompanied his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, who came to Washington with the Presidential party, to the naval dispensary, where the father had his eyes examined. Later the President went for a quiet drive in Potomac Park.

Mrs. Coolidge was said to be somewhat rested this afternoon, but in spite of her splendid courage it was feared that she might suffer a reaction, and those about her, including her devoted friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, were doing everything they could to help her.

Colonel Coolidge, who saw his son yesterday for the first time since he swore him in as President of the United States in August last year, and who had not been to Washington since his son was inaugurated as Vice President, will remain here for an indefinite period.

Shortly after breakfast President Coolidge went to his desk in the Executive Offices, where he remained occupied until lunch time. He saw no one today except the members of his Cabinet now here—Secretaries Hughes, Wallace and Davis and Attorney General Stone—in a half hour's meeting, during which nothing of great importance was brought up for discussion, it was later said. Secretary Hughes, who leaves tomorrow for London, had two conferences alone with the President, one in the forenoon, the other about 3:30 P. M.

KILLS WIFE IN FURY AFTER PISTOL CHASE

BOY TRIES TO AID MOTHER

Hurls Wrench at Father, Who Reloads Pistol and Empties It Into Wife's Body.

The people of Kilian's Beach, a bungalow colony in the Clason Point section of the Bronx, were sitting at their breakfast tables yesterday morning, engrossed in news of the joys and sorrows of the rest of the world when tragedy burst without warning into their tranquil lives.

A plasterer's helper, 60 years old, was the man who brought unhappiness to Kilian's Beach. Nobody who saw Cornelius Lyons walking into his wife's bungalow would have taken him for anything but an ordinary workingman going about his business. One would never have guessed that he had a loaded pistol in his pocket and murder in his heart.

Hardly five minutes had passed, however, before the little community was shocked by the sight of Lyons, in a brutal rage, chasing his wife out of the house and through the street. He began shooting at her, but his first few shots went wild. His wife, 60 years old, feeble and terror stricken, attempted to run into another bungalow for shelter.

Shoots Down Kilian.

Philip J. Kilian, owner of this bungalow and the other bungalows in the colony, came running to his door to see what the trouble was. He saw a helpless woman fumbling at the latch of the front gate, with an armed madman behind her.

Armed with nothing but courage, Kilian rushed to the gate, swung it open, and pulled the woman inside. She ran toward the house, while her husband, cursing, turned his pistol upon Kilian, and shot him down beside the gate.

Lyons's pistol was now empty. He paused to reload it, while his wife stumbled across the yard, past the house and toward a road in back. Meanwhile their son, Cornelius Lyons, Jr., 13 years old, known as "Smiles," had seized a monkey wrench and had run to protect his mother.

The boy came up from behind just as his father finished reloading his pistol. The boy let the monkey wrench fly and it struck his father on the back of the head. Half dazed for a second, the man staggered and dropped to one knee. But he jumped up, without a glance behind, and ran after his wife, while a crowd of men and women groaned in apprehension.

Empties Pistol at Wife.

Mrs. Lyons, weak and frightened so that she was hardly able to move, was just trying to get into another bungalow when her husband caught up with her again. She half turned and lifted her left arm as if to ward off a blow at her face when the man fired. The bullet would have shattered her arm if she had not raised it. As it was, the bullet entered her side under the arm pit and reached her heart. She fell and her husband emptied his pistol at her, but all these shots went wild.

Two men then ran up and seized Lyons, holding his arms behind his back until a policeman came and took his pistol away. Mrs. Lyons and Kilian were taken to Fordham Hospital, but the woman was dead when the ambulance arrived. Kilian was in a serious condition. He underwent an operation for the removal of a bullet from his left side, but the doctors could not say whether he would recover.

Lyons was held without bail. He could not explain his actions, except that his wife had refused to let him live with her. She had had him arrested several times for mistreating her, and the courts had ordered him to let her alone. Lyons admitted going to Boston to get a pistol. After losing it, he said, he had gone back to Boston and bought another, with which he did the shooting.

The couple had been married thirty-one years and had eight children.

JEWELS UNTOUCHED IN ABANDONED SHOP

Mystery of Missing J. Betters Grows—Customers Learn Their Property Is Safe.

NO WORD FROM RELATIVES

Police Begin Hunt for Clues—Jeweler Had Worried Over His Son's Illness.

The mystery over the disappearance of Frederick Better, a Swiss jeweler and watchmaker of 198 Broadway, who was last seen on May 28, was heightened by yesterday's developments.

The temporary receiver appointed by the Supreme Court, Abraham Brekstone, visited the missing man's office, accompanied by Rosalie J. Janoer, a lawyer, on whose application Justice Wasservogel appointed a receiver to take possession of watches and other property in Mr. Better's office.

Miss Janoer had left a diamond-studded platinum watch with the jeweler to be repaired, and when she returned to get it found the place locked. In this way the disappearance became known.

The action in behalf of the creditors, some of whom had as much as $2,000 worth of watches and jewelry there waiting to be repaired, has saved the valuables from being put out into the street in dispossess proceedings.

"Our visit to the office today," said Miss Janoer yesterday to a TIMES reporter, "makes Mr. Better's disappearance all the more mysterious. I had placed the greatest confidence in the man, and today I found that everything in his office was intact. Watches were lying about on his work table and desk just as he had left them, and the safe containing valuables was locked. It seems strange that a man could vanish as Mr. Better has without leaving some trace.

"I have questioned persons who had business dealings with him, but what happened to him after May 28 is a closed book. If he went abroad on a vacation he might have indulged in mountain climbing, as he is a Swiss, and there met his death.

"I met him first two years ago. I found that he was not only an expert watchmaker but was quite learned. During our business conversations he spoke now and then of family troubles and of mental stress."

The police yesterday began working on the disappearance of the jeweler, and surprise was expressed that no word had come from any of his relatives after publication in the newspapers of the mystery.

Those who had business connections with him have only vague knowledge of his private life. The jeweler recently told a business friend that his son was ill and would have to undergo an operation which would cost the father $2,000.

The 1923 city directory gives Better's home address as 884 Whitlock Avenue, the Bronx. Nothing was known there concerning the jeweler, as he had moved a long time ago.

The stubs of a check book show that he had been drawing heavily upon his bank account. In one bank he had left only 48 cents.

Although persons vanish every day in New York, this is the first record of a man walking out of a Broadway office, leaving thousands of dollars of valuable jewelry and watches in his safe, and never being seen again.

FRENCH DEPUTIES WRANGLE

Socialist-Communist Row Forces Suspension of Session.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—Passage of the amnesty bill through the Chamber of Deputies seems fated to be marked by frequent suspensions of sittings owing to brawls among the Deputies. The one this afternoon arose when the Socialists accused the Communist Party of having sold their country.

A dozen Communists, headed by Marcel Cachin, with one bound rushed at the accuser, Henri le Mire, a member of the minority. The fray became general before the ushers could intervene, so President of the Chamber Painlevé donned his hat once more, thereby automatically suspending the sitting.

The addresses of the authorized Christian Science churches in Manhattan and the Bronx, and the time of services are listed under "Religious Notices" in this newspaper.—Advt.

LA FOLLETTE PLANS DRIVE IN THE EAST; NEW YORK HIS BASE

CONFERS WITH RAIL GROUP

Makes First Speech Before Members of Several Brotherhoods—Johnston Present.

FINANCE MEETING TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A determined effort to drive a wedge through the Republican and Democratic Parties in New York and other industrial States of the East is to be made by those who will have charge of the campaign of Senator La Follette in the battle for the Presidency. Such was the information obtained here today, following an extended informal conference between Senator La Follette and a group of railroad labor leaders.

The Senator is convinced from information he has received from various quarters in the East that there is hope for his cause in what is looked on by those associated with him as "the enemy's country."

Regional headquarters will be established in New York City by the La Follette campaigners, and using the metropolis as a base they will make strenuous efforts in New England as well as the Middle Atlantic States. Senator La Follette will make at least one speech in New York City and the plan is to make his appearance there one of the biggest political meetings held in the United States.

Senator's Remarks Kept Secret.

The Senator today delivered what might be termed his first campaign speech to the union railroad representatives who called to pay their respects and to assure him that he would have their support to the full. Mr. La Follette's remarks were not disclosed to the press and those who heard them declined to repeat them.

The railroad men made it plain, however, that they were pleased with the tone and bearing of the candidate and they left him impressed with the idea that he believed he would win in the November battle of ballots. Apparently he was contemptuous of those who have looked on his candidacy merely as a device to deadlock the election and force Congress to choose the next President.

That Senator La Follette is very much in earnest in his plans to push his independent movement was indicated by two announcements made here today.

To Speak in Five Cities.

One was that toward the end of the month he would go to his home in Madison, Wis., and from that point would assist Representative John M. Nelson, his campaign manager, in planning his campaign. The other was that he would make at least five speeches at strategic points throughout the country. In addition to the address that he intends to deliver in New York, he also will appear on the platform in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and Kansas City.

His friends insist that he will be urged to make at least one speech on the Pacific Coast, preferably at San Francisco. However, the Senator so far has made no plans for active speech-making beyond his appearances in the cities named. His supporters believe that if his candidacy makes the impression on the country that they expect, he may be induced to extend his efforts.

His friends made the assertion today that leaders of the old parties would soon recognize that La Follette's candidacy represents a more formidable political movement than the Progressive bolt of 1912. They contended that the Cleveland convention, which nominated him, represented at least 5,000,000 voters.

They insist that the Senator himself is convinced that he will carry all of the Northwestern States, believes he has a fighting chance on the Pacific Coast and is delighted with the favorable reaction that he and his friends assert has met his candidacy in the conservative States of the East.

The union railroad representatives who conferred with Senator La Follette to-

"Better Days With Davis," Urged as Campaign Slogan

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 11.—"Better Days With Davis," is the slogan John A. Goodman, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, offered today to the Democratic Party as a rejoinder to "Keep Cool With Coolidge," the Republican slogan.

Mr. Goodman submitted his slogan to the Democratic National Committee in this telegram:

"Suggest 'Better Days With Davis' as campaign slogan. The Republican slogan, 'Keep Cool With Coolidge,' characteristically negative. Proposed slogan means action."

GOV. BRYAN STATES HIS OWN PLATFORM

GREETED AT ATLANTIC CITY

Candidate for Vice President Says the Democratic Platform Represents the Masses.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 11.—"I believe in applying business principles to Federal, municipal and State government and in preventing the larger, richer and more powerful members of society from imposing on the weaker."

Charles W. Bryan, Governor of Nebraska and Democratic nominee for the Vice Presidency, thus generalized his personal platform here this afternoon, a few minutes after his arrival from New York. He was accompanied by W. H. Thompson, Justice of the Supreme Court of Nebraska and National Committeeman from that State.

The coming of the Democratic nominee had not been heralded at the shore, which he and Justice Thompson are visiting for the first time. They were met at the railroad station by only two newspaper men, but within a few minutes several persons in the crowd, recognizing the Democratic candidate from recently published photographs, greeted him enthusiastically.

The Governor was manifestly pleased. He smiled continually and shook hands with a score or more of well-wishers, holding an impromptu reception.

As he crossed Atlantic Avenue on his way to the Boardwalk, Governor Bryan was immediately recognized by the traffic officer, who stopped all travel and ran from his box at the street intersection to shake his hand. On the Boardwalk he was plainly impressed by the huge throng and thousands of bathers. The Democratic candidate, who had anticipated a quiet stroll, was also recognized and was continually encircled by groups of people who volleyed incessant questions and assurances of support.

Praises the Party Platform.

"The outlook for the Democratic Party in the coming Presidential election," said Governor Bryan, "is extremely good. We have adopted the most progressive platform ever written by a national convention of any party, and it is one which represents the great masses of the people, not a comparatively small number of favored ones.

"We believe in economical, efficient and fair government. It is only when the Government fails the people that they become dissatisfied, and there is formed such radical bodies as the L. W. W. We have not failed, for example, the people of Nebraska. They stand by their Government there. They have confidence in it, because they know that they do not have to resort to any other means to obtain relief from any oppressing situation.

"There is good ground for this confidence. We have reduced taxes 13 per cent. As Governor I have reduced the number of employes on the payroll of the State from 610 to 272, without any loss of governmental efficiency, and this within six months after I took office.

"We have reduced the cost of road building 25 per cent., eliminating collusion in the bidding, and by threatening competition forced the gravel trust to make a 33 per cent. cut in prices overnight.

"We have reduced the price of coal of all kinds from three to five dollars a ton by similar methods. I offered and did furnish coal to municipalities and homes at wholesale. I have been selling it, personally, to 158 towns and cities in Nebraska, buying it in carload lots from

Mayor and Mrs. Hylan Start for California For a Vacation on the Ranch of W. R. Hearst

Mayor John F. Hylan, accompanied by Mrs. Hylan and by Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, is on his way to California, where the Mayor expects to spend a vacation of about three weeks as the guest of the Hearsts on their California ranch. The party left Grand Central Terminal yesterday aboard the Twentieth Century Limited at 3:45 P. M.

There had been no announcement in advance that the Mayor contemplated a trip across the continent, and his exit from City Hall, with every evidence of a decision somewhat suddenly made, surprised City Hall attachés and caused some speculation. His chauffeur drove up in the Mayor's official car in front of the City Hall at about 3 o'clock. The vehicle was well filled with hand baggage. Mayor Hylan not long afterward entered the car and was driven away, presumably directly to the railroad station, where he joined Mrs. Hylan and Mr. and Mrs. Hearst.

Whatever leavetakings there may have been of an official character were behind the closed doors of the Mayor's office. It was not until several minutes after his departure that newspaper reporters and City Hall employes learned that the Mayor was bound on a longer journey than his daily trip across the bridge to his Brooklyn home. The announcement was then made informally by the Police Lieutenant who guards the door of the Mayor's office.

Rumor was busy during the rest of the afternoon. Some surmised that the Mayor's departure as the guest of Mr. Hearst, whose newspapers already have attacked the Davis-Bryan Democratic national ticket, portended some kind of a political upheaval. Others suggested that Mayor Hylan, since his recent convalescence, had overtaxed his strength and felt the need of a change of scene and occupation. His custom heretofore has been to take his vacations at Palm Beach, Fla., in the Winter season and to indulge in only brief absences from his desk in the Summer, preferably at Saratoga, where he was taken ill last year.

Most credence was given to the suggestion that Mrs. Hylan's health was the reason for the suddenly begun vacation. Her strength had been impaired, it was said, by her long vigils at the Mayor's bedside during his illness and by her active part more recently in aiding in the entertainment of the city's guests during the Democratic National Convention.

In the absence of Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, who is in Colombes as an official of the Olympic Games, William T. Collins, Vice President of the Board of Aldermen, automatically becomes the Acting Mayor of New York.

M'ADOO VISITS DAVIS; WILL BACK TICKET; SMITH ALSO CALLS

Candidate Confers With the Governor on Election Prospects in This State.

CHOOSING A PARTY PILOT

Clem Shaver, West Virginia National Committeeman, May Manage Campaign.

BRENNAN PLEDGES CHICAGO

McAdoo at "The Follies" Says: "We Must Get Together and Elect a Democrat."

John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, took up yesterday the question of finding a manager for the campaign, who may or may not be the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. In the course of the day he saw several of the more important leaders of the Democratic Party at the home of Frank L. Polk, 6 East Sixty-eighth Street. The selection of a campaign manager will not be made until some time late next week.

Among the callers on Mr. Davis were William G. McAdoo and Governor Alfred E. Smith, the leaders for a long time in the race in the convention for the nomination that went finally to Mr. Davis. Mr. McAdoo stayed with Mr. Davis for more than an hour. He was reticent as to the matters discussed when he emerged from the house. His visit, and information obtained from some of those close to him, makes it seem highly improbable there is any truth in the reports that he would bolt the ticket and possibly support La Follette, but Mr. McAdoo is to issue a statement on the point today when he sails for Europe.

An incident which indicated the likelihood that Mr. McAdoo would support the Democratic national ticket occurred at the performance of "The Follies" at the New Amsterdam Theatre last night.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo were in the audience and when Will Rogers, with his usual raillery, pointed Mr. McAdoo out there was an outburst of applause, and the Californian was finally brought to his feet and made the following statement:

"I am leaving for Europe with my family tomorrow for a little diversion, but now that the convention is over we must all get together and make sure that we elect a Democrat."

Both actor and candidate were loudly applauded.

Governor Smith, George Brennan of Illinois, Josephus Daniels, Henry Morgenthau and others called to pay their respects and to give personal assurances of loyal support. Governor Smith, it is understood, will be asked to tour the country for the Democratic ticket, inasmuch as the race in the convention has made him a national figure and he is known as an especially fine campaigner. Whether the Governor will accept is another matter. His present disposition, his friends say, is to avoid the task if he can.

Guards Around Davis Estate.

Mr. Davis did not have time for an interview with the newspaper men yesterday afternoon and no statement came from him. He motored in from Locust Valley in the morning, stayed practically the whole day at the Polk home, and motored back to Locust Valley, where guards have been placed around his estate, last night. He will play golf today, probably at the Piping Rock Club, and tomorrow expects to do a little horseback riding. If Mrs. Davis has her way, judging from what she said yesterday, he will spend a good part of both today and tomorrow resting.

Mr. McAdoo, who had spent the greater part of the day at the Hotel Vanderbilt, arrived at the Polk house a few minutes before 5 o'clock, in a taxicab. It chanced that the imitation license plates bearing the name of "Al Smith" and a printed Smith sign, such as were frequently seen during the convention, were still on the cab. As soon as the cab drew up Mr. McAdoo alighted and entered the house so quickly that no one of the waiting newspaper men had an opportunity to speak with him. He had called by appointment, it was learned later.

Mr. McAdoo remained with Mr. Davis until nearly half past six. He said he had talked over the political situation with Mr. Davis, but would make no other statement, further than to say he had paid his respects to Mr. Davis, whom he had known for many years. When he was asked point blank, in view of the reports that had been current, whether he would support the Davis and Bryan ticket, he said:

"I'll deal with that question in a statement I shall issue before I sail for Europe tomorrow if I can find time to prepare it."

At Mr. McAdoo's apartments in the Vanderbilt it was said the statement would be issued from the steamer. From the Polk home Mr. McAdoo returned to the Vanderbilt. He went to the Ambassador for dinner with Mrs. McAdoo.

Shaver May Run Campaign.

Two or three of the men with whom Mr. Davis discussed the question of finding some one to run the campaign advanced suggestions. Among those with whom the matter was taken up were Cordell Hull, present Chairman of the National Committee; George White of Ohio, who had charge of the Cox campaign; George Brennan of Chicago and Clem Shaver, National Committeeman from West Virginia, who, at present, is regarded as the man most likely to be chosen. Mr. Hull has positively refused to continue as head of the National Committee and Mr. White, while willing to do anything in his power to aid whoever may be chosen with the best-fits of his experience, does not want the job himself.

Mr. Brennan, like all the others who called, expressed great optimism as to the outlook for the success of the ticket, Mr. Brennan promising Mr. Davis that he would carry Chicago for him without doubt. Governor Smith also promised support, as he had done in the speech he made at Madison Square Garden on the last night of the convention, and he and Mr. Davis canvassed thoroughly the situation in this State, which is regarded as of the highest importance. There are to be other conferences on the management of the campaign early in the week and it is likely some decision will be made before the end of the week.

Davis Going to Maine.

Unless something prevents, Mr. Davis will then go away for a rest, possibly to Islesboro, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson have a Summer home there and they sent Mr. Davis yesterday an invitation to visit them, which he may accept. He will be away, if the plan goes through, for possibly two weeks, returning in time for the notification ceremonies, to be held either at Locust Valley or Clarksburg, W. Va. The reorganization of the National Committee will take place immediately after the notification ceremonies, and active campaign work will begin almost at once.

Another visitor to Mr. Davis yesterday was Henry Morgenthau. It is expected that Mr. Morgenthau will again be active in the financial management of the campaign, as he has been in other years. It is believed that one of the matters discussed between Mr. Davis and Mr. Morgenthau yesterday was the financing of the campaign. Among the many others who called were Herbert C. Pell, Democratic State Chairman; David Hunter Miller, who was the local manager of the McAdoo boom during its early stages; Hollins Randolph, Chairman of the Georgia delegation, which was perhaps more stubbornly in favor of the nomination of McAdoo than any other group in the convention; John Cohen, National Committeeman from Georgia; J. B. Cotton, at one time law partner of Mr. McAdoo; Joseph Davis of Missouri, one of the pioneer boomers of John W. Davis; Melville E. Stone, Governor Trapp of Oklahoma, and Ralph Smith of the McAdoo campaign forces.

Lady Astor Cables Congratulations.

Scores of telegrams and letters of congratulation were again received by Mr. Davis at the Polk home. Not the least interesting of the messages was one from Lady Astor, one of the Langhorne girls of Virginia. The message read:

"There will be only one better day, and that is the day you win."

Another message from across the seas came from Brand Whitlock, who is now in Brussels. It read:

"Heartiest congratulations. It is a rare satisfaction to have a candidate whom one can support with such pride and enthusiasm. I am simply delighted."

Arthur Woods, former Police Commissioner, wired:

"Congratulations to the Democratic Party and earnest hope that it may live up in all other ways to its choice of the candidate."

Wilson Cross and fifty other Americans in London, including Medill McCormick, George M. Cassatt and George D. McLean, wired:

"Officers and members of the American Club in London, regardless of party, wish to congratulate yourself, the Democratic Party and America on your nomination. Hearty good wishes from all of us."

Richard Olney wired from Woods Hole, Mass.:

"Mrs. Olney and I thrilled with your nomination. We are supremely satisfied. Accept our affectionate regards for Mrs. Davis and yourself and best wishes."

The telegram from Charles Dana Gibson read:

"Overjoyed at splendid and inspiring news. You and Nell come up for a rest, which you both must need."

Homer Cummings, National Committeeman from Connecticut, a McAdoo adherent, wired:

"Heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a successful campaign."

Former Senator Gore of Oklahoma wired:

"You were my first choice from the first. Congratulations. Command me."

George Foster Peabody Wires.

George Foster Peabody wired from Saratoga Springs, N. Y.:

"It rejoices your friends greatly to observe how universally your character is acclaimed and how your nomination has revealed the essential character of the convention which you so effectively stated in your speech. What our country needs is true leadership into the paths of progress which Woodrow Wilson so thoroughly outlined. I rejoice in your challenge to reaction and your promise to forward march. The world needs the leadership of the United States, which we can give with you at the helm. My congratulations, please, to Mrs. Davis as well as to the Democratic Party and the country."

Professor Irving Fisher of Yale telegraphed from Ogden, Utah: "The news for which I have hoped for years, now that it has come, is too good to be true. It reaches me enroute to California in the midst of a five-month speaking trip on the League of Nations under the Non-Partisan Association, but count me henceforth as a Democrat and at your service until election day. I never have wanted so intensely for anybody's election as for President as I do now for yours. Please strive as soon and as often as you can to counteract the harm done by Baker's speech, which, though wonderful, has created a general impression that the Democratic Party has repudiated the League. See my letter in THE NEW YORK TIMES of 6th or thereabouts."

Message From Rockwell.

Coincident with the visit of Mr. McAdoo to the Polk home, David Ladd Rockwell, the manager in chief of the McAdoo campaign, made public, in the Vanderbilt Hotel, a letter he had sent to Mr. Davis, and talked at some length on the candidate. The letter was as follows:

Hon John W. Davis,
Care of Frank L. Polk,
6 East Sixty-eighth Street,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Davis:

Please accept my warmest congratulations upon your nomination. Your record as a citizen, lawyer and public official is so splendid that our party is assured a leadership of the highest order, and when you are elected President I am admirably equipped is bound to make a record that all Americans may well be proud of.

I want to take this occasion to assure you of my enthusiastic support and to wish you the success that I know will be yours.

With my high regard, I am, believe me,
Cordially yours,
DAVID LADD ROCKWELL.

Judge Rockwell was asked many questions, first because of the repeated rumors that Mr. McAdoo was going to "bolt" the ticket, and second because there had been reports of a rupture between Rockwell and McAdoo. These latter reports, Judge Rockwell absolutely denied. In his talk he said:

"I believe, from a personal knowledge of the man and also from some talks I had today with men who know him well, that Mr. Davis is a real progressive. I have every reason to feel from what has been told me by men who are themselves thoroughly progressive, that Mr. Davis is progressive and that any association he may have had with large business interests have been purely professional and that is, after all, the finest compliment that could be paid his worth and ability as a lawyer.

"There can be no question that Mr. Davis will bring to the leadership of the Democratic Party ability of the highest order."

Believes McAdoo is Loyal.

"Is it your belief that Mr. McAdoo, judging from your association with him, will earnestly and actively support the Democratic ticket?"

"Yes. It is impossible to think of Mr. McAdoo supporting a third ticket. And no candidate was ever nominated with a clearer title than Mr. Davis and with more right to expect the united support of the leaders of his party."

Mr. Rockwell went on to say that his official relations with the McAdoo cause ceased the minute the McAdoo letter releasing delegates was read in the convention, and that the moment Mr. Davis was nominated he became his, Rockwell's, candidate. The Judge votes in Cleveland, Ohio.

Judge Rockwell sent a letter of somewhat similar purport to Charles W. Bryan, candidate for Vice President. Governor Bryan left early in the day for Atlantic City, praising New York City for its hospitality. He said:

"I can say nothing definite as to my plans until my arrival in Lincoln and I have had a chance to get my work there in shape."

When he was asked if he expected to be active in the campaign he answered:

"There is always action in anything I am connected with."

Smith Repudiates "Interview."

Governor Smith spent the greater part of his day at Sea Gate, taking a swim and staying in the water for an hour before coming to New York. He went to the Biltmore before visiting the Polk home to see Mr. Davis. While there he said he would go to Albany on Monday. Asked if he had seen what purported to be an interview with him in The New York American, he said:

"No, I have not, because I do not read those papers. They are not fit for any reasonable man to pay any attention to. I have been told what was printed and there is only one thing to say. There's no truth in it."

At Locust Valley, Long Island, yesterday, arrangements were made for posting guards at all the entrances of the Davis estate, beginning this morning. There has been a constant stream of visitors there since the nomination was made. Residents of the locality, reporters and camera men have made up the bulk of the crowd and Mrs. Davis, while greatly pleased, nevertheless thinks her husband is entitled to a little quiet.

"I can only say, what I have said before," she said yesterday, "that I am greatly pleased and very proud that Mr. Davis was selected." Then, saying her husband would not go to New York on Saturday or Sunday, she continued: "He will be kept in absolute quiet. The strain of the past few days has been altogether too much for him. No man can stand such a pace. It is for that reason that we are going to post guards about the house and keep out all visitors."

DAVIS 'SIMPLY NORMAL' IN HIS COLLEGE DAYS

Professor Moreland Says He Was Neither Unduly Mischievous Nor Unusually Bright.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 11.—Some interesting sidelights on the college career of John W. Davis were related today by Professor S. T. Moreland, formerly President of Washington and Lee University and now a member of the University of Tennessee faculty.

Professor Moreland, who was an instructor in physics when Mr. Davis attended Washington and Lee, said that, unlike most men who rise to fame in later years, it could not be said of Mr. Davis that he was either distinctly mischievous or unusually bright. He was not continually creating disturbances and providing thrills for his classmates, nor was he so abnormally studious that he stood out in his classes as a criterion for others.

John W. Davis was simply a normal young man, Professor Moreland said, though it must be admitted that he was a leader and in some of his subjects was head and shoulders above the others. He also was extremely clean-cut and gentlemanly in character, and impressed one as being fitted for the vocation which he has since pursued.

John W. Davis was always held in high esteem by the faculty members of Washington and Lee, Professor Moreland stated, and after his graduation he was jokingly asked many times when he would become a candidate for the Presidency. Professor Moreland said he met Mr. Davis while on a trip to the East last Summer, and while they were discussing old times they joked about the possibility of Mr. Davis's chances for the Presidential nomination.

ODDS ON COOLIDGE 2½ TO 1.

One Bet at 1 to 8 That C. W. Bryan Will Be President.

Odds on the re-election of President Coolidge in November lengthened further in the financial district yesterday, when J. S. Fried & Co. reported odds of 2½ to 1 in his favor. These odds, compared with 11 to 5 quoted on Thursday and 3 to 1 a week ago, Fried & Co. said that they had plenty of money to offer on Coolidge at 2½ to 1, but that takers were few, because of the scarcity of funds to back Davis, the Democratic nominee.

A unique wager placed in the financial district yesterday was a moderate-sized wager at odds of 1 to 8 that Governor Bryan of Nebraska would be elected the next President by vote of the House of Representatives. At the same time Fried & Co. were quoting odds of 3½ to 1 that the election of a President would not go to the House for a final decision.

The bet on Bryan, it was announced, resulted from the nomination of La Follette on a third party ticket, and the possibility that he will obtain a sufficient number of electoral votes to prevent a choice between Coolidge and Davis, thereby throwing the selection into the House.

the mines, and this forced the coal combination to reduce its prices.

"Likewise we established gas filling stations operated by the State. We got our pumps going three weeks ago and they had only been going three days When the Gasoline Trust reduced their price from 23 cents to 17 cents a gallon. This was done in the capitals and I have notified the oil combine that unless the price of gasoline is reduced to 15 cents by the time of my return within the next ten day I will order it put on sale by the State in all sections.

"The people saved $10,000,000 last year by our coal stand and will save $600,000 a month in gasoline.

"I mention these things not because of any pride of achievement but to show how a Government, Federal or otherwise, should operate economically, efficient and with the thought of the people's welfare continually foremost.

"I am not in favor of Federal, State or municipal ownership of anything except natural resources, such as water; but when business combinations, particularly utilities and those supplying vitally necessary products, defy all authority and endeavor to mulct the public, then I think that the Government should sternly repress them, using whatever means may be most efficient."

Governor Bryan said that he would not form any plans for his campaign until his return to Lincoln, Neb. He would not comment upon the La Follette candidacy, declaring that there had not been sufficient time to observe the reaction of this upon the people.

Believes McAdoo Won't Bolt.

Referring to a rumor that McAdoo was considering the formation of a new party, Governor Bryan said:

"That report is very unfair to Mr. McAdoo. I do not believe it. I did not see him after the convention, but he called me on the telephone and congratulated me and as I understood it, will heartily support the nominees."

Governor Bryan's term as Nebraska's Chief Executive expires Jan. 1. He was renominated six days ago, but will withdraw and will not run.

"This is my chief regret," he said. "I fully appreciate the great honor given me with the Vice Presidential nomination and will endeavor to be worthy of it, but our program is well under way in Nebraska. The people are with us, and the task there is one which I love and in which I am deeply interested."

Governor Bryan pointed out that when elected he received 82 per cent. of the total vote. He was also nominated six days ago on the Farmer-Labor ticket for Governor, he said.

The Democratic candidate and Justice Thompson left Atlantic City this afternoon at 4:25 for Washington, where he may meet his brother, William Jennings Bryan. He will leave the capital for Nebraska within the next day or two.

Bryan Eulogizes Davis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, tonight paid a high tribute to John W. Davis.

"Mr. Davis is qualified by training, experience and temperament for the great office of President," said Governor Bryan. "He is one of the ablest men ever proposed for the honor by any political party. He will make a great President."

Governor Bryan came to Washington this afternoon a few hours after his brother, William J. Bryan, had arrived and departed for St. Louis to join Mrs. Bryan, who is ill in that city. The Governor said that he was here to attend to some personal business, and that after paying his respects to the officers of the Democratic National Committee at headquarters tomorrow he would start westward.

The Vice Presidential candidate said that he would reach Chicago Sunday morning, but remain there only a few hours between trains. He said that if he met any party leaders in Chicago there would only be brief opportunity to discuss plans for the campaign.

After eulogizing the Democratic Presidential candidate, Governor Bryan made this statement relative to the Democratic platform.

"It is the most forward-looking document of the kind ever adopted by a political party," he said. "It is progressive to the core and will attract the support of our national ticket thousands of independent voters who in recent years have been casting off party alignments."

Governor Bryan said that until he was officially notified of his nomination he would not be prepared to discuss campaign issues at length. He said that the farmers had discovered that the tariff was hostile to their interests and that they would vote for the party that was pledged to reduce rates.

"The farmers have been pinched as a result of high prices following the imposition of high duties on all the products that they buy," said Governor Bryan. "Recent experiences have convinced the farmers that Republican tariffs are a fallacy and sham so far as they are concerned. This Administration has defied the currency, and this has reacted disastrously on the agricultural classes.

"The new Republican tariff has added three and a half billion dollars to the cost of living, and most of this has fallen on the farmers. The Western farmer has been drawing away from organized parties in recent years. It is this dissatisfied element which is assured of relief by the platform on which Mr. Davis is running for the Presidency, that will undoubtedly turn the scales in favor of my distinguished colleague."

The attention of Governor Bryan was directed to reports to the effect that he might be endorsed by the National Progressive Committee as the running mate of Robert M. La Follette on the independent ticket. He expressed great interest in these reports, but stated that as he had no first-hand information on the subject he was not prepared to discuss the subject.

BRYAN SAYS DAVIS SOUGHT HIS BROTHER

Declares "Charley" Met Requirements for Running Mate Set Forth by Candidate.

BOTH PROGRESSIVE AND DRY

Commoner Repeats Pledge to Support Davis Without Qualification or Reservation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—William J. Bryan stopped off in Washington today long enough to grant an interview in which he expressed confidence in the success of the Democratic ticket headed by John W. Davis and Governor Charles W. Bryan and reiterated his support of the ticket without restriction, qualification or mental reservation. He left this afternoon for St. Louis, where he will join Mrs. Bryan.

While Mr. Bryan has made no plans for the campaign, he declared that he stood ready to take off his coat and put his shoulder to the wheel for the success of the party. He had nothing but praise for the Democratic Presidential nominee. He said he had high respect for the ability and opinions of Mr. Davis, and, although not in sympathy with his former business connections, he believed that when Mr. Davis delivered his speech of acceptance the prejudice which any might have because of his corporate connections would be wiped away.

Mr. Bryan does not relish statements made in some newspapers intimating that he might not support the ticket.

"As soon as the nomination was announced," he said, "I told newspaper men, that I would support the ticket. When my brother was nominated for Vice President I added that I still intend to support the ticket."

Says Objection Was Not Personal.

"I opposed the nomination of Mr. Davis, always explaining that the objection was not personal; that I entertained the highest opinion of him as a man, and regarded him as a man of exceptional ability.

"I never questioned his own personal attitude on public questions. My only objection was that his professional connections as attorney for big corporations raised a presumption with the masses that would be difficult to overcome.

"When he was nominated at once announced my intention to support him, adding that I preferred to make my fight with the Democratic Party and to correct within the party any mistakes the party might make, instead of attempting to correct them by securing defeat of my party and the triumph of another party.

"This is the position I took in 1904, when Judge Parker was nominated. John W. Davis was then, when the party nominated a candidate to whom I was opposed, I went to the New York delegation and told them that Nebraska would support any candidate for Vice President whom Judge Parker presented. I was not willing to embarrass him by aiding in the selection of a running mate who was objectionable to him.

"I did the same this year. As soon as Mr. Davis was nominated I told the New York, Virginia delegations that I would support the candidate whom Mr. Davis procured, and I would have done so even if it had been necessary to oppose my brother Charles.

Says Davis Favored Bryan.

"But, much to my surprise, Mr. Davis favored the nomination of Governor Bryan, not because he was my brother, but because he filled the requirements set forth by Mr. Davis, who desired, first, a man from the West; second, a man who was progressive, and, third, a man who was dry.

"It just so happened that Governor Bryan is the only Executive of a State near the centre of the agricultural section. He is a progressive, and he is dry.

"Senator Walsh would have met these conditions, but he declined. Mr. Meredith would also have met them, but he declined. After examining the list of eligibles, which was reduced by these declinations, Mr. Davis expressed himself as favorable to Bryan. His decision would have been the same if Governor Bryan had been a resident of mine.

"I conferred with Mr. Davis yesterday afternoon and found him delightfully frank in his discussion of political questions, and I believe his interpretation of our splendid Democratic platform will go far toward overcoming the presumption raised by his professional connections and make it easy for men like myself to support him. His speeches can do more than any other kind of literature to convince Progressives. His first statement that there can be no compromise with reaction is construed as very important.

"I can probably speak more understandingly in regard to Governor Bryan than any one else can, because he has been my most intimate co-laborer in politics for twenty-eight years. He is nearly seven years younger than I am—he is 57 and I am 64. He was 23 when I made my first campaign in 1896, and was at the time a commercial traveler, representing a wholesale house in Omaha.

"My correspondence became so heavy following the campaign of 1896 that I was compelled to put my work in the hands of a secretary. I asked him to take charge of my correspondence. From that time until he was elected Governor two years ago he was my secretary, my political manager, the publisher of my paper when it was organized, and the superintendent of my business affairs.

Tells of Brother's Record.

"Charley has acquaintance with public men second to none. He has supported the four amendments to the Constitution, and all are from legislation with which I have been connected. He advocated woman suffrage long before I did, my advocacy not having started until it became a national issue.

"Besides assisting me in all national matters, he gradually took leadership in municipal affairs in Lincoln, having been elected Mayor of that city in spite of a large Republican majority. He is responsible for the establishment of the municipal coal yard, which saved the people $150,000 in one Winter.

"It was his record in municipal affairs that did more than anything else to secure the nomination for Governor, and his record as Governor was a large factor in securing him the nomination for Vice President.

"He is running on his own record—that record will strengthen the ticket as it become known. He has reduced expenses, and by his fight on the gasoline monopoly is reducing the expenses to the people of the State for that product several hundred thousand dollars per month. He has also, by bringing the coal men and the consumers together all over Nebraska, effected a saving of more than a million dollars a year in coal.

"He compelled a 33 1-3 per cent. reduction in the price of gravel, an act that saved $7,000 alone in one short piece of road of about ten miles.

"He has developed into a very able executive and a very efficient political manager, being especially experienced in the work of organization."

TRAIN KILLS TWO IN AUTO.

New York Woman and Her Mother the Victims—Baby Unhurt.

UNADILLA, N. Y., July 11.—Mrs. Burton A. Grant of Candor, Tioga County, and her daughter, Mrs. Christopher Fisher, of New York City were killed today when their automobile was struck by a milk train at Potter's Crossing, near here. Mr. Grant escaped with a face wound, and Mrs. Fisher's two-month's-old baby, sleeping in an automobile hammock, was unharmed.

Grant was unable to explain the accident. He said the party had been touring New York State for a week and were returning to their home in Candor.

The crossing, at grade with the view of the track obstructed, has been the scene of several fatal accidents in the last few years.

AUTÓBUS TOURISTS HERE.

Twenty From Chicago Start Return Trip Today Via Washington.

Reaching the half-way mark in the first personally conducted autobus tour between Chicago and New York, twenty tourists arrived here yesterday morning and went to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The trip is sponsored by the Garford Motor Coach Company and the Gray Line tours. Stops were made at Michigan City, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Detroit and Buffalo.

The coach possesses all the comforts of a Pullman car, and a radio set picks up the news along the route of travel.

The tourists will leave this afternoon for Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Washington and return to Chicago July 19.

2 ACCUSED IN FATAL JOKE.

Charged With Murder In Death of Youth Lured to Cottage.

FREEHOLD, N. J., July 11.—James Downey and Michael Flaherty of Keansburg were held without bail on a charge of murder in the County Jail here today in connection with the death yesterday of George Rexon, 17 years old, who was accidentally shot while he was being victim of a practical joke at Belford, near Keansburg. Six of the eight men held as material witnesses were released in bail.

Rexon was the victim of a group who lured him to a bungalow at Belford with the story that "a fireman's widow" was infatuated with him. When he reached the bungalow several shots were fired and one bullet struck him.

LA FOLLETTE PLANS DRIVE IN THE EAST

day are actively identified with his efforts and some of them were enrolled delegates in the Cleveland convention. The delegation was headed by William H. Johnston, President of the Machinists' International Union, Chairman of the Progressive National Committee and Permanent Chairman of the Cleveland convention. He was accompanied by seventy representatives of the railroad brotherhoods, who had assembled here to consider problems relating to their organizations and who took advantage of the opportunity to congratulate Mr. Bryan on his nomination.

Among those who were presented to the Senator by Mr. Johnston were B. M. Jewell, President of the Railway Employes' Department of the American Federation of Labor; Glen E. Willis, Assistant Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; David M. Robertson, President of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; E. J. Manion, President of the Order of Railway Telegraphers; Edward Keating, former Representative in Congress from Colorado and now Editor of Labor, and Basil Manley, officially designated as "director of the people's legislative service."

Mr. La Follette received the visitors at his home, and the conference lasted more than an hour. There was a general interchange of felicitations, and then Mr. La Follette made an informal address. It is understood that he told the labor leaders that their pledges of support gave great satisfaction to him, and that he was greatly encouraged by reports favorable to his cause that he had received since the adjournment of the Cleveland convention.

No Talk of Vice Presidency.

So far as could be learned there was no discussion concerning the selection of a candidate for Vice President.

It may be stated on authority that the La Follette group never intended naming Governor Bryan of Nebraska, the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, as the Senator's running mate. There has never been any thought in the mind of Mr. La Follette, according to leaders close to him, of entering into any such fusion arrangement. In the first place, they point out, the Democratic platform adopted at New York is out of tune with the declaration of principles framed at Cleveland. In the next place they assert that Governor Bryan is not the type of progressive that Mr. La Follette would choose.

They suggest that the connection of Governor Bryan's name with the La Follette Vice Presidential nomination is based on the hypothesis that the next President will be chosen by either the Senate or the House, and that the La Follette forces should take up Mr. Bryan with the idea that a deadlock in the House would eventually be broken by the selection of Mr. Bryan for President by the Senate. This reasoning is faulty, they contend, because Mr. La Follette is running on the theory that he has as good a chance of election as either of the other candidates.

There will be a gathering of La Follette supporters tomorrow, following a call issued by Chairman Johnston a week ago. Those asked to meet are members of the Executive Committee of the National Committee for Progressive Political Action and they have been called to devise ways and means to finance the La Follette campaign.

The Executive Committee will also draw up a series of suggestions to guide the National Committee in its work. The Executive Committee has practically decided, it was said today, that the funds to run the La Follette campaign must come from individual subscribers who will be asked to give either lump sums or to guarantee certain payments from time to time.

Announcement was also made that the subcommittee will recommend the establishment of headquarters at San Francisco as well as at New York and Chicago. The main headquarters will be located in the latter city.

The National Committee will meet here on July 18 and continue its sessions for three or four days. Representative Nelson, who will be in charge of the Chicago headquarters, will come to the meetings of the National Committee.

On the arrival here of the National Committee a date will be fixed for the official notification of Senator La Follette that he has been named as the organization's candidate for President. Coincident with this announcement Mr. La Follette, after conferring with the National Committee, will announce the name of his running mate.

CHARGE PARTY BETRAYAL.

Farmer-Labor Leader Declares Majority Will Support La Follette.

ST. PAUL, July 11.—William Mahoney of St. Paul, chief organizer of the recent Farmer-Labor Party convention here, charged today that the Executive Committee "has betrayed the convention," in endorsing William Z. Foster, and Benjamin Gitlow, candidates for President and Vice President on the Workers' Party ticket.

Base misrepresentation was being attempted when the committee tried to give the impression that the party as formed in St. Paul would support Foster and Gitlow, Mr. Mahoney said, asserting that the "committee acted entirely outside any authority granted it by the St. Paul convention, and represents no one but itself.

"I am delighted in one way at the manner in which the situation has been clarified by this development," he continues. "It puts the Communists into an unmistakably party of their own and will eliminate all misunderstandings as to their connection with any other party.

"La Follette will get the support of all Farmer-Labor elements in the Northwest, I am confident. No attempt to make it appear that the St. Paul convention would stand for another candidate opposing La Follette can be successful."

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 11.—Oklahoma electors of the Farmer-Labor Party will not be guided by the action of the Executive Committee, which has repudiated Senator La Follette as the party's Presidential candidate, Dan Hogan, Chairman of the State Convention declared today. La Follette was endorsed by the party in Oklahoma at its State Convention.

LA FOLLETTE NEEDS 50,000 STATE AIDS

They Must Sign His Nominating Petitions Under Diverse Laws Governing Candidacy.

12,000 ARE NECESSARY HERE

In Most Instances Signers Must Be Non-Primary Voters—Requirements in Various States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—To get his electors on the Presidential election ballots in the various States next November Senator La Follette will have to obtain the signatures of approximately 50,000 qualified voters, in most instances non-primary voters.

In many of the States this process will be a mere formality, as, for example, in Ohio, Georgia, Virginia and South Carolina, where the candidate is required merely to file notice of his candidacy, or in Tennessee, where the signatures of only fifteen voters are required.

In other States the requirements are more complicated, as in Nevada, where 2,718 of a total registration of less than 30,000 is required, and in Florida, where the petition must be signed by twenty-five voters in each of the fifty-four counties.

He will need 12,000 signatures in New York State, about 9,000 in California, and a few more than 6,000 in Pennsylvania.

In practically all States the petitions must be filed with the Secretary of State or the State Election Board, and in many the signatures must be attested. The time for filing nominating petitions varies from 100 to 10 days before the election.

Everything considered, it would appear that the getting of his own name and the names of his electors on the ballots is one of the simplest of the tasks confronting the Wisconsin Senator in the fight he has begun for the Presidency.

There follows a summary of the various State laws governing independent candidacies for the Presidency:

$20,000 IN JEWELRY MISSING AT NEWPORT

No Signs of a Break Are Found in Summer Home of Mrs. Marsden J. Terry.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 11.—Jewelry valued, it is said, at over $20,000 belonging to Mrs. Marsden J. Perry of Providence is missing from her Summer home, Bleak House, on Ocean Avenue.

A robbery is believed to have been committed some time between last Sunday and Tuesday. The police have withheld information on the case.

It was learned today, however, that the house was not broken into, for no evidence of a break was to be found. The thief may have found a door or window open and entered in that way. The police have been checking up on every one who regularly has had access to the house, but whether they have found any clue upon which to work is not known.

The pieces of jewelry missing, the nature of which has not been given out, were prized very highly by Mrs. Perry.

CITY TRUCKS CRASH AT CORNER; 6 HURT

Fire Patrol and a Water Supply Wagon Collide at Top Speed in Brooklyn.

RUSHING TO BROKEN MAIN

Accident Delays Repairs and 15-Foot Geyser Fills Streets for Blocks and Floods Basements.

An emergency truck of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, hastening at top speed to the spot where a water main had burst, was swept to the sidewalk last night at Nevins and Bergen Streets, Brooklyn, by a motor truck of the fire patrol. Six men were injured, of whom four were taken to hospitals. Eight others escaped by leaping from the trucks.

The ponderous machines narrowly missed a number of passers-by. The water supply truck was driven against a trolley post and the fire patrol car smashed into a crockery store.

At Central and Myrtle Avenues, Brooklyn, where the water main had burst, the delay in repairs because of the crash added to the heavy damage to property from cascading torrents which poured through the streets for three hours.

A gang of laborers of the Department of Water Supply had worked during the afternoon in an excavation at De Kalb, Central and Myrtle Avenues, repairing a leak in the water main. For the night the hole had been filled in with cinders. The water main gave way at 8:30 o'clock with a roar and let loose a fifteen-foot geyser. The police of the Wilson Avenue precinct telephoned immediately to the Department of Water Supply.

Both Trucks Were Rushing.

An emergency motor truck was started at once from the department's headquarters at Degraw and Nevins Streets, Brooklyn. The truck was driven by John J. Sterebel, 28 years old, of 181 Highland Place, Brooklyn, and held five other men. At 12 Dean Street a machine of Fire Patrol 8 was setting out for a fire at Coney Island Avenue and Turner Place, manned by eight. The driver was Michael Patten, 32, of 200 Court Street, Brooklyn.

The two cars, their gongs clanging, reached the intersection of Bergen and Nevins Streets at the same time. There was no chance for either chauffeur, when he saw the other car, to stop his truck. Each of the drivers yelled an alarm and jumped. All on both trucks had jumped or were leaping when the fire patrol smashed into the Department of Water Supply machine.

The impact sent the emergency truck against a trolley post on the sidewalk. The firepatrol careened over the sidewalk and plunged into a crockery store at 143 Nevins Street for a distance of two feet, smashing the plate-glass windows and the articles on display.

Reserves from the Bergen Street Police Station were called out as a crowd of thousands gathered. Ambulances arrived from Holy Family and Cumberland Street Hospitals with four doctors.

A List of the Injured.

MUIR IS HANGED DESPITE ALL PLEAS

New York Youth Writes Letter to Mother and Then Coolly Faces the Gallows.

FATE UNCERTAIN TO THE END

Counsel for Mother Denounces Execution as a "Ghastly Miscarriage of Justice."

MONTREAL, July 11.—Walter Muir of New York was hanged at Valleyfield, Quebec, early today for the murder of Henri Laviolette last September.

Muir shot Laviolette after a quarrel in a Valleyfield barroom. Laviolette, according to court testimony, had struck Muir's crony, a crippled man named Joseph Plant, during an argument over the merits of a hunting dog.

Muir was pronounced dead fourteen minutes after the springing of the trap. After the inquest the body was claimed on behalf of relatives in New York, where burial will take place.

Before he walked to the gallows Muir wrote the following letter to his mother:

"To my heartbroken mother:

"My poor mother; how you must be suffering since my death; but you must be brave and remember I died a good Christian and in a state of grace. Always think of me, as I will be watching and praying over you until you join me in Heaven.

"It was the will of God that I should leave this earth at this time. I am dying a happy death. I love you with all my heart and will pray to God always for you. Good-bye, mother dear. May God bless you.

"Your loving son, WALTER".

Fate Uncertain Till Last Moment.

Not until the noose was slipped was it certain that the sentence would be carried into effect, so unremitting and widespread had been the efforts of the Countess de Richelieu, Mrs. May Muir, the boy's mother, and scores of other influential persons, to obtain a new trial. Last-minute tearful entreaties failed equally with the more formal legal beseechings.

Muir, who was 21 years old, went to his death without tears. He bore himself stiffly, with an odd smile on his face which twitched about unquiet lips and eyes reddened from lack of sleep. His head he carried high.

The evening before he had been in the arms of his mother, a courageous woman, who had battled unceasingly for her son. She had arrived in Valleyfield to bid her son the last adieu. She stayed with him, wept with him, smiled with him and cheered him for the last time. Then she left for Huntington.

Mrs. Muir left nothing undone to obtain stay of execution, and not until the black flag was flying from the staff at Valleyfield Jail did she cease her efforts.

Several hours before the time fixed for execution Muir's mother was in front of the prison, seated in an automobile with one of her nieces. It was said that Muir himself had requested that his mother be not allowed to see him again.

Muir's body was removed tonight to New York and will be taken to Mrs. Muir's home at 612 West 182d Street.

Pleaded With Victim's Widow.

According to Mme. Henri Laviolette, widow of the murdered man, Mrs. Muir called on her at Valleyfield to plead for her intervention. Mme. Laviolette was away from home at the time, and Mrs. Muir, she said, then visited other members of the family and sought their aid. This they refused.

Mme. Laviolette's comment was: "A husband is dearer than a son, that's what I will tell her if she asks me to intercede for her boy. All the money in the world cannot give me back the best man in many countries."

Bertha Rose Laviolette, aged 17, niece of the murder victim, died yesterday from a paralytic stroke attributed by relatives to grief for her uncle.

Muir contended that when he drew his pistol during the quarrel with Laviolette in the barroom he only meant to scare the man. He fired two bullets into the floor, one of them glancing and striking Laviolette in the breast.

A jury found Muir guilty and he was sentenced to hang last April. A reprieve was granted to permit an appeal. The appeal was dismissed.

It was then that the Duchesse de Richelieu, formerly Miss Elinor Douglas Wise of Baltimore, Md., opened her long unavailing struggle to free the youth. She canceled all social engagements and enlisted in her fight men and women of prominence in Canada. In New York a committee under Miss Juliet Thompson has worked for Muir night and day for the last two months.

These efforts ramified to Washington, where, through Howard C. Dickinson, nephew of the Secretary of State, the Department of State sent a plea for executive clemency to the British Embassy. The Consul at Ottawa was further requested to reinforce this plea by personal representations. These were unavailing.

Calls It "Miscarriage of Justice."

Walter Muir's execution in Canada yesterday morning was due to a "ghastly miscarriage of justice," according to Howard Carter Dickinson of 72 West Fortieth Street, the lawyer who represented the boy's mother, Mrs. May Muir, in her futile fight to save his life. Mr. Dickinson was one of a number of New Yorkers, among them the Duchesse de Richelieu, her sister, Miss Julia Wise, Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram and Miss Juliet Thompson, who took an active interest in the Muir case.

"In face of the urgent representations which were made by the Department of State and of the appeals for mercy to the Canadian Government and of the facts in mitigation of the extreme penalty which has been imposed," said Mr. Dickinson yesterday, "I am unable to comprehend the refusal of the Canadian Government to grant even a stay of execution.

"In the resentment which we naturally feel over his tragic end and in the sympathy which is aroused for his brave and enduring mother we must not overlook the fact that outside of Valleyfield there existed in Canada a very generous and sympathetic interest in this American boy who has paid with his life for the unintentional taking of another."

Mr. Dickinson declared in his statement that "had a new trial been granted unimpeachable evidence could have been given to the effect that Muir was so intoxicated as to negative entirely any premeditation or intent to kill."

"Muir did not take the stand and no evidence was offered in his behalf," said the lawyer. "It fatefully follows that the deliberations of the jury were untempered by any mitigating circumstances. It is to be observed that in the consideration of his appeal the higher court could not look beyond the evidence, but that Mr. Justice Greenshields expressed his opinion that a verdict of manslaughter would have met the ends of justice.

"There had been submitted to the Minister of Justice pleas for mercy from many civic and patriotic organizations here; petitions containing thousands of signatures had been forwarded. Emphasis had been given to the intense public feeling aroused against Muir in Valleyfield, but I know also that a petition signed by 300 residents of Valleyfield was submitted to the Minister of Justice, and as well petitions signed by over 1,200 residents in that vicinity."

The boy's mother, who has been in Canada for the past few days to continue her fight to the very end, is a dressmaker and lives at 612 West 182d Street, New York City.

DIES IN AMBULANCE WHICH STRUCK HIM

Boy Playing Ball Ran in Front of Car—Another Lad and Man Killed by Autos.

James McCarthy, 6 years old, of 343 Maple Street, Brooklyn, was struck by an ambulance yesterday at Maple Street and Nostrand Avenue and died in the ambulance. The car, belonging to the Willard Parker Hospital in Manhattan, was taking four women patients from the Kings County Hospital to Jefferson Market Court for arraignment on various charges.

Patrolman Heckman, who was riding on the ambulance, said that as Louis Russo, the driver, was approaching the crossing, the boy leaped into the street to catch a baseball and ran directly into the path of the ambulance. The accident was in front of the rectory of the St. Francis Assisi Church. The Rev. Father McEvilly administered the last rites in the ambulance as the machine raced back toward the Kings County Hospital.

Frederick Backof, 16, of 77 Prospect Place, Great Kills, Staten Island, died last night in Richmond Memorial Hospital, from a fracture of the skull received, according to the police, when the automobile, driven by James Conte of 85 Baxter Street, Manhattan, ran over him at Hylan Boulevard and Prospect Street. Conte was arrested, charged with homicide.

In the Rahway, N. J., Hospital yesterday Martin Landa of 590 Bergen Street, Newark, died of injuries received earlier in the day when knocked from the running board of a motor truck by a passing automobile at Colonia.

Two men and a woman were treated yesterday in Coney Island Hospital for lacerations suffered when their automobile collided with a trolley car on Sea Breeze Avenue, Bath Beach. They were Fred Ringling of 55 East Eighty-ninth Street, Manhattan; Miss Winnie Wicky of 625 Wallace Avenue, the Bronx, and Christianson Hedwig of Mamaroneck.

In imposing a workhouse sentence of ten days on John F. Morrison, a taxicab driver, of 458 West Seventeenth Street, Magistrate House in Traffic Court yesterday said he would send all unbonded taxicab drivers to jail without the option of paying a fine. Morrison had admitted he was not bonded.

In the same court Cornelius Downing, 29, of 92 Cortlandt Street, was sentenced to fifteen days in the workhouse for reckless driving and operating a car without a license. His car crashed into a mail truck at Amsterdam Avenue and 125th Street Thursday night.

Eighteen persons in the Traffic Court received jail sentences yesterday and fines totalling $1,025 were imposed. The court heard 180 cases.

HELD FOR AUTO DEATHS.

Manslaughter Charges Made Against Two Chauffeurs.

Drivers of two automobiles that ran down and killed two Bronx children were held for the Grand Jury on charges of manslaughter, by Magistrate August Glatzmayer in the Bronx Traffic Court yesterday. Edward Walker of 1,973 Webster Avenue was held in $2,000 bail and Frank Hegerich of 621 East 179th Street in $1,500.

Hegerich was the driver of the car which struck John Fischer, 10 years old, of 480 East 183d Street on June 28. Witnesses testified that Hegerich drove his car down the east side of Park Avenue, which according to police regulations should be used by northbound traffic. They said that the boy was hit as he crossed the street on roller skates. He died in Fordham Hospital. Hegerich pleaded guilty to driving in the wrong direction on a one-way street and received a suspended sentence on that charge.

Walker was driving an automobile owned by the Northern Union Gas Company of the Bronx when on June 14 it ran over Marvin Cohen, 5 years old, of 2,350 Webster Avenue and injured him so badly that he died a few hours after. It was brought out in the hearing that the car driven by Walker jumped the curb in front of 1,780 Washington Avenue, and hit the boy who was standing fifteen feet from the street near a fence surrounding a vacant lot. Policeman Schubert of the Simpson Street Station, expert mechanic, said that his examination of the brakes on the car showed that they were in bad condition at the time of the accident.

DOCTOR BLAMED FOR CRASH

Hearing Is Ordered as Result of Collision With Bus.

Dr. William B. Giles of 525 West End Avenue was held in $2,500 bail in West Side Court yesterday for a hearing July 21 on a short affidavit charging him with suspicion of felonious assault. The physician was arrested after a collision shortly after midnight Thursday between his automobile and a Fifth Avenue bus on Riverside Drive, opposite the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument.

More than a score of persons were injured in the accident. The majority were treated by ambulance doctors and permitted to go home. Several, however, were still in hospitals yesterday. Among those at hospitals were Patrolman George Gross Jr. of Traffic B, who was the complainant. He was in Roosevelt Hospital, suffering from contusions, but is expected to leave this morning.

Dr. Giles was arrested after he had assisted the injured and had gone to the West 100th Street Station to give his version of the accident.

THANKS HIS WELL-WISHERS

Cardinal Hayes Acknowledges Congratulations by Cards.

Cardinal Hayes mailed cards yesterday from his residence, 452 Madison Avenue, on which the following was engraved:

"Cardinal Hayes regrets, owing to the number of messages of congratulation and good wishes received, the impossibility of expressing in person his sincere appreciation to each individual.

"This formal card of acknowledgment entirely fails to convey to his devoted clergy, revered religious and beloved laity, the depths of his affectionate gratitude.

"To the host of non-Catholic friends and fellow-citizens who have rejoiced with him and to the representatives of the public press who gave unstinted service, his Eminence is at a loss to express how high is his esteem and abiding his obligation for their extraordinary demonstration of good-will on his elevation to the Sacred College of Cardinals.

"His Eminence earnestly prays the blessing of Our Heavenly Father on all."

MRS. STEINBERG ON TRIAL.

Mrs. Helen Caspar Steinberg, charged with throwing pepper into the eyes of her husband, Albert Steinberg, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Morris Koenig in the Court of General Sessions yesterday.

To reporters she said: "I have not a word to say right now, but believe me, I'll have a whole lot to say when my case comes to trial. It's too absurd. Why, I was miles away at the time my husband charges I threw red pepper in his eyes."

DRY AGENTS VISIT RITZ-CARLTON ROOF

Search Tables for Liquor and Cause Excitement Among the 400 Diners.

SIX WAITERS ARRESTED

Patron Who Declares Seized Champagne Is His Property, Also Faces Charge.

Prohibition agents visited the Ritz-Carlton Roof Garden last night at 9:30 o'clock when the restaurant was serving more than 400 patrons, arrested six waiters and a patron and left summonses for the manager and captain of waiters of the roof garden. The visit was arranged by Prohibition Agents Samuel Kupferman, Harry Hoover and William Coyne, who alleged that they had been going to the Ritz-Carlton roof for a week and had bought champagne at $20 a quart there.

A member of the hotel management denied that any liquor was sold by the hotel. He declared that if any liquor were seized by the prohibition agents it was brought to the hotel under concealment by some of the patrons of the roof garden and served by the roof garden waiters in ignorance of the alcoholic content of the beverage.

The sudden appearance of the agents caused excitement among the 400 diners, many of whom objected to the action of the agents as they went from table to table in search of forbidden drinks.

According to the agents, many of the diners tipped over their glasses and spilled the evidence and others drank the evidence they were seeking. While the search was in progress the orchestra played "What'll We Do?"

When the excitement subsided the agents marched their prisoners from the hotel, leaving the roof garden in the status of practically a self-service restaurant. The accused were taken to the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station, the waiters still wearing their evening clothes.

The men for whom summonses were left were Albert Keller, manager of the restaurant, and William Steiner, 8 West Eighty-seventh Street, captain of waiters. The summons was left for Steiner, according to the agents, because he is alleged to have told them on previous visits that he could furnish them with champagne at $20 a quart whenever they desired.

The only patron arrested was Edwin Goodman of 320 West Seventy-first Street, described by persons in the roof garden as a broker. He was arrested when, it is alleged, he tried to prevent the agents from taking a handbag containing champagne, which was being opened by one of the waiters, Fred Cornell of 140 East Forty-eighth Street. When the agents snatched the bag from the waiter, Goodman is said to have interfered, protesting that the bag and contents were his property, to which he was lawfully entitled.

The agents said they were attacked by Henry Gallert, captain of waiters, No. 3, of 56 Eleventh Avenue, and that the waiter landed several blows on Agent Kupferman.

In addition to Goodman, Cornell and Gellert, the agents arrested also Theodore Szarveona, 46 Madison Avenue; Julius Ronchi, 340 East Seventieth Street, and Arthur Garbagnati, 438 West Forty-fifth Street. All the accused were released in bail at midnight.

The agents declared they had obtained evidence which might be used in padlock proceedings.

The visit to the Ritz-Carlton was the second staged by Kupferman yesterday. In the afternoon he went to a drug store of the Uhl Corporation, 44 Broad Street, near the New York Stock Exchange, posed as a stock broker "from out of town," and said he bought some liquor. He arrested Morris Kumock, manager, and David and Nellie Ronskin, owners. The three were held in $1,000 bail each when arraigned before United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock.

SCOTT NOW ALLOWED TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Chicago Slayer's Counsel, Seeing His Mistake, Tearfully Begged Judge for Client's Life.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Russell Scott, former Toronto promoter, who turned bandit, escaped with his life today when Circuit Judge Lindsay allowed him to withdraw his plea of guilty and enter one of not guilty to the charge of murder of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, in a hold-up.

After Scott had pleaded guilty on the advice of his attorney, Judge Lindsay indicated that he felt impelled to impose the death penalty.

A remarkable scene followed when the attorney, realizing that his advice was about to result in the hanging of his client, broke into tears and pleaded with the Court not to inflict death. Judge Lindsay replied there were no mitigating circumstances.

Scott's counsel then pleaded for permission to withdraw the plea of guilty, and the granting of this plea today permits Scott to go to trial before a jury.

The prisoner was captured after a hold-up of the City Hall Pharmacy, opposite the City Hall, last November, when Maurer, the clerk, was killed. John Scott, a brother of the defendant, also was indicted, but never has been apprehended.

IMPOSE $111,000 FINE ON BRITISH STEAMER

Boston Customs Officials Levy Coastal Trade Penalty for Bringing Elks From Philadelphia.

BOSTON, July 11.—For alleged violation of the shipping laws forbidding vessels under foreign flags to engage in commerce between American ports, a fine of $111,000 was placed by customs authorities here today against the British steamer Voltaire, which last Monday brought five hundred members of the Philadelphia Lodge to the National Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The Voltaire, owned by the Lamport & Holt Steamship Company, stopped here en route to St. John's, N. F., and Halifax. The allegation charges that the Voltaire by coming here from Philadelphia at least violated the spirit of the law. Appeal from the fine may be made to the Department of Commerce at Washington.

JOLIET CHURCH BOMBED.

Pastor a Dry Leader and Police Say Wets Sought Revenge.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Revenge of illicit liquor dealers is held responsible by the Joliet authorities for the bombing early this morning of the Ottawa Street Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Henry E. Rompel, dry crusader, is pastor.

While no one was injured, damage to the church, parsonage and church property is estimated at $2,000, while business buildings near by suffered about the same damage from broken windows. No arrests have been made.

Joliet authorities declare that the bomb was intended as reprisal for raids by Federal prohibition agents at Joliet several months ago, which the Rev. Mr. Rompel led in person.

Mr. Rompel and his family are in Europe, but the police believe those responsible for the explosion did not know of this.

Brooklyn Boy Perishes While Bathing With Companions in a Pond.

Eight persons lost their lives by drowning yesterday in the waters in and near New York City and various resorts. A former Pennsylvania University football player saved a young woman from drowning at Cape May, N. J. The mishaps were the result of seeking relief in the water on a sultry day.

Henry Simonelli, 7 years old, 635 Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn, was drowned in Cooper's Pond, near Gardiner and Maspeth Avenues, Brooklyn, while bathing with several playmates. The lads were diving from a raft, and when Simonelli failed to come to the surface after a dive the other boys called for help. Patrolman James Seymour of the Herbert Street Station tried unsuccessfully to recover the body.

The body of an unidentified Japanese about 30 years old was found in the East River at the foot of Shore Road and Potter Avenue, Astoria, Queens.

William Cherry, 16, of Pleasantville, N. J., was drowned at Atlantic City while swimming in a hole in the Meadows at California Avenue.

Michael Fahey, 58, of Pittson, Pa., was stricken with heart disease when swimming in the surf off Kentucky Avenue, Atlantic City, and died almost instantly.

While swimming in the Delaware and Raritan Canal at New Brunswick, N. J., Howard M. Mundy, 12 years old, a Boy Scout, was stricken with cramps and sank. His body was recovered.

A. W. Gordon, 28, a waiter, was drowned in Lake Mahopac, N. Y. He was seized with cramps and sank in sight of his hysterical wife, who could not help him.

Hobson Lucas, 26, of Cortland, a member of the Field Artillery detachment of the United States Army at West Point Academy, was drowned in Long Pond, near Highlands, N. Y.

Charles Drottler, 25, a hotel employe, was drowned while swimming in Lake Mohegan, N. Y.

Miss Billie Sheppard was saved from drowning at Cape May by Ed McMullen, former Football star of the University of Pennsylvania. The young woman swam beyond the lifeguard line and was sinking when McMullen plunged in and brought her to shore.

HARRIMAN ASKS CUT IN ALIMONY DECREE

Banker's Son, Remarried, Wants $500 Monthly Payments Reduced to $50.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 11.—Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins today referred to former Supreme Court Justice Isaac N. Mills of Mount Vernon an application by Oliver Carley Harriman, stock broker of New York, son of Oliver B. Harriman, for an order reducing the alimony he is paying his former wife, Mrs. Lois B. Harriman, from $500 to $50 a month. Mr. Mills, as official referee, will inquire into the merits of the application.

Mrs. Harriman, who is a resident of Purchase, got a divorce on Jan. 23 last from Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor Jr. on testimony of a private investigator. The day following the granting of the final decree Harriman married and again sailed for Europe. The ground for his present application is that his recent matrimonial venture adds to his expenses. A few weeks ago he sold his seat on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although no papers were filed here today, it is learned that Harriman also alleges that his wife has a private income and is able to provide for herself and their two children.

SEVEN KILLED IN DELHI RIOT.

Hindus Start Fight Over Moslem Boy Draining Water.

DELHI, British India, July 11.—Seven persons were reported killed today in a riot which followed a quarrel between Hindus and Moslems. Virtually the entire city took part in the rioting.

Toward evening the situation became quieter, but all shops are closed and the police are patrolling the streets in armored cars.

The disturbance is attributed to Hindus objecting to a Moslem boy drawing water from a certain well. The boy was violently beaten and is said to have died later in a hospital.

PROTEST RADIO CALL FOR CHORUS GIRLS

Trade Association Declares Daily Appeal Over WHN Is Unethical.

PRODUCER SEEKS TYROS

Stipulates Good Figures, Pretty Faces and Neat Ankles for Coming Show.

A protest against what are declared to be unethical practices in broadcasting from Station WHN on Loew's State Theatre Building in a daily appeal over the radio for chorus girls for a forthcoming Broadway production has been made by the American Radio Association. This organization includes leading figures in the radio business and such experts as Professor W. B. Morecroft of Columbia University and Professor L. A. Hazeltine of Stevens Institute, and the formal protest was made through the Chairman of its Executive Committee, Arthur H. Lynch of Hempstead, L. I.

According to Mr. Lynch, all this week an appeal for girls to become members of the musical comedy chorus had been repeated daily between 10 and 11 in the forenoon and after 9:30 in the evening. The stipulation is that they have "good figures, pretty faces and neat ankles" and shall exhibit themselves in bathing suits. Mr. Lynch said yesterday that as a result of this promiscuous broadcasting young girls in homes where their environment would safeguard them from any theatrical advertising are being urged to apply for positions in the chorus.

As a result of the broadcasting several hundred girls, it is said, are applying every day for positions at the theatre. After the likely ones are selected they don bathing suits and are photographed. The producer said he wanted fresh-looking girls for his show, preferably with no previous experience on the stage. The American Radio Association believes, Mr. Lynch said, that this use of the radio was by no means for the best interest of the business. "One of our objects," he said, "is to see that radio is conducted cleanly." He said that the broadcasting of the appeal from WHN was only one of many complaints that had been received against this station. "Flippant and bad language," he added, "is used from this station."

Besides the American Radio Association many owners of radio sets have complained of the appeal for chorus girls.

GANG ATTACKS POLICEMAN.

Dunleavy Makes Arrest in Broadway After Losing Nightstick.

After a struggle with a crowd of taxicab drivers and others shortly after last midnight, during which he was forced to fire three shots, Patrolman Jeremiah Dunleavy succeeded in dragging his semi-conscious prisoner into the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

According to Dunleavy, he was patrolling his post when attracted by shouts coming from the corner of Broadway and Forty-fourth Street. Struggling men swiftly separated when the policeman approached, swinging his nightstick, but closed in on him from behind. When his nightstick was torn from his grasp, Dunleavy drew his service revolver and fired two shots into the air. A man, later identified as Joseph O'Brien, 24, a taxicab driver, tried to get the pistol.

Patrolmen Cronyn and Hudson appeared just as Dunleavy felled O'Brien with a blow of his pistol butt and his comrades disappeared.

A chauffeur, Isidore Satloff, of 406 East 106th Street, staggered to his feet after the policemen had summoned the patrol wagon and identified O'Brien as the man who, accompanied by eight other men, approached him at Forty-fourth Street and demanded to be taken to an uptown address. When he refused their demands, he said, they attacked him.

Cashier of Stinnes Bank Is Freed.

Anton Heilman, 30 years old, of 157 East Eighty-third Street, former cashier in a bank in Hamburg, Germany, owned by the late Hugo Stinnes, was discharged by Magistrate Weil in the Tombs Court yesterday from a charge of forgery. He was alleged to have passed a check for $3,567, bearing the forged signature of Hugo Stinnes, on the International Acceptance Bank, 31 Pine Street, but H. Muilesen, Inc., of 44 Beaver Street, representing the Stinnes interests, refused to prosecute.

AUTHORIZE HERRIOT TO GO TO LONDON

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

made more than forty years from now is so very small. M. Poincaré interrupted to say that, nevertheless, France might find it very convenient to obtain payments from Germany as long as they could be had, and therefore demanded that M. Herriot should not agree to any reduction in the capital.

Premier Herriot agreed that he would not accept the British view that the Dawes plan supplemented or replaced the reparation clauses of the Treaty of Versailles. When he referred to the suggestion made by himself and Premier MacDonald that America should name a member of the Reparation Commission, he was interrupted by shouts from the Right, "Washington wouldn't do so."

"Well, anyhow," said M. Herriot, "it would give me great joy if America does help carry out the treaty, for let us not forget that we cannot carry out the Dawes plan alone. We need help."

The Premier then added:

"If the interallied debts are not settled satisfactorily, no one knows what will be the financial future of France, and perhaps some day a Dawes plan will have to be drawn up for France."

He said that at Chequers he had tried his best to link the interallied debts to the Dawes plan, but that Premier MacDonald was adamant in his opposition. After this pessimistic report Premier Herriot turned to the question of security, saying: "It is even more grave than the question of reparation. Before knowing if one is to live rich or poor, first one must know if one is to live at all."

It was in this connection that he declared that he approved the position of former Governments regarding the evacuation of the Rhine, and said that the naming of M. Nollet as Minister of War, showed how seriously he took the security question. In pleading for permission of the Senate to have a try at the reparation problem, M. Herriot said:

"Two methods are before us. One is to act eternally alone, and when we are alone we may be rich with ideas, but the difficulty is to get others to accept them. M. Poincaré knows about that. Or there is the method of cooperation between France and England which will oblige Germany to tread the path of peace. If England and France separate, that means nothing more or less than a German war of revenge. Such is the situation."

Former Minister Cheron, titular head of Poincaré's party, read a statement saying he supported M. Herriot on the understanding that he would agree to no changes in the treaty, and would not surrender France's right to separate action. The vote was then taken, which in reality, meant the adjournment of the debate until Premier Herriot returns from London.

Bernstorff Has Hopes in Herriot.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 11.—"I feel convinced that the Herriot Government really wants to arrive at an understanding with Germany," said Count von Bernstorff, ex-German Ambassador to the United States, to me today. The Count had just returned from a week spent at Lyons, France, where he was a delegate to the meeting of the Federal Convention of League of Nations Unions. The conference was the first held in France since the war, said von Bernstorff, when a German delegate was received on equal footing with the other delegates.

"If only France could be convinced that Germany is really disarmed an understanding could be reached on other matters," continued the Count. "There is no question in my mind that disarmament is what most vitally interests the French just now. Every Frenchman with whom I spoke invariably asked me at some point in the conversation whether Germany had disarmed or would disarm, or whether she was sincere in what she said about disarming.

"I told all these Frenchmen that Germany could not wage war now even if she desired, but they still seemed to doubt it. Of course, the principal reason for this are the warlike and militaristic demonstrations constantly held in Germany by ultra-Nationalists.

"Incidentally I found during my Lyons stay that the French were very cross about an article contributed by me recently to THE NEW YORK TIMES Current History Magazine, because I had said therein that France was responsible for the failure to arrive at an understanding with Germany. All Lyons reiterated what I said in the article, declaring that I still believed Poincaré's overthrow of Premier Briand and his refusal to amend the Genoa Conference were largely to blame for the troubles of the past few years.

Thinks French Desire Real Peace.

"I also told the French at Lyons that now was the time for them to prove their declaration that the advent of M. Herriot means the birth of a new spirit in France.

"As for myself, I am convinced that M. Herriot does not believe in war, and wants a real peace. This is the view which I met also throughout Lyons. However, this did not make me too optimistic, since Lyons is M. Herriot's home town and many people there share his views.

"I went direct to Lyons from Germany and was not invited to Paris. Had I gone to other parts of France, I might have found a different attitude. In any event, I can truthfully say that I feel sure that a strong section of French public opinion sides with M. Herriot in his desire for an understanding with Germany."

When asked what he thought of the prospects of the London conference, Count von Bernstorff said:

"I think it will succeed, because it simply must succeed. It will mean European ruin if it does not succeed."

During his stay in France, the Count declared, he met with the very best of treatment, "from the moment I reached the first French customs station until I left the French frontier."

At the conference, the Count made a speech presenting strongly the German point of view regarding the League of Nations and the European situation in general. He was heard with absorbed attention and his address was not punctured by the slightest murmur of protest.

"I also attended a banquet and other social functions," he said, "where I was treated with every possible courtesy."

LOGAN IN LONDON FOR ALLIED MEETING

Owen D. Young Is Expected to Attend the Conferences as an Unofficial Observer.

LONDON, July 11 (Associated Press).—The American preliminaries for the Interallied Conference which is to discuss means for making the experts' reparations plan effective began with the arrival from Paris tonight of Colonel James A. Logan, the American observer of the Reparation Commission. He is the guest of Ambassador Kellogg at Crewe House, and had a two-hour discussion with the Ambassador soon after Mr. Kellogg hopes to have Colonel his arrival.

Logan sat beside him at the conference table throughout the sessions, and the British are planning to make this arrangement for them.

Owen D. Young, who helped draw up the experts' report, is expected to arrive from New York in time for the opening of the conference on July 16. Although his presence will be entirely unofficial, it is expected that he will be asked to take an important administrative position if the conference agrees upon a method of putting the new reparations scheme into effect.

CHERBOURG, France, July 11.—Owen D. Young, among those chiefly responsible for the experts' reparation report, was aboard the steamer Leviathan when the vessel touched here today on the voyage from New York to Southampton. When questioned about the Allied Conference, his answer was:

"I cannot say if I will take part in the conference at London. My mission is not definitely settled. I do not know yet whether I will be accredited by the United States Government."

Mr. Young proceeded to Southampton on the Leviathan, planning to visit Paris at the end of the month.

DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP IN VANDERBILT AV.

Gunmen Rob a Payroll Messenger of $576 and Escape Through Grand Central.

BROOKLYN JEWELER GAGGED

Safe Wide Open, but Proprietor Can't Tell How Much Loot Was Taken.

Two men with pistols robbed a payroll messenger of an envelope containing $576 on the third floor of the office building at 52 Vanderbilt Avenue yesterday. The robbers escaped into the Grand Central Terminal in the noon crowds.

The messenger, Frederick Kohler, 22 years old, drew the money from the Equitable Trust Company branch at Madison Avenue and Forty-fifth Street and was returning to the offices of the American Enameled Brick & Tile Co. He passed through an arcade and into an elevator at 52 Vanderbilt Avenue. He had walked about fifteen feet along the corridor of the third floor when the stairway door opened and two men leaped at him, pointing pistols.

Kohler was dragged back of the stairway door and the money was taken from him. When Kohler ran excitedly into his office, the employes there armed themselves with paperweights and other articles and went in pursuit of the hold-up men. By the time they had reached the ground floor, however, the criminals had escaped. Kohler said the robbers were youths of foreign appearance.

Robbers Bind a Jeweler.

Dr. Henry Ostrander of 147 State Street, Brooklyn, was passing the jewelry store of George Wartinian at 133 Court Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon when he saw that the safe door was open. He notified Patrolman Edmund Unger of the Butler Street Police Station. Unger and Dr. Ostrander entered the store and found Wartinian in a closet in a rear room, bound to a chair and gagged. He said he had been drugged. A doctor from Holy Name Hospital was called. No marks of violence were found.

Wartinian said that two men wearing caps had ordered him to the rear room at the point of pistols. He said he was unable to determine how much jewelry they stole.

Two negoes were arrested early yesterday in Brooklyn on charges of burglary. They are Ernest Cunningham, 24, of 244 West Eighteenth Street, New York, was caught by Patrolman George Mahoney of the Butler Street Police Station after a chase in which the policeman used a taxicab. Samuel Mulholland charged that he found the negro in his apartment at 459 State Street searching his trousers. When Mulholland leaped from bed the robber ran to a window and down a fire escape. Mulholland gave chase in his pajamas. Magistrate Folwell in Flatbush Court held Cunningham without bail for examination Monday.

Michael Flynn of 2,933 West Second Street, Coney Island, was awakened by a sound in his room and found a negro entering from the fire escape. He gave chase, running down the street in his pajamas. Policemen caught Eusibo Girisino, 27 years old, of 11 Debevoise Place. Magistrate Short in Coney Island Court held him without bail for the Grand Jury.

Students Charged With Burglary.

Two graduates of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute were among three men held yesterday by Magistrate Folwell in Flatbush Court in $1,000 bail each for examination Aug. 5 on charges of burglary. Detectives Dineen and Burgess and Patrolman Bosch told the Court they saw the prisoners leaving the drug store of Abraham Fisher at 661 Flatbush Avenue early yesterday with bundles taken from the store. The prisoners were Robert Scott, 20, of 396 Chauncey Street; Kenneth Ray Burgher, 22, of 4 Lewis Place, and Charles W. Cheloote, 20, of 373 Ocean Avenue. Scott and Burgher are alumni of Poly.

After he had been identified as one of three robbers in a $736 payroll hold-up, Charles Gerard, 23, of 311 Pleasant Avenue, was held yesterday by Magistrate Marsh in Harlem Court without bail for the Grand Jury. A man arrested with him, James Scinnelli, 22, of 326 East 118th Street, also was held without bail for the Grand Jury on the charge of being implicated in another robbery.

Stephen Montagna, 34, was arrested yesterday afternoon in his home at 811 Tonelle Street, Jersey City, a few hours after two men with whom he had been riding were held up at a pistol point and robbed of $1,650 in money and jewelry near Secaucus, N. J. The victims, Ernest Merego and Samuel Abrahamowitz, both of Paterson, told the police Montagna was the robber.

SAO PAULO REBELS SAID TO BE IN POWER

American Consul at Santos Declares All State Officials Have Quit the City.

MILITARY RULE IS REPORTED

Government Newspaper in Rio de Janiero, However, Says "Revolt Is Practically Conquered."

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Brazilian rebels have repulsed the Federal troops and are in full control of the City of Sao Paulo, according to an official cable to the State Department today. It made this announcement:

"The State Department is in receipt of a message from Consul Arminius T. Haeberle in Sao Paulo to the effect that the revolutionists control the City of Sao Paulo; that the Governor of the State has withdrawn from the city, and that protection of life and property has been promised."

The Brazilian Embassy in Washington today received a communiqué from the Brazilian Foreign Office, based upon advices from the commander of the Government troops at Sao Paulo, reading as follows:

"Official communiqué issued at midnight on the 10th states military has bombarded the Lus barracks with excellent results. The rebels did not respond to the attack. In the afternoon the bombardment stopped from our side.

"It is the wish of the commander to spare as much as possible the city which has already been so much damaged by the rebels. All the troops from the division of operations are already assembled together. The morale of the troops continues to be excellent.

Colonel Francisco Leads Rebels.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 11 (Associated Press).—According to authoritative advices received by wireless from Santos and Port Alegre, the Brazilian rebels are successfully continuing their operations, which, it is disclosed, are directed against the Government of President Bernardes. It is said that they are in complete control of Sao Paulo and it is feared that the movement may extend to all Brazil.

Numbers of rebels are reported marching toward the State of Parana, where, the dispatches say, it is believed they will be joined by the Parana State troops and others they meet during their advance.

The movement is said to be headed by the famous Rio Grande leader, Colonel Joao Francisco, who for some years has been commander of a brigade of State troops stationed in Sao Paulo. The advices say the rebels succeeded in deposing the Sao Paulo State Government, which has been replaced by a military junta under General Rondon and Major Klinger, who revolted with the artillery regiment under his command.

The railroad from Santos to Sao Paulo is not operating and the telegraphic censorship is very severe.

Congress Supports Bernardes.

BUENOS AIRES, July 11.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Rio de Janeiro says the Brazilian Senate and Chamber have voted motions applauding the Government's firm attitude in the present emergency.

President Bernardes, replying to a spokesman in the Chamber of Deputies, said that in the hour of trial the support given by the best elements in the nation encouraged the Government to grapple with the difficult problems facing it.

He added that the gratifying adhesion of the State Governments, police and public throughout the country showed that the common sense of the nation would prevail.

Oil Deposits Afire.

Property damage in São Paulo, brought about by the insurrection, includes the oil deposits of the Anglo-American Petroleum Company, which were set on fire, it has been learned here.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 11.—The Government organ Jornal do Commercio, in an editorial this morning, declares "the Sau Paulo revolt is practically conquered."

Says Reports Are Exaggerated.

The Brazilian Consul General in New York yesterday issued the following statement:

"The official communications received from the Foreign Affairs at Rio by this Consulate are more reassuring of the situation created by the military revolt which has recently broken out in Sao Paulo.

"Although details are still lacking, the events in Sao Paulo are a repetition of the mutiny which occurred in July, 1922 ,in the Fort Capacabana at Rio de Janeiro. In both instances the movement had an entirely military character, being caused by the indiscipline of a few officers of the Brazilian Army who were utterly irritated over the election of President Bernardes. That first insurrection was crushed almost on its start by the energy of the Federal Government, but it seems that part of the irritation remained dormant in some quarters and has now broke out in Sao Paulo.

"Details of the occurrence in Sao Paulo conveyed by cable from Beunos Aires and Montevideo appear to be exaggerated. In view of the strict censorship kept by the Brazilian authorities, they are more or less results of guessing.

"The official bulletins indicate that the Federal Government is very strong and is backed by the public opinion in the whole country, as well as by the Government on all the States of the Federation.

"The official communication above referred to read as follows:

"'Friday morning, July 11, 1924—Operation against the rebels follows its normal course. Government troops making progress, the situation of the rebels becomes extremely difficult. According to all indications, the ranks of the rebels start to show gaps caused by desertion. President Carlos Campos and his Government still in the city of Sao Paulo, backed by legal forces and in contact with military authorities.'"

TO DEDICATE WAR CHURCH.

Americans Will Attend Ceremony at Chateau Thierry Tomorrow.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 11.—The Memorial Temple which has been given by Protestant Churches in the United States to the villa of Chateau Thierry, in memory of the American soldiers who fell in that region while repulsing the German invaders in 1918, will be dedicated next Sunday.

The dedication will be the occasion of an impressive religious and patriotic ceremony in which many notables and officials will participate. Ambassador Herrick and representatives of the French Government will be present.

The edifice is already known for its unusual windows. They represent all the Marshals of France who fought in the World War and the large window facade has pictures of General Pershing debarking with American soldiers and being received by the French Marshals.

The altar Bible was presented by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt in memory of her son Quentin, who was killed near by while making an aerial reconnaissance.

GERMAN MASS SLAYER BEGS FOR EXECUTION

Haarmann Calmly Admits He Can't Recall Victims—Public Meetings Protest Inaction.

HANOVER, Germany, July 11.—While popular indignation over the alleged indifference of the police to the case of Friederich Haarmann, confessed mass murderer, is growing, the slayer himself is taking his situation with calmness and poise and is asking to be beheaded "as I deserve to be."

"I don't remember the names of all of my victims," Haarmann told interviewers today. "You see, they came so fast that I really did not have a good chance to get well acquainted with them."

He recalled having slain not less than a dozen boys and young men and was quite certain there were many more whom he did not recall.

As a result of the alleged indifference of the police with respect to the inquiries of parents whose sons are missing, a popular mass meeting was called at which the indictment was demanded of police officials who are believed to be in possession of accurate knowledge of Haarmann's wholesale butchery.

Hundreds of letters are arriving daily from all parts of Germany, in which frantic parents report the suspicious disappearance of members of their families and ask the police to search for possible traces of them among Haarmann's belongings.

The room in which the "modern Giles de Retz" slaughtered his victims is situated on the top story of a decrepit tenement house facing the River Leine. The bodies of the slain persons were thrown into this river, the bottom of which is now being dragged for further evidence.

HALF A BILLION FRANCS BET ON PARIS RACES

Plungers Are Chiefly Englishmen and Americans—Government Gets 11 Per Cent.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 11.—More than half a billion francs, or more exactly 550,000,000, were bet at Paris race tracks the first six months of this year.

The official par-mutual reports shows that the 11 per cent. tax which is levied on all bets totalled 6,500,000 francs, the rest, of course, being distributed among the holders of the winning tickets.

The State's share is distributed among charities, hospitals, orphanges, &c. Inasmuch as the usual heavy betting on the Beauville races does not come within this estimate, it is safe to calculate that more than a billion francs will be bet on French horse races this year. Sporting writers figure that at least one-half of the betting is done by Englishmen and Americans because while the French are passionately fond of racing and nearly all bet, their usual wagers are ten or twenty rrancs. Few plungers are Frenchmen.

METAGAMA AGROUND IN ST. JOHN'S HARBOR

Ship in Recent Collision Off Cape Race Sticks Fast and Must Await Morning Tide.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 11.—The Canadian Pacific liner Metagama, bound for Quebec for permanent repairs after patching up the damages she sustained in a collision with the Italian steamship Clara Camus, off Cape Race, on June 19, went ashore at the harbor entrance here today. She listed badly, making control difficult, and tugs surrounded her in an effort to get her free.

The liner went so hard aground that it was expected tonight that she could not be floated before high tide at about 3 o'clock tomorrow morning. Four tugs tried in vain to get her off the shoal, but the lines broke repeatedly.

The steamship Sylvia, here from New York, was arranging to assist the stranded vessel when the tide rose.

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO TO SEEK $54,000,000

Will Make It the Richest Institution of the Kind in the Country.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 11.—President Ernest Dewitt Burton tonight announced a plan to double the present endowment of the University of Chicago, making it the richest institution of its kind in the United States.

The campaign for money will start in the Fall, and for the first time in its history the university will appeal to the public. The present wealth of the institution is $54,000,000, which President Burton plans to increase to $108,000,000, with about $65,000,000 of that sum placed in income-producing investments.

1,000 TIN WORKERS QUIT

Refuse to Accept 20 Per Cent. Wage Cut at McKeesport, Pa.

Special to The New York Times.

McKEESPORT, Pa., July 11.—One thousand employes of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, at Port Vue, did not appear for work today, and a complete shut-down is expected to result. The men comprise the entire force of the Hot Mill Department, and it was not operated today. Other departments can work only as long as the stock of ready material lasts, a company official said.

It is supposed that the walkout resulted from a 20 per cent. wage reduction and a half-time working schedule put into effect three weeks ago.

The company official stated that the changes were due to the collapse of the tin market, the stock rooms of the company being filled with tin. He added that no overtures to the men would be made but if they returned of their own accord the mills would be kept running as long as possible.

A BATTLE IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Keeper Found Fisherman Paying Unwelcome Call on Wife.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., July 11.—Andrew Applegate, for many years keeper of the lighthouse at Barnegat, was indicted by the Ocean County Grand Jury yesterday on a charge of assault, with intent to kill. The charge was made by Olaf Hansen, a fisherman.

Applegate said that two weeks ago Hansen forced his way into the lighthouse and bestowed unwelcome attentions upon Mrs. Applegate. Applegate reached the lighthouse as Hansen was leaving, seized a rifle and fired seven shots at Hansen, it is alleged. Four of the bullets lodged in Hansen's back. Hansen is recuperating in the Barnegat Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes will sail from New York City tomorrow on the liner Berengaria for an absence of approximately a month in Europe, during which he will visit London and Paris, and have an opportunity for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald, Premier Herriot of France and other European statesmen. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hughes and by his private secretary, William H. Beck.

The primary purpose of the journey is to attend the meeting of the Bar Association in London with other members of the American Bar Association who are going to the British capital as guests of the British Bar Association.

Mr. Hughes has accepted an invitation to visit Paris as the guest of the French Bar Association. He said today that his trip would be a short one and that he expected to return by Aug. 15.

After the meeting of the Bar Association in London, he will go to Paris, where a reception has been arranged for him by the French Bar Association. After this the Secretary expects to have a few days to himself.

No confirmation could be obtained of reports that Mr. Hughes would visit Berlin and possibly other European capitals.

Mr. Hughes has had only a few weeks' vacation in the past two or three years, and he looks upon this trip as a holiday during which he will be free to mingle with his colleagues of the legal profession.

During his trip, however, he will always be accessible to the State Department through the various embassies, and since he will doubtless meet Premier MacDonald and many other important public men on his visit to England and France, it is regarded as certain that he will have ample opportunity to get a great deal of firsthand information on the political situation in Europe, particularly as to the progress made in the effort to put the Dawes plan into execution.

800 LAWYERS LEAVE TODAY.

Will Attend the Bar Association Convention in London.

More than 800 members of the American Bar Association from all parts of the United States will sail at 5 P. M. today on the Cunarder Berengaria for Southampton on their way to attend the Bar Association convention in London, which opens July 20 with services in Westminster Abbey.

During their stay in the British metropolis the lawyers will be the guests of the Inns of Court annd the Incorporated Law Society, representing the two branches of the legal profession in Great Britain.

One of the chief incidents in the program of the convention will be the presentation by the visitors of a life-size statue of Sir William Blackstone to the Middle Temple, from which legal institution came five signers of the Declaration of Independence. The statue of the famous English jurist, who is called the father of common law, will be of bronze, but it will not be ready in time to be presented in its final form, so arrangements have been made to unveil a plaster cast of it which will be taken over on the Berengaria. A reception at the Wembley Exposition also is planned.

Former Senator Lewis was delegated by Secretary of State Hughes, newly elected President of the American Bar Association, to fill Mr. Davis's engagements to speak before meetings of lawyers for several countries after the nomination of Mr. Davis made it impossible for him to make the trip.

SAYS RAIL UNIONS BACK LA FOLLETTE

Railway Age Regards Workers' "Expedition Into Politics" as "Effrontery."

The Conference for Progressive Political Action, which nominated Senator La Follette at Cleveland was dominated by railway labor leaders, according to The Railway Age, which declares that "this extraordinary expedition of the railway labor unions into politics is notable above all previous political movements for its effrontery." This publication, which is considered to represent the general sentiment of the railroad managers, indicates that the coming campaign of Senator La Follette will be based on a fight against the railroads.

The Railway Age calls attention to the fact that W. H. Johnston, President of the International Machinists' Union, a railway labor organization, was Chairman of the conference that nominated Senator La Follette; that T. C. Cashen, President of the United Switchmen of America, was Chairman of the Committee on Rules of the conference; H. P. Daugherty, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and D. R. Richberg, general counsel of the railroad labor organizations, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions.

"The railway labor leaders, while pretending, at least, to represent the railway employes, who are getting 58 per cent. of the advance in rates, are going to send Senator La Follette out among the farmers to yell 'Stop thief!' at the railroad companies," says The Railway Age.

JAPAN'S AMBASSADOR BEGINS JOURNEY HOME

Hanihara, as He Leaves Washington, Expresses the Hope That He Will Return.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Masanao Hanihara, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, left Washington on the Congressional Limited this afternoon for San Francisco via New York City, and will sail from the California port on July 18 on the steamship Corea for Japan to confer with his Government regarding the Japanese exclusion situation.

J. V. A. MacMurray, chief of the division of Far Eastern Affairs of the State Department, and Myron Hofer, a secretary in that department, were at the station as representatives of Secretary Hughes to say farewell to the Ambassador. To expressions of hope that Mr. Hanihara would return to Washington, he smilingly replied that he would be glad to do so since his connections here had been "so pleasant."

While it has been intimated many times that Ambassador Hanihara is going home in consequence of the international incident created by the passage of the new immigration law containing provisions excluding Japanese, and particularly because of letters written by Mr. Hanihara in which he referred to the grave consequences which might result from exclusion, there has been no official announcement to the effect that Mr. Hanihara will not return to Washington.

In Japanese official circles it was stated that Mr. Hanihara for months had planned to return to Tokio during the slack Summer months in order to consult at first hand with his Government. Emphasis was laid upon the fact that Mr. Hanihara was highly regarded both in Washington and by his own foreign office, and that he was qualified as well as were few other Japanese diplomats, to hold the post of Ambassador to the United States.

The Embassy here, in the absence of Mr. Hanihara, will be in charge of Counselor M. Yoshida as Chargé d'Affaires.

RELICS OF STONE AGE DUG UP IN SIBERIA

Find Includes Skeleton Said to Be 17,000 Years Old, Stags, Dinosaurs and Weapons.

KRASNOYARSK, Siberia, July 11 (Associated Press).—Russian archaeologists who are excavating near here have unearthed several human bodies belonging to the Stone Age, a number of prehistoric mammoths, dinosaurs, bisons, gigantic stags and more than 700 stone and bone implements, ornaments and weapons of the prehistoric era.

One of the human skeletons found by the explorers is believed to be at least 17,000 years old.

The expedition was undertaken two years ago in an attempt to fix the place of the abode of prehistoric man in Siberia. It is working under the direction of Professors Auerbach and Sosnowsky, who are distinguished Russian archaeologists.

Krasnoyarsk is a city of about 35,000 persons, situated on the line of the Transsiberian Railroad. It is on the Yenisei, a river 3,000 miles long.

Ramon Ross, Governor of the Federal District, declared in a statement that the Flores elements were causing anxiety by their seditious actions toward the Government, although he would not say that these were being carried out with the official authority of General Flores or of the party managers.

PRAGUE, July 11.—The first session of the conference here of the Little Entente took place from 3 to 7 P. M. today, when as on former occasions, questions of foreign policy were discussed.

The official communiqué issued this evening states that "once again complete agreement has been reached regarding numerous interests and there is complete unity among the Allies."

In the course of conversations Ministers stated that many recent events had in no way changed the relations existing among the three States, "which are bound by vital interests."

This evening's Prague newspapers comment on the fact that the Bessarabian question was not mentioned in the communiqué and emphasize that it is up to the Rumanian Government to meet the concessions made by Czechoslovakia to Poland and those made by Yugoslavia on the Adriatic by toning down its Bessarabian attitude.

Benes Is "Satisfied."

VIENNA, July 11.—The conference at Prague of the Little Entente opened today according to schedule.

The Prager Tageblatt this morning published an interview with Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, in which he surveyed "with satisfaction" past performances of the Little Entente and expressed the conviction that the usefulness of the Little Entente would continue.

The official communiqué announces that the schedule of meetings will include discussion of the relations with the Little Entente's neighbors, the financial rehabilitation of Hungary and Austria, the reparation question, military control of former enemies, the program of the League of Nations and plans for armament reductions and the question of Germany's membership in the League.

The most conspicuous feature of this schedule is the absence of any reference to the Bessarabian question and to Russia generally. The Vienna Freie Presse this morning suggests that Rumania, to whom the Bessarabian problem is at present the most burning of all issuese, will try to force the hands of member States and demand a showdown.

"It will be necessary to find a formula," says the paper, "in which Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia assure Rumania of their sympathy without offending Russia. It may be expected that the diplomatic prowess of Mr. Benes will be able to ward off such a contingency as might result in emphasizing difference of opinion rather than unity of purpose."

The relation of Hungary with the members of the Little Entente has lost much of its tensgness and it is believed in well-informed quarters in Ienna that mutual feelers may be cautiously put out.

ASKS $1,000,000 DAMAGES.

Bidder Sues Holding Company for Failure to Sell French Base Here.

An action for $1,000,000 damages resulting from the alleged refusal by the French Government to approve the sale of land and buildings acquired during the World War for an army base and munition plants on Newtown Creek and Bell Street, Brooklyn, became public yesterday when the Charles Albert Corporation asked the Brooklyn Supreme Court for an injunction to prevent disposal of the property until determination of the suit. The action is brought against the Newtown Creek Realty Corporation, which is said to be a holding concern for the French Government.

The Charles Albert Corporation says it was the highest bidder when the property was offered at auction at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, on June 11, offering $703,000, and that it paid 10 per cent. of this amount to bind the contract.

The plaintiff asserts that the contract did not specify that the completion of the sale depended upon the approval of the French Government. The court reserved decision on the injunction application.

FOUND SENSELESS ON SHIP.

W. D. Pease of Atlanta Taken to Hospital Here in Critical Condition.

When the City of Montgomery of the Ocean Steamship Company arrived yesterday morning from Savannah at pier 32, North River, it was reported that a passenger registered as William D. Pease of Atlanta, Ga., about sixty years old, was unconscious in his cabin. The steward told the police that the man had only been to the dining saloon for one meal since leaving Savannah Tuesday afternoon. He was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital in an ambulance where it was said that his condition was critical.

According to inquiries made in Atlanta it was said that Pease was employed by Ham Vanable, owner of Stone Mountain, near that city, as a superintendent, and that he was a friend of Gutzon Borglum who is carving the massive Confederate Memorial on the mountain. At a late hour last night he had not recovered consciousness.

A. W. S. COCHRANE'S WILL.

Carpet Man's Estate Divided Among His Family.

The will of Adam W. S. Cochrane, a large stockholder of Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, was filed for probate yesterday. All of Mr. Cochrane's paintings, jewelry and household furnishings go to his widow, Anna L. C. Cochrane. The residue is left in trust, to be divided equally among the widow and two sons, Adam W. S. and John Cutler Cochrane.

The value of the estate is not made known. Stock in the carpet company was appraised recently at $8,500 each for shares having a par value of $100.

The will stated that Mr. Cochrane received 100 shares of original stock in the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey under the will of R. B. McGregr some years ago on condition that half the income be given to Alexander J. Sheldon. The will referred to the changes made in the stock as the result of Federal Court decisions, and said that by an agreement with Mr. Sheldon the additional shares were to go to the decedent, and they were to divide the cash income as the original bequest provided.

RESERVE BOARD SEES SHIFTS IN BUSINESS

Calls Attention to Reduced Earnings by Workers and Readjustments in Prices.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An important readjustment of business conditions, characterized by decreases in industrial and trade activity and lower prices, was declared by the Federal Reserve Board tonight to be under way throughout the United States.

The board called attention to reduced earnings by industrial workers, with a consequent curtailment in their buying power and sharp decreases in production. The lowered prices have carried to every commodity except food, which remains almost unchanged.

"The considerable expansion of production during the early months of 1924," the board said, "was followed by important curtailment in certain industries, in response to a lessened volume of current purchases and a hesitancy on the part of manufacturers in placing forward orders. In fact there has been in recent months a larger decrease in production of certain commodities than in their current consumption, and in consequence stocks of these commodities have been reduced.

"The recession in business activity has been accompanied since April by a decreased demand for credit for commercial purposes. And this, together with the continued inflow of gold imports, has brought about an unusual ease in the money market. The decrease in the volume of commercial borrowing, however, has been less than the additional purchases of investments by commercial banks, so that the total of member-bank credit in use is not only larger than at the beginning of the year but larger than in any previous period."

In connection with the credit situation, the board said that the earning assets of the twelve Federal Reserve banks was lower at the beginning of this month than at any time for six years. They were approximately $225,000,000 below the figure of the same date last year. The declines in earning assets have been general in all banks, but have been particularly large in the New York bank.

Practically all important industries showed decreased employment in the last two months as compared with a year ago. The largest reductions in payrolls were reported in the automobile, iron and steel and women's clothing business.

The reduced earnings of factory and other industrial workers were reflected in smaller department stores sales. Mail order houses also showed smaller movements from their shelves during May and early June.

Prices of commodities at wholesale dropped more than 1 per cent. average in May, and a greater drop appeared in prospect for June, complete figures for which are not yet available. The general level, with the exception of food prices for May, the board reported, was 6 per cent. below the level of May, 1923.

Compared with a year ago, the report added, the sharpest price decreases were in building materials, house furnishings and metals. Prices of farm commodities and foods, which did not advance in early 1923, when most other groups showed increases, suffered much smaller declines.

FOOD PRICES RISE IN CITIES.

Increases as High as 2 Per Cent. Reported for May 15-June 15.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Only slight changes in the retail cost of food were noted in the twenty-four cities surveyed by the Department of Labor from May 15 to June 15 last.

All showed increases, however, ranging from 2 per cent. in Columbus, Denver, Fall River, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Seattle, to 1 per cent. in Baltimore, Boston, Bridgeport, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Louisville, Manchester, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Richmond, Rochester and Scranton, and less than half of 1 per cent. in Butte, New Haven, Portland, Me., Oregon and St. Louis.

Over the year period many of the cities showed a decrease, ranging from 4 to less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

WHEN FATHER WAS A BOY

And horse cars were a familiar sight in little old New York,

It took hours to go to Coney Island, and hours to get back again.

But now, with the miracle of subways and motor cars, it is only a matter of minutes.

Then a plunge in the surf, a sun bath on the beach and a glorious dinner at CHILDS,

Where the best of foods are made to taste better by the tang of the salt sea air.

THE GREATEST LIVING AUTHORITY ON CLOTHES IS YOUR WIFE!

YOUR wife devotes half her life and a great part of your income to clothes. Clothes are her kingdom just as business is yours. She knows fabrics, workmanship, style, color schemes, and values, as no man ever can know them, and this knowledge can be applied to your clothes as well as to her own. It is perfectly absurd to think that a woman who keeps in touch with the continually changing complications of the Paris mode, is incompetent to pass judgment on such a simple problem as a suit of clothes.

Her judgment on all clothes is better than yours.

And her judgment on your clothes is better than ours.

Please bring her with you.
We'll make her welcome.

PARIS, July 11.—Within twenty-four hours the world's record for the 400-meter run has been broken, rebroken and broken again. Such a performance seems almost incredible and yet it stands so recorded in the most accurately conducted of athletic meets, the Olympic Games.

Yesterday it was J. Imbach of Switzerland who first shattered the old mark, covering the distance in a trial heat in 48 seconds and clipping one-fifth of a second from the time made by Charley Reidpath in the Stockholm Olympics in 1912. Today an American lad, Horatio M. Fitch of the Chicago A. A., apparently seemed to settle the question of superiority by winning the first semi-final heat in 47 4-5 seconds, one-fifth of a second faster than the Swiss runner had accomplished the day previous. That still a third record performance would result appeared almost too much to hope for, but within two hours, the Scottish parson, Eric H. Liddell, won the final heat of the event in 47 3-5 seconds.

Something sensational had been expected in the final, but nothing so sensational as happened. In the first heat semi-final there was a South African, a Canadian, an American, an Englishman, a Dutchman and a Swede, all capable of doing the distance in 47 seconds. It was won by Fitch, with the Englishman, Butler, second, and the Canadian, Johnston, third. In the other semi-final, J. C. Taylor of the New York A. C. had against him Liddell and Imbach. Liddell had the lead at the start, and, running a beautiful race, won in 48 1-5 seconds with Imbach second and Taylor third.

Fitch is Favorite.

When these six lined up two hours later for the final heat, the betting was heavy on Fitch and there were hopes that Taylor would improve his position. From the inside of the track their order was Johnston, Butler, Imbach, Taylor, Fitch and Liddell.

The six men were out of their holes with a single movement and coming down straight on the far side of the stadium Fitch seemed to be gaining slightly on Liddell. The Scotchman, as usually is slow at the start, increased the pace, which at once widened his lead. When the field reached the turn there was no doubt as to the winner, if he could keep going. Liddell had won third place in the 200-meter run and had shown his form then.

At the turn into the home stretch disaster overtook Imbach. He fouled on one of the lane ropes and fell head over heels, just as the Englishman Toms had done on the previous day when within three yards of winning his heat.

Past the press stand Liddell was seen to hold his lead, with Fitch two yards behind, Butler and Taylor running close up and the Canadian Johnston another yard back.

At the tape the order was the same, except that the disaster which had overtaken Imbach also laid in wait for Taylor. His foot touched the rope and he stretched his full length along the track within four yards of the tape. Butler already was ahead of him, but Johnston leaped forward to take fourth place. Quick as a flash Taylor was up again and limped in, only to fall again, shaken and bruised.

It was a great race, heroically fought out by every man and heroically won by the Scotsman in time which is not likely to be beaten for many years to come. For the first time in the history of the games the British spectators present in the stands let themselves go with a vigor emulative of that shown when an American victory is recorded, their efforts making an untraditional noise which was ably seconded by others.

Nurmi Again in Front.

Paavo Nurmi ran again today as if yesterday's running had been nothing to him. To say he ran is also to say he won. With stopwatch in hand he turned off 3,000 meters at the head of his team in the team race and had the reward of seeing two of his countrymen come in behind him, with three Englishmen next, the two countries qualifying for the final.

The Americans ran in another heat and as a team took first place. For them, however, one incident marred the race. Joie Ray, the best man in America at the distance, was up to tricks. As he passed the press stand on each round he turned his head and looked down at his right hand in the same way that Nurmi does when consulting his watch. Joie, however, did not have a watch at all and was just fooling.

On the fourth round Ray held an easy place in the bunch some little distance behind the big Swede Wide, who yesterday ran second to Nurmi and Ritola. Then there happened a misadventure. The Frenchman Duquesne, one of the best French runners, pushed out of the bunch abruptly. There was no doubt that there was a certain amount of jostling in which Duquesne was at fault. Then as Duquesne passed Ray he pitched over and fell and Ed Kirby of Cornell tripped over him.

Ray Is Next Victim.

Twenty yards further it was Ray's turn. Some adroit toe just touched his shoe and off it came. It took the Chicago boy some time to fix it, but he picked himself up and dashed off after the field in such fashion as to get himself placed sixth on his team. In spite of Wide's efforts, his countrymen did not win classification. Three American runners, W. L. Cox, Kirby and W. L. Tibbets, Jr., of Harvard, came in together, with the French team qualifying behind them.

In the second trial heat of the 5,000-meter walk today the spectators were treated to an exhibition by a man who in his class ranks with Nurmi—the Italian walker Frigerio. With chest out, elbows in and legs moving with clockwork regularity which never seemed to tire, the little fellow reached the tape nearly 400 meters in front of his nearest competitor, the South African Maccaster. C. H. Foster, the only American in the heat, suffered the fate of many others by being disqualified for breaking the trail line which separates walking from running.

In the Decathlon, M. Norton of Georgetown and H. W. Osborne of the Illinois A. C. took this evening like strong contenders. The American all-round stars showed to advantage in the events held today.

Today was not an American day such as some of the others have been. The Stars and Stripes never reached the victory masthead, though taking the second most in the ceremony for the 400 meters, but here there were points scored which brought the United States total up to 183½ against Finland's 103 and Great Britain's 60½.

Liddell is Hero Role.

COLOMBES, France, July 11 (Associated Press).—Eric Liddell, thin-legged Scotch divinity student, won Olympic glory for Great Britain today when he sped to victory in the 400-meter run with a world's record that brought to a climax the most sensational series of races ever witnessed in any international event.

The Swiss and American stars before him had shattered the world's mark for the distance, but Liddell, undaunted, came back in the final test with an even greater speed, that broke the heart of his nearest rival, Horatio Fitch, long-limbed Chicagoan, who himself had set a new record only two hours before in the semi-finals. Liddell's time for the distance was 47 3-5 seconds.

When the world's record toppled for the third time in two days Liddell stepped into a niche among the other Olympic heroes, embracing the greatest array any games have shown. His victory was as decisive as it was startling, for, leading from the crack of the gun, he fought off his only real challenger, Fitch, in the stretch, and won going away. On the stretch behind lay the prostrate forms of Joseph Imbach, little Swiss locksmith, who virtually broke down after having been the world's record holder for twenty-four hours, and J. Coard Taylor, the gallant American, who, despite an injured ankle, had third place within his grasp during the closing rush, when he tripped over a lane marker and swirled heavily to the ground.

Taylor's fall enabled G. M. Butler of Great Britain and Johnston of Canada to gain third and fourth places, but the American, semi-conscious, responded to the appeals of the onlookers to rise and staggered across the finish, winning fifth place. Then he collapsed.

Imbach Makes Heroic Effort.

Further down the track, almost unnoticed in the pandemonium that broke loose when Liddell broke the tape, another tragedy was enacted as Imbach lifted himself painfully from where he had fallen exhausted. He went to the starting pole ill and showed over the first half of the distance that he was badly off form. His collapse came as he was stumbling into the stretch. His condition tonight was said to be not serious, but Taylor, who had to be carried off the field, was under medical care for a badly pulled ligament and lacerations of both knees.

This dramatic struggle of sinew and heart provided the greatest thrill of the sixth day's competition of the record-breaking games. The day, otherwise, was given over largely to colorless, prolonged elimination trials for stirring fights yet to come.

America fared well, however, for Merson Norton of Georgetown and Harold Osborne, Illinois A. C., the decathlon aces of the United States, were one, two in a brilliant battle for points over the first half of the gruelling, ten-event contest, which will be completed tomorrow. The United States also captured the second heat of the 3,000-meter team race trials. The first heat saw Finland's cracks, Nurmi, Ritola and Tala, finishing one, two, three, giving the Scandinavians a clean sweep of the heat.

The United States, aided by the six points tallied in the 400-meter race, while Finland added nothing to its score, increased its point lead to 80½ over its nearest rival and assumed a position which tonight seemed so strong as to virtually assure continuance unbroken of the string of Olympic track and field triumphs since the modern revival twenty-eight years ago. The total score now shows the United States with 183½ and Finland with 103, while Great Britain through its third spectacular track victory jumped to 60½, in third place.

Finns Count On Distance Men.

Finland, with a mighty corps of distance runners facing further triumphs, promises to add heavily to its score, but the United States, though its series of mishaps was increased today by the withdrawal of De Hart Hubbard, negro star, from the hop, step and jump, still is considered to have the strength to pile up many points in the remaining ten battles.

The 3,000-meter team race, second heat, saw the American mile champion, Joie Ray, come to grief. In this, his first appearance in the Olympics, he lost a shoe and about one hundred meters of ground in a bad mix-up at one of the turns. Three Americans, however, William L. Cox, Mercersburg Academy; Edwin S. Kirby, Cornell, and W. L. Tibbetts Jr., Harvard, finished second, third and fourth behind Elvin Wide, the Swedish star, who shook off Ray early in the race and won easily.

Wide, however, will not compete in the finals Sunday for the failure of his teammates to support him enabled France to beat Sweden for the second qualifying place. The clean-cut victory of the Finns in the first heat established them as top-heavy favorites, but the Americans, with Ray back in form, may give the Scandinavis a good tussle.

The fine start of Norton and Osborne in the decathlon gives them an excellent chance of winning the final events of this contest are held. Osborne broke the decathlon high jump record, winning this feature with a mark of 1.97 meters, with Norton not far behind. The latter's excellent show in the other four events—100 and 400 meter runs, shot put and broad jump—gave him a slight edge in the point totals at the end of the day. Norton's point total thus far is 4173.92 and Osborne's 4168.10.

Herman Yrjola of Finland and Kleimberg of Esthonia were the closest rivals of the Americans.

The only other contest of the afternoon was the second and last trial heat of the 10,000-meter walk, won easily by Frigerio, Italian holder of the Olympic championship. His chief rival was McMaster of South Africa. The sole American entrant, Charles Foster of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., was disqualified for fouling.

The race had been postponed two days because of a row among the officials over the disqualification of the Austrian, Kuhnet. He was disqualified today for the same offense by a new set of judges, who took the places of those who went on strike when he was permitted to start again after having been ruled out in the first heat.

THREE U. S. WRESTLERS WIN OLYMPIC MATCHES

Smith, Lookabough and Vis Score at Catch-as-Catch-Can—Three Others Lose.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—American catch-as-catch-can wrestlers, starting out rather badly today in the Olympic competition, finished the day's program this evening by breaking even in their bouts.

The defeats of C. Milton McWilliams, the plucky Cornell grappler, and Perry Martter of the Los Angeles A. C., this afternoon, were made up tonight by the victories of H. A. Smith of the United States Navy and Guy Lookabough of Oklahoma A. and M. W. D. Wright Jr. of Cornell succumbed to the touch Finn, Pekkala, after a five-minute extra period, but Russell Vis of Los Angeles defeated Montgomery of Canada to even the score.

Lookabough's defeat of the sturdy Swiss, Muller, and Smith's heroic overtime battle with the scrapping Dane, Nielsen, were the features of the evening session. The victories of Vis in the lightweight, Lookabough in the welter and Smith in the middle divisions cheered the small but ardent American rooting section at the Velodrom d'Hiver.

McWilliams was defeated by Larson of Sweden on points, while the Esthonian, Praks, floored Martter after a brief but fierce struggle.

The quarter-milers making up the quartet for the longer relay are J. O. MacDonald, University of Pennsylvania; E. Stevenson, American Rhodes Scholar; C. P. Cochran, Olympic Club, San Francisco, and Alan Helffrich, Penn State, who are expected to carry the baton in that order.

The trials in both events will be run off tomorrow, with the final as part of the closing track and field program Sunday.

WALES WILL SEND EIGHT PONIES HERE

Hopping Arrives From England With News That Prince Will Sail on Aug. 26.

BRITISH IN HIGH SPIRITS

U. S. Polo Star Says Team Is Enthusiastic Over Chance to Drill With the Heir in America.

The Prince of Wales, who is coming to the United States to witness the international polo matches between the American four and Great Britain's horsemen at Meadow Brook in September, will leave England on Aug. 26 and will send over eight of his private polo ponies, according to Earle W. Hopping, who arrived on the Cunard liner Berengaria yesterday morning. Mr. Hopping has been playing in the trial matches in England, which have been closely followed by the Prince of Wales, and said that it was definite that the popular Prince would make the trip to this country.

"The British players were greatly enthused when they learned that the Prince of Wales will make the trip to the United States and witness the matches at Meadow Brook," Mr. Hopping said yesterday after his arrival. "Naturally the presence of the Prince will be an incentive for them, in addition to the one of winning the International Challenge Cup. The Prince is sending over eight of his own ponies on July 26, when the entire string of Great Britain's sixty mounts, including those of the Prince and Captain Guest, will be shipped. The Prince is not planning on playing in the open championship tournament or in the Monty Waterbury Cup series, but it is very probable that he will remain to see the events. He is bringing over his own ponies in order that he may take part in practice matches of the British team preliminary to the internationals, but some of his mounts may be used by the British team in the cup matches.

Major Metcalf to Accompany Prince.

"The Prince of Wales will be accompanied on the man-of-war on which he will make the voyage by his official equerry, Major Metcalf. I don't believe it has been definitely settled just where he will stay while in this country, but the man-of-war which brings him across the ocean probably will be his headquarters. After he leaves here he will visit his ranch in Canada before returning to England."

Although Mr. Hopping has been playing in the trial matches for the British team he is an American, and was a substitute on the team which went abroad in 1921 and brought back the trophy to this country. He has come to the United States to try for a place on the American four which will defend the cup in September. His appearance in the British tryouts has given him a splendid opportunity to study the invaders' style of play, and he brought with him some interesting data concerning the British horsemen.

For one thing it was definitely learned that Lord Wodehouse is not coming to the United States this year. Lord Wodehouse suffered an injury in early season play and this, added to the fact that he is a great one, as he is a ten-goal player and considered one of the strongest performers in the world. The team which has been officially selected to meet the Americans consists of Lieut. Col. P. Melville at No. 1, Major T. W. Kirkwood at No. 2, Louis Lacey at No. 3 and Major Vivien Lockett, who also has been named Captain of the combination, at back. Major Geoffrey Phipps-Hornby and Major F. B. Hurndall have been named as the substitutes for the team, but it is still problematical whether or not Major Hurndall will be able to make the trip. In case he is not able to accompany the British representatives the Marquis of Cholmondeley will be the second substitute on the squad.

Others Coming for Open Play.

These six players will comprise the official British squad for the international matches, but there will be several others here to take part in the open championship and the Monty Waterbury Cup tournaments to follow. Lord Wimborne, who will be officially in charge of the British forces, also is a player, and it is not unlikely that he will take part in the later tournaments, while Wing Commander P. K. Wise will make the trip to play on Stephen Sanford's combination in the open championship. Sanford's four will include himself, Wise, Lacey and Cecil Cockcroft, double four, and one which the Meadow Brook team which will defend the title must fear. Captain Frederick Guest, who played on the Hurlingham Club team in the open at Meadow Brook last Fall, also is coming to this country, and he, too, will compete in the two events which will follow the international classic.

Mr. Hopping stated that the British team is not overly optimistic concerning its chances of lifting the trophy this year, but that the members of the combination had every confidence that they would meet the Americans at least on even terms and that they had a splendid fighting chance. They realize that both Colonel Melville and Major Lockett play a much stronger game in the United States than they do on the fields in England and expect to see a big improvement in the play of the entire team after it has worked out in this country for a week or two.

Hopping at first said that he did not want to play in this country for a week, but Louis E. Stoddard, Chairman of the United States Polo Association, and Devereux Milburn, who probably will captain the American four when it faces the British, persuaded him to start work immediately, and he will make his first appearance in an informal trial match at the Meadow Brook Club this afternoon. Eight of the recognized American candidates will take part in the contest, with J. Watson Webb, Eric Pedley, Malcolm Stevenson and J. Cheever Cowdin on one side and Stephen Sanford, Hopping, Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. and Devereux Milburn on the other.

BELGIAN WINS EPEE TITLE.

De La Horte Captures Individual Honors in Olympic Fencing.

PARIS, July 11.—De la Horte of Belgium won the individual championship of the Olympic épée fencing competition today. Ducret of France was second.

The American countries, both North and South, failed to place a man in the first six.

Massart, the 1920 Olympic champion, finished fifth.

HUBBARD LOST TO U. S.

Injury Will Prevent Star From Competing in Hop, Step and Jump.

COLOMBES, France, July 11 (Associated Press).—The American track and field forces suffered a blow today when it developed that Debart Hubbard, the negro star, winner of the broad jump, was definitely out of the hop, step and jump, as the result of a stone bruise on the heel, which grew more serious than it seemed at first.

CROOKSTON BEATS MARSTON

Wins Penn. Title by Beating Amateur Champion and Fownes.

PITTSBURGH, July 11. — James Crookston, youthful Stanton Heights player, won the Pennsylvania amateur golf title today, defeating William C. Fownes Jr., a former national amateur champion, 1 up in the final round of the State championship tournament. Crookston previously had eliminated Max Marston, the national amateur champion, who was defending his State title, 2 and 1, in the semi-finals.

YALE CREW ELATED OVER OLYMPIC DRAW

Americans Will Meet Canadians and Dutch in Second Heat Next Tuesday.

10 EIGHTS IN ALL ENTERED

Blue Oarsmen Are Not Complaining of Tropical Weather—Will Elect Their Captain Abroad.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—The Yale rowing crew is elated over the drawings for the Olympic rowing events, announced today. The Yale eight will meet the squads representing Canada and Holland in the second heat Tuesday. While the Dutch rowers are credited with the ability to give a good account of themselves, the Canadian crew is not regarded as dangerous, and the Americans, therefore, believe there are all indications of their being able to rest on Wednesday while the crews that win second places in Tuesday's three heats have the row-off.

France, Argentina, Great Britain and Belgium are drawn for the first heat Tuesday; the United States, Canada and Holland for the second, and Spain, Australia and Italy for the third, making ten crews in all.

The rowing events are due to start at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and it has been commented that should there be a continuance of today's tropical weather the rowers will suffer greatly. The Yale men, however, are not complaining, and their cheerful spirits cannot be repressed. They were all busy today practicing Dutch, Spanish, Italian, French and Flemish phrases to fling at the opposing crews when they meet them.

For the first time in American college rowing history a Yale crew captain will be elected on foreign soil next Thursday after the finals for the Olympic eights when the banquet marking the breaking of training is held here. While the members of the crew are naturally reticent in indicating their preferences, the election is expected to be a close race between Alfred M. Wilson, 3 on the varsity, and Alfred D. Lindley, stroke. All of the varsity eight, with Manager William Robbins, Assistant Manager Charley Walker, the members of the substitute four and both coxswains, will be eligible to vote for the 1925 commander.

The 1926 captaincy seems to be conceded in advance to Howard T. Kingsbury, 6, the former varsity coxswain-alissimo, who is the sole sophomore in the boat.

FRENCH PHYSICIANS SAVE HUNTER'S ARM

Amputation Averted, U. S. Star May Play in Olympic Tennis Match Tomorrow.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—Francis T. Hunter, one of America's big four in lawn tennis for the Olympic games, was released from the hospital today after a severe case of septic poisoning, which resulted from a cut in the right hand sustained in a fall during the Wimbledon tournament. For a time there were fears it might be necessary to amputate the lower arm, but this calamity was averted, four of the best medical practitioners in France giving the patient their constant attention. By resting the next few days Hunter hopes to be able to go on the courts Sunday for his first match.

Save for colds, which are slightly bothering Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, all the other members of the United States tennis delegation are in tiptop condition and practicing daily on the Colombes courts. Miss Helen Wills, the American woman champion, is maintaining the good form she attained in the closing days of the Wimbledon tournament and is expected to reach the final where her opponent, as at Wimbledon, may be Miss Kathleen McKane, who has the best prospects of any of the entrants in the lower half of the draw. Miss Wills is in the upper half.

The long-awaited duel between Miss Wills and the great Suzanne Lenglen will not materialize this year, as Suzanne is definitely out of the Olympics. In his latest communication, received by Mlle. Lenglen in reply to a query from the leading French sporting paper, L'Auto, which succeeded in discovering her in retreat in the little village of Pourville, on the shores of Normandy, some kilometers from Deauville, where she went directly from London after her default in the Wimbledon tournament.

The message said: "Doctors forbid my playing in the Olympic games. Deeply regret, Lenglen."

Suzanne, it is known to her intimate friends, has been ailing from heart trouble since the Brussels hard-court championships of May, 1921, culminating in her default to Mrs. Mallory after the loss of one set in their match at Forest Hills the same year.

Her last Winter season on the Riviera was less strenuous than either those of 1921 or 1922. Upon the advice of her doctors she contented herself with playing doubles and mixed doubles, only entering the singles of the Nice tournament because her father is General Secretary of the club.

Suzanne, it is declared, needs a complete rest for the remainder of the season.

The Olympic draw, announced today, reveals that a majority of the American players have comparatively easy paths to victory in the opening matches of play which starts on Sunday on the courts outside the Colombes Stadium.

The withdrawal of Mlle. Lenglen has somewhat lessened interest in the women's section where the Americans, nevertheless, face stronger initial opposition than they do in the opening men's rounds.

Miss Eleanor Goss, New York, faces Mlle. Emillenne Vlasto, the French star, in the opening singles match and, with Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, Wilmington, Del., is bracketed with the leading British pair, Mrs. Phyllis Covell and Miss Kathleen McKane, in the first round of the women's doubles.

Miss Helen Wills, Berkeley, Cal., encounters Mme. Marnet, Spain, in the first singles match and, with Mrs. George Wightman, Boston, is drawn in the doubles against Mrs. Molla B. Mallory and Miss Dahl of Norway. The other two Americans in the women's singles are expected to win easily, Mrs. Jessup over Miss Perelli, Italy, and Miss Lillian Scharman over Miss Scaramanga, Greece. Mrs. Mallory has an experienced opponent in Mme. Vaussard, France, in her first contest.

Among the men R. Norris Williams 2d is drawn against Hadi, India; Watson M. Washburn against Serventi, Italy; Francis T. Hunter against Grahn, Finland, and Vincent Richards against Delaveleye, Belgium.

Jean Borotra of France, the new Wimbledon champion, René LaCoste, Norman E. Brookes of Australia, A. R. F. Kingscote of Great Britain and J. Washer of Belgium are the outstanding opponents of the Yankee quartet. In the men's doubles Williams and Washburn will oppose Kirchmayer and Gonca of Hungary, while Richards and Hunter will meet Mishu and Stern of Rumania in the opening matches.

In the mixed doubles Mrs. Jessup and Richards have a hard opening match against Borotra and Mme. Billout of France, while Mrs. Wightman and Williams gain a default, inasmuch as their first contest was slated against Mlle. Lenglen and Henri Cochet.

7 QUALIFY WITH YACHTS.

Finland, Belgium and Sweden Are Among Winners in Olympics.

MEULAN, France, July 11.—Of the seventeen nations which entered four-meter boats in the Olympic sailing competition, Finland, Belgium, Sweden, Spain, Holland, Norway and Portugal have qualified, surviving the trial heats today. Portugal received a bye owing to the non-arrival of the Portuguese boat.

SWIM BODY RATIFIES 36 WORLD RECORDS

International Federation Approves 26 Marks Made by the U. S. Stars.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—The International Amateur Swimming Federation today ratified thirty-six world's records made within the last year and a half, all except ten of them credited to United States swimmers.

Johnny Weissmuller of Chicago was credited with twelve world marks and Miss Gertrude Ederle, Women's Swimming Association of New York, with eight.

The events in which Weissmuller is credited with world's records range from 100 yards to 500 meters, while Miss Ederle's distances range from 100 meters to a half-mile.

Miss Sybil Bauer, Illinois A. C., is credited with three backstroke marks at 100 meters, 200 meters and 150 yards. Miss Helen Wainwright of New York is given the 300-yard free style mark. Two Hawaiians also get new records. They are Miss Mariechen Wehselau, who is credited with the 100-yard free style record, and Warren Kealoha, who is credited with the 100-meter backstroke record.

The federation honored Miss Charlotte Epstein, Women's Swimming Association of New York, by appointing her a timing judge in the competition which will begin Sunday. This was the first time any woman official has been named. Four other American officials were appointed. L. de B. Handley, New York, and Harry Hainesworth, Buffalo, were appointed diving judges; Charles A. Dean, Chicago, finish judge, and Joseph Bernard, former Olympic Handsley also was named on the committee to revise the diving rules.

TILDEN GAINS FINAL IN CLAY COURT PLAY

Beats Morton, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, in National Tennis Tourney—Snodgrass Defeats Chapin.

ST. LOUIS, July 11 (Associated Press).—William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia, the defending champion, advanced to the final round of the national clay court tennis tournament at the Triple A. Club today by defeating Brian I. C. Norton, St. Louis, in straight sets. The score was 6—1, 6—1, 6—1.

In the second singles match of the afternoon Harvey B. Snodgrass, Los Angeles, opposed Alfred H. Chapin Jr., Springfield, Mass. Snodgrass won the first set, 6—5, after a close battle, and then continued his brilliant play by winning the second, 6—3. Chapin improved and, aided by occasional crosscourt placement drives, won the third set, 6—2. Snodgrass won the fourth set and the match. The final score was 7—5, 6—3, 2—6, 6—2.

Tilden was in excellent form against Norton. He ran through the three sets in 43 minutes. The largest crowd that ever witnessed a tennis match in St. Louis turned out for the Tilden-Norton contest.

EATONTOWN DEFEATS WHIPS AT POLO, 9-8

Checks Rally in Late Period and Gains Final in Independence Cups Play.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDARHURST, L. I., July 11.—The Eatontown polo team defeated a late rally by the Rockaway Whips on the field at the Rockaway Hunting Club today and entered the final round of the tournament for the Independence Cups by a 9-8 victory. The triumph was for the most part due to the brilliant combination work of A. W. Kinney and Herbert Winn, the indoor stars, who performed at No. 2 and No. 3, respectively, for the Eatontown four. Kinney and Winn worked together with perfect understanding, and while their teammate, Max Phillips, was taking out the opposing back, Winn drove the ball forward for Kinney to carry through the posts and tally. This combination accounted for five of the victors' points, Kinney scoring three times and Winn twice, while Phillip and Terrence Preece added two each to make up the total.

The line-up:

EATONTOWN.	ROCKAWAY WHIPS
No. 1—Max Phillips.	No. 1—H. B. Albright.
No. 2—A. W. Kinney.	No. 2—G. C. Sherman.
No. 3—Robert Winn.	No. 3—J. D. Richards.
Back—T. Preece.	Back—W. P. P. Hazard.

Goals—Eatontown: Kinney 3, Winn 2, Phillips 2

YANKS LEAD LEAGUE AFTER 12-9 VICTORY

24TH HOMER FOR RUTH

Babe, Pipp, Scott, Hooper and Falk All Make Circuit Drives in Free-Hitting Contest.

The Yankees were sorry to say goodbye to the White Sox early yesterday evening. They must now face the St. Louis Browns for a few days, and that may not be quite so profitable as picking on Johnny Evers's entries in the American League race. When the Yankees finished their two hours and fifteen minutes of labor yesterday in the Stadium they found themselves on the large end of a 12 to 9 score and they had taken the series four games to two. But what was more important was the fact that they climbed back into the rarified atmosphere of first place, the Washington Senators losing to the Detroit Tigers and dropping from a tie into second place.

The battle yesterday was marked by five home runs, three of which fell to the lot of Huggins's men and one of these three to Babe Ruth. Ruth's powerful drive was made off Pitcher Mangum in the first inning with Whitey Witt on first base and caused the Yankees to step out in front, more than matching the homer contributed by Harry Hooper with none on in the Chicago half of the frame. It was the Babe's twenty-fourth homer of the season.

Later in the game Wallie Pipp and Deacon Scott made circuit hits and Bib Falk also inserted one into the pastime. In fact, Falk's homer was one of the kind that young boys with ambitions to be baseball heroes dream of and which seldom materialize. It was a gigantic thrust into the right field bleachers and arrived just after the White Sox had loaded the bags with runners and at a time when some such a blow was needed to put the White Sox in front. Needless to say the four tallies added to the one earned in the first inning overcame the two runs the Yankees had gathered.

Pipp Hits a Homer.

While the White Sox runners who participated in this wholesale unloading of the bases were mopping their brows—it was in the third—Pipp shot over his homer, and as Ruth had singled, the Babe scampered across the plate in the van of the tall Yankee first sacker. Scott's home run thump came as the opening shot of the final big drive of the Yanks in the eighth and made it the second homer in two days to the credit of the perpetual shortstop. Incidentally, the homer yesterday landed in the left field stands but a few inches from the spot where Scott dumped his four bagger the day before.

The most profitable inning for the White Sox brigade, the third, started off inauspiciously enough when Mangum hoisted an easy pop to Pipp and Mostil lofted a high one to Witt. Hooper pushed out a double and Bullet Joe Bush proceeded to issue free transportation to Collins and Sheeley. Thus was the stage set for Falk to burst forth with his homer.

Ruth opened the Yanks' third with a single and, after Meusel had expired harmlessly to Mostil, Pipp crashed out his four bagger. However, the Yanks were not satisfied with that. They crashed still more runs and got one more. Schang was hit by a pitched ball and Ward singled into deep right. Schang tore around the bags, and when Ward dashed for second it was to that station that Hooper made his throw, completely disregarding Schang. As a result Schang counted before Ward could be expunged at the midway. Scott popped up to Collins and the score was tied.

The White Sox took the lead in the fourth when Barrett walked and rode around to the plate on a single by Archdeacon, who was called upon to bat for Catcher Grabowski. Elsh's force of Archdeacon at second and a pair of infield outs. The White Sox proceeded to add two runs to this count in the fifth when Collins opened with a double, which caused the summary departure of Bush in favor of Milton Gaston.

Gaston celebrated his arrival by planting the first ball he pitched squarely into the ribs of Sheeley. Falk was obliterated at first by Gaston and Ward, who went over to cover first, the runners advancing a base each. Willie Kamm slashed out a single, scoring Collins, and Barrett singled to left and scored Sheeley. Schalk, who then was catching for the White Sox, crashed into a double play, which was executed by Pipp unassisted, Wallie catching Schalk's line drive and touching first, doubling Barrett.

Lyons in the Box.

Lyons had assumed the hurling job for the White Sox in the fourth, and he and Gaston settled down to a peaceful few minutes, or until the Yanks got going in the seventh. Witt, up first in this frame, Dugan doubled to left. Ruth was purposely passed and Dugan was forced at third by Meusel. Pipp singled, scoring Ruth and putting Meusel where another hit would count him. This hit was supplied by Schang and was a double.

In the eighth the White Sox contributed two errors to assist the Yanks in getting three more tallies. Scott opened with his homer. Gaston sent a hit through Barrett. Witt bunted, but Schalk's throw to get Gaston at second was wild and rolled into left field, Gaston legging it to third and Witt making second safely. Dugan also bunted, but was fast enough to get a single for his effort. However, Lyons tossed to Sheeley just the same, and the ball rolled to the stands, Gaston and Witt scoring. Ruth and Meusel then grounded to Sheeley. The Sox collected one in the ninth that was a gift. Mostil walked, stole second and third and scored on a single by Sheeley. And that was the end of it.

SENATORS SHOVED INTO SECOND PLACE

Lose to Tigers, 4-3, and Relinquish League Leadership to the Yankees.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Washington dropped to second place today when it was defeated, 4 to 3, by Detroit, while the New York Yankees were winning over Chicago and taking the lead. Walter Johnson held the Tigers to two hits until the eighth, when three safeties and a pass were bunched. These with an error by Bluege accounted for three Detroit runs.

The victory was the third for Detroit in the series of five games that ended today. One of the contests was a draw. The score:

Caught at the Plate

Gaston's work in the five innings he hurled yesterday was very good. He yielded only four hits and in three of the innings did not permit a man to reach second and only one to get as far as first. And he was quickly nipped off the bag by Gaston, Pipp and Ward.

Schang had another good day for his batting averages and one that was also good for the Yankees as a whole. Wally, he was officially at bat only twice and he doubled home two runs. He walked the first time up and was hit by a pitched ball on the next trip.

Just before Ruth sent out his twenty-fourth homer of the season in the first inning, he fouled a ball into the right field stands that was not six inches off the line. Babe protested to Umpire Brick Owens that the ball was fair but Brick said "No." To prove that he was right Babe then sent the ball into the stands at a point where there was no question about it.

As a pinch hitter Maurice Archdeacon of the White Sox came through nicely. This former International League slugging star who led the American League batsmen for a time while playing regularly, takes a decided swing at the ball and is a dangerous batter. His pinch hit yesterday added one run to the White Sox score.

George Sisler and his Browns are to furnish the opposition to the Yankees through five games, beginning today. The Mound City team is scheduled to play a double-header at the stadium on Monday.

FIVE RUNS IN TENTH WIN FOR THE GIANTS

KELLY HELPS WITH HOMER

Scores Meusel Ahead of Him in Extra Inning—Frisch and Young Also Hit for Circuit.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—It required ten innings of catch-as-catch-can baseball for the Giants to beat the Cardinals today by a score of 10 to 5. Five runs in the tenth won for the Giants. The two runs that resulted when George Kelly drove the ball into the left field bleachers with Irish Meusel on base in that inning were all the Giants needed in order to carry off the game, but they continued to hustle and rushed three more tallies over before the inning closed.

The game was a bit rough on pitchers. Bill Ryan started for the Giants and was pitted against John Stuart, but Stuart was hit hard in the second inning and disappeared in the third to make room for a pinch hitter, Jess Haines, his successor, lasting until the Giant bombardment in the tenth. Eddie Dyer was called upon to retire the Giants in this inning. Ryan was batted out of the action in the seventh, and Art Nehf, who hurried to his relief, afforded no relief at all and also was batted out. Then came Wayland Dean, who checked the Cardinals' rally and did not yield a hit for the balance of the game.

Three Homers for Giants.

Three home runs were made by the Giants, Kelly's being the last of the three. Ross Young, who had a very good day with the stick, made a home run, as did Frank Frisch. Young's number came in the first inning and marked the beginning of play. The second ball pitched by Stuart was very much to Young's liking, and he hammered it into the right-field bleachers.

Stuart then settled down and was moving along at a brisk pace when the Giants caught up with him in the second inning and sent him down for four runs. Jackson, who led off in the second inning, had perished, as had Groh, who followed him. Snyder then punched a single to left and got to third base on Ryan's long single to left centre. Young hit to right field for two bases, scoring Snyder and Ryan, and trotted over the plate himself ahead of Frisch when Frank sent his four-base drive into the right-field bleachers.

The Cardinals threatened in the third, fourth and fifth innings, and in the fourth it required good fielding to keep them from scoring, but in the third and fifth Ryan was strong in the pinches. Flack, who batted for Stuart in the third inning, got a life on a fumble by Jackson, and Smith and Holm having lined out Hornsby singled to centre, but Blades raised an easy foul fly to Kelly. Freigau had been retired in the fourth inning when Gonzales was expunged on a fine catch by Jackson of his line drive.

Cooney then doubled to right centre, but was left when Young made a running catch of Mueller's fly.

Haines led off in the fifth inning with a single to centre, but Smith and Holm offered up pop flies. Hornsby walked and he and Haines moved up on a wild pitch, but Blades raised a short fly back of second base that was caught by Ryan.

Two were out in the sixth inning when Jackson singled and Groh got two bases on a slash that split Freigau's right thumb and forced him out of action, but Snyder left the runners on the bases when he was thrown out by Hornsby.

Cards Get a Run.

Young trapped a short fly to right field in an attempt at a double play in the Cardinal's half of the inning, but the double play did not come to pass and the way was paved for the Cardinals' first run. Toporcer and Gonzales had walked when Cooney raised the fly that Young trapped. This resulted in only a force play on Gonzales at second base, and when Cooney was forced by Mueller Toporcer scored.

All the Cardinals went to bat in the seventh inning. When the Cardinals got rid of both Ryan and Nehf and tied the score, Smith opening the attack with a single and Haines closing it with a liner to Frisch when Dean had come in to relieve Nehf. In addition to Smith's single, another single by Holm, a fumble by Meusel, a two-base hit by Hornsby, a single by Blades, another by Gonzales, Mike's force by Cooney and a single by Mueller made the four runs that knotted the count.

Holm kept the Giants away from the plate in the ninth inning, when, with O'Connell on second base and Ryan on first with two out, he went to deep centre for a fine stab of a slash by Frisch.

FOURNIER'S HOMERS HELP BEAT CUBS, 9-1

Jack's 19th and 20th of Season Account for Robins' 5 Runs as Vance Wins 13th Game.

22 CHANCES FOR COTTER

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Robins defeated the Cubs by a score of 9 to 1 here this afternoon in the final game of the series, in which Lee Cotter, the Cubs' first baseman, equaled the major league record of chances accepted at first base.

Cotter was credited with twenty-one put-outs and one assist. The mark was established first in 1875 by C. Houtz, playing for the St. Louis club of the National Association. Cotter is the ninth man to tie the record. Only one Robin batter was retired on an outfield fly. He was Andy High, who lifted to Grigsby in the fifth inning.

Dazzy Vance twirled for the Robins and had no trouble in registering his thirteenth victory of the season, which gave the Robins an even break in the four-game series. He allowed only six hits and boosted his strike-out record to 119 when he fanned five men. John Blake started for the Cubs, but retired at the end of the fifth. G. Milstead finished the game.

Jack Fournier made two home runs off Blake, which accounted for five runs, and now is credited with twenty circuit drives. He made his nineteenth homer in the third frame and the next in the fifth session. Fournier's first home run was his 100th hit of the season.

Blake's control was not good in the first inning, passing two men, both of whom scored. High drew the first walk and stole second as Johnston fanned. Neis was tossed out by Grantham and Fournier walked. Brown singled to right and High scored, while Fournier reached third. Stock bounced a hit off Grantham's gloved hand and Fournier scored.

In the second inning the Robins went scoreless. However, the Robins increased their lead in the third when Fournier made his first circuit blow of the game. After Johnston was retired, Neis walked and Fournier followed with a drive into the left field bleachers for his nineteenth home run. The Cubs scored their only tally in their half of the same session. With two out Statz singled past Fournier and rode home on Hollocher's two-bagger to right.

The fifth inning was Blake's last. In it the Robins scored three more tallies, all of which resulted from Fournier's second home run. High led off with a fly to Grigsby, but Johnston and Neis singled. Fournier then drove the ball into the right field bleachers, sending Johnston and Neis home in front of him.

The Robins scored the last pair of runs in the ninth on singles by Neis, Fournier and Griffith, Fournier's steal of third and a fumble by Grigsby.

RED SOX BREAK EVEN IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Wingard's Pitching and Homer Help Browns Win First, 8-1—Boston Takes Second, 7-6.

BOSTON, July 11.—St. Louis and Boston divided a double-header here today, St. Louis taking the first game, 8 to 1, and losing the second to the Red Sox, 7 to 6. Wingard's superb pitching and home run for the Browns, with one on base, featured the opening contest.

The Browns were leading, 5 to 0, in the second game when Boston began hitting in the second inning, batting Kolp, Pruett, Vangilder and Bayne hard. Lee was vivid.

Boston won four games in this six-game series.

Winged Foot Pro Plays Brilliant Eight Holes in Final Round to Take Title.

MACFARLANE IS RUNNER-UP

Finishes Two Strokes Behind the Victor—Farrell Is Third After Being in Tie for Lead.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., July 11.—Sensational golf for eight holes in his final round enabled M. J. (Mike) Brady, Winged Foot Golf Club professional, to gain the 1924 metropolitan open championship, play for which was concluded at the Engineers Club here today. Brady's total for the 72 holes of play was 292, his four rounds being 77, 72, 71, 72.

While this did not establish any records, being eclipsed by Macdonald Smith's total in winning the metropolitan event at Scarsdale a decade or more ago, it will go down in the record books as a remarkable feat in view of the score-wrecking possibilities of the course over which it was made.

Willie Macfarlane of Oak Ridge finished second, two strokes back of the winner, with a total of 294. Johnny Farrell, 23-year-old Quaker Ridge professional, who led the field for the first two rounds and who started his last round in a tie for the lead with Macfarlane, finished third, with a total of 295, while Leo Diegel, former Washington professional, who is casting about for an opening in the metropolitan district, ended up in a tie for fourth place with a total of 299. Jack Forrester, Hollywood professional, tied with Diegel.

Next came a young Harvard star, J. Mapes of Myopia, who jumped up into the foreground by virtue of two ringing rounds that some of the professionals would have been willing to take for their own. After being inconspicuously low at the end of the first two days, young Mapes peeled off a 75 for his third round and then came through with a brilliant 72 in the last chapter. Going to the sixteenth hole, Mapes was confronted with par figures for the next three holes for a total of 69, which would have broken the record for the tournament. His finish was 5, 6, 4.

Turnesa Down List.

Joe Turnesa of Fairview was next with a total of 301, his scores today being 74 and 75, which was far more representative of his real golf than his second round of yesterday, when he put himself almost hopelessly out of championship consideration by getting into the 80's. Three Long Island professionals were the last to finish in the money. They were Jack Dowling of the Home Club, Joe Sylvester of St. Albans and A. E. MacDonald of Inwood, all of whom had totals of 302. MacDonald did some sensational scoring over the last nine holes, his total for that half being 33, in spite of a 5 at the thirteenth hole, where he was putting for a 3.

Brady's victory today added another to a list which is equaled by only a few of the many professional stars. On two occasions he has been only a stroke away from national open honors. The first instance was at Wheaton, Ill., in 1911, when he finished in a tie with J. J. McDermott and George O. Simpson, to lose by two shots to McDermott in the play-off. Eight years later, at Inverness, Burn, Brady was tied with Walter Hagen at the finish of seventy-two holes, although he would have won the title outright only for a short putt that failed to go down. In that event he was again beaten by two shots. While professional at the Oakland Hills Club, Detroit, where he was engaged for several years, and from where he migrated last Winter to take up his berth at the Winged Foot Club, Brady won the Western open title when that event was staged there in 1922, and last year he was winner in the Massachusetts State open championship. He is a home-bred.

Beginning the third round today, Brady was in a tie for sixth place, five strokes behind Farrell, who was leading the field with a total of 217. By the time that the round was finished he had improved his lot by three strokes and was in third place, his total then being 220, while that of Farrell and Macfarlane was 218.

The position of the leaders at the start of the last round, with their scores, was: Farrell and Macfarlane 218, Brady 220, Diegel 222, W. R. Bourne of Echo Lake and Forrester 225, Jimmy Law of Cherry Valley 226, Arthur Demane of Sound View 227, Francis Gallett of Laurelton, Joe Ford, Jimmy Crossan of Wheatley Hills, Dowling, Marty O'Loughlin of Plainfield, 1922 Metropolitan open champion, and Macdonald 228. A stroke behind them came Billy Kline of Garden City Country, present Long Island open champion, and Joe Sylvester of St. Albans.

Three Are Contenders.

It was evident by this time that the honors lay between Farrell, Macfarlane and Brady unless all three of them should happen to "break" and unless some of the close-ups lashed out a sensational round. Farrell and Brady were paired together, and when they started out they were followed by almost the entire gallery, a small one at best for an open championship, who trekked up hill and down hill in the sweltering sun to follow the fortunes of the two local giants.

Farrell lost a shot at the very outset, when at the first hole he hooked his drive into the rough, overplayed the green on his second and was then short on his approach. He got back the stroke so far as Brady was concerned at the next hole, when Mike, disturbed by some one in the gallery moving behind him as he was addressing the ball on the tee, practically missed the ball and it flew only a few yards up the fairway and came to rest in the long grass. But if he was unlucky in one respect, he was lucky in another, for his ball escaped a series of water hazards at the finish of the rough. He was short on his third and then had to get down a six-foot putt for his 5. Farrell pushed his tee shot out into the rough, but got his par 4.

Farrell hooked his drive unmercifully at the third and it went into a thicket of trees and underbrush, where it was discovered only after a diligent search. There was only a tiny opening for the green and the chances were great that he would never get through, but get through he did with a wonderful niblick pitch onto the green. And so, what looked like a 5 at best or even a 6 was turned into a par when, after a weakly hit approach putt, he ran down a twelve-footer for his 4. Farrell sank missable putts for parts at the next two holes, and as a result he was still two shots ahead of Brady going to the sixth.

The Winged Foot professional gained two strokes on Farrell by "dropping" a fifteen-footer for a birdie 3, while Johnny took three putts, missing a puny little one of eighteen inches for a 4. On even terms now for the first time, Brady, after playing a great approach shot out of the rough, going to the seventh, took three putts. He had a down-hill putt and ran several feet past the hole. He lost another precious stroke at the short eighth and after a pair of par 5's on the ninth the two were still in the same relative positions as when they started out, Farrell still leading by two shots.

The expected break came at the short tenth, where Farrell trapped off the tee, took a 4 while Brady dropped a putt of twenty feet for a birdie 2. They played the next four holes in par figures but Brady added another stroke to his lead on Farell by running down a fifteen-footer for a birdie 3 on the fifteenth after a wonderful second. That ended Farrell. Brady got a pair of par 4s at the sixteenth and seventeenth and had a 4 for an even 70. He converted the 4 into a 6. Farrell's bad finish cost him second money. It was 6, 5, 5. The 6 was the result of a drive that caught the brow of the hill, a wooden second that finished in the rough in front of the green, a poor out and a missed putt.

HAGEN AND SMITH LOSE TO BRITISH

U. S. Golfers Defeated by Duncan and Mitchell, 4 and 2, in International Match.

FAIL TO OVERCOME LEAD

Start Last 36 Holes Four Down and Play on Even Terms—Putting Decided £300 Contest.

OXHEY, England, July 11 (Associated Press).—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, leading British professional golfers, today avenged their defeat of last year at the hands of Walter Hagen and Jim Barnes of America, by defeating Hagen and Macdonald Smith, 4 and 2, in their 72-hole match for a purse of £300 and international foursome honors.

Last year the American team won by 4 and 3. On the first thirty-six holes of this year's contest, played yesterday at the St. George's Club, the British pair finished 4 up. At the conclusion of the last half of the match this afternoon over the Oxhey course the Americans had succumbed, and Duncan and Mitchell prepared to split the £300 purse. Hagen and Smith will receive £50 each as the loser's end.

Duncan pleased the gallery of more than 5,000 spectators that followed today's play by giving a masterly exhibition of his professional game.

Drives Nearly Equal.

There was very little fault to be found today with the drives and seconds of the foursome. On several holes their drives lay huddled within a few feet of each other. This course, which is a paradise for long hitters, is 6,478 yards in length and has eleven holes over 400 yards long. Three times in the first seven holes, which were eventually halved in par figures, it was up to Hagen to sink a five or six-footer to win, but each time the ball just grazed the edge of the cup and passed on.

At the eighth Mitchell's drive found the long grass on the slope of a mound and he picked up. Duncan's drive ended a nasty distance from the green and he was puzzled as to whether to use an iron or a bassie. He chose the latter and his approach went over the green into the rough. Smith then proceeded to hole his ten-foot putt and the Americans cut the lead to three. They cut another off at the ninth, where Smith got a 4 for a half with Duncan, leaving Hagen to hole out for a three with a seven-yard putt. The American's ball was in such a position that he had to run it down, then up to the hole. It lay on the green and carefully studied the putt. Then he arose, struck the ball boldly and it went straight for the hole hit the back of the cup, jumped up as though it had other intentions, then fell in for a three.

At the tenth both Hagen and Smith missed three-yard putts and the best they could do was halve. At the fourteenth Hagen started another centre-liner for the hole and it looked as though it would be dead for an ace. It just tipped the cup, however, and the hole was halved.

The play continued even until the eighteenth, when Smith took three to reach the green, adding two putts. Hagen then proceeded to take three putts, spoiling the chance to tie Mitchell's 4 which the latter had made by laying a chip shot from a bunker to within two inches of the hole.

Americans Cheer Hagen.

When Hagen came out for the afternoon round, the American spectators gave him three cheers, to which he responded by making one of the finest approach shots of the day. His drive landed just in front of a bunker with the green fifty yards away and with a steep slope to the hole. The champion, using a niblick, landed the ball on the edge of the green and it rolled to within six feet of the cup. His famous putting eye again wavered, and the Americans were forced to take a half with fours. Smith's drive on this hole went deep into a bunker and he picked up.

On the next hole Hagen dropped a six-yarder, winning. But at the fifth Mitchell sank his third from the rough and won back the hole. At the short sixth Hagen made a perfect 3, dropping the ball from ten feet, but Duncan did likewise. The aspect did not change until the eighth, which Smith won by a beautiful twelve-foot putt for a 4.

At the tenth Duncan took the centre of the stage by sinking one from the ten-yard line, winning the hole. The British star kept this up until the end. At the eleventh he took advantage of Hagen's miss for a 3 and squared the hole. On the next three holes Duncan performed miraculously with his putter and prevented the Americans from taking what seemed to be certain wins.

The fourteenth was squared after each had missed a chance for a 3. At the fifteenth Hagen, Duncan and Mitchell each got 3. Here Smith had a chance to capture a birdie 2 with a six-foot putt. The ball, however, just stopped short of the cup. The game ended on the sixteenth, where Hagen shot his second into a bunker and took 4. While Smith failed to drop from twenty yards, Mitchell won by an easy two-foot drop.

WALKER WILL MEET LEONARD ON AUG. 8

Welterweight Champion to Defend Title in Rickard's Jersey City Arena.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will defend his title against Benny Leonard, world's lightweight titleholder, in a twelve-round bout in the huge pine bowl of Promoter Tex Rickard in Jersey City on the night of Aug. 8, according to present plans. Walker already has signed for the contest and has agreed to the date suggested by Promoter Rickard, who will conduct the match. Billy Gibson, manager of Leonard, after a series of conferences with Rickard, has consented to terms and the date and, if he follows schedules, will sign a contract on behalf of Leonard this morning at 10 o'clock, when he is scheduled to appear at Madison Square Garden, where Rickard has his headquarters.

These developments in the long-awaited Walker-Leonard situation were learned yesterday from a thoroughly reliable source. Promoter Rickard is expected to make the official announcement of the bout date and place on Monday, when it is expected, every detail in connection with preliminary arrangements for the battle will have been attended to. When Gibson signs a contract for Leonard to box for Rickard, the efforts of Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker at the Polo Grounds, where Smith got a 4 for a half with Duncan, leaving Hagen to hole out for a three with a seven-yard putt. At the tenth Duncan took the centre of the stage by sinking one from the ten-yard line, winning the hole. The British star kept this up until the end. At the eleventh he took advantage of Hagen's miss for a 3 and squared the hole. On the next three holes Duncan performed miraculously with his putter and prevented the Americans from taking what seemed to be certain wins.

The fourteenth was squared after each had missed a chance for a 3. At the fifteenth Hagen, Duncan and Mitchell each got 3. Here Smith had a chance to capture a birdie 2 with a six-foot putt. The ball, however, just stopped short of the cup. The game ended on the sixteenth, where Hagen shot his second into a bunker and took 4. While Smith failed to drop from twenty yards, Mitchell won by an easy two-foot drop.

Spuhn of Washington Crew To Help Coach at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 11.—Harvard has gone West for another rowing coach, the appointment of Fred W. Spuhn, a member of this year's University of Washington crew, as an assistant coach for next year being announced today. Spuhn, who rowed as No. 7, was the winner this year of the Piggott Cup, awarded annually to the member of the University of Washington crews who has been the greatest inspiration to the squad. He probably will have charge of the 150-pound crew at Harvard. Edward L. Bigelow, a member of the Crimson hockey teams of 1920 and 1921, has been appointed varsity hockey coach for next season, and the reappointment of W. E. Lewis as head coach of wrestling was announced.

MAD HATTER FAILS AT YONKERS FIELD

His Defeat by Sleepy Head Causes Upset—Bright Steel Also Scores for Butler.

BONAPARTE EASY VICTOR

Captures Embassy High-Weight Handicap — Feysun Wins—Tropical Water Drops Dead.

There is no place like home for James Butler's horses. The owner of the Empire City track sent out two more winners on the Hilltop yesterday. Time was when the bandsmen, who greet each Butler winner with "The Wearin' o' the Green," had to keep the music handy for fear of forgetting it between victories, but now a days it's a habit. Yesterday they played it for Sleepy Head and Bright Steel.

Sleepy Head won the Spur Purse, which was named for his sire, and beat temperamental old Mad Hatter in the bargain, and Bright Steel nosed out Devonshire under the wire in the most thrilling finish of the day. Neither race was the schedule feature.

The Hotel Embassy High Weight Handicap had the place of honor on the card. It offered a chance for the Riviera Stable's Bonaparte to blaze the trail from barrier to winning post and beat H. T. Waters by two lengths and easying up at the finish. To the sorrow of the talent the winner had few friends until after the race. He opened at 8 to 1, then went to 12 to 1 and stayed there. The favorite was the Greentree Stable's Broomster, which finished third. The winner ran the short six furlongs in 1:08 3-5 under a snug ride by Thomas, who kept the rail all the way and never lost a foot of ground.

Feysun Comes From Sixth to Win.

The fifth race, a claiming contest at a mile, was a peculiarly run race in which Feysun came from a bad sixth at the three-quarters pole to win by two lengths. Anne, a long shot, ran into the place and Larry Carey's Pathan was third. Feysun paid 4 to 1 and had Maiben in the saddle. Bees, the recipient of a heavy play at post time, ran forwardly throughout but was bumped out of whatever chance he had. Passport, the 5 to 2 favorite, was sixth.

Besides being an odd sort of contest the race resulted in an equine tragedy. Tropical Water, the Joaquin Stable's three-year-old colt by Rapid Water—Maria C, finished the race in seventh place, ran on another eighth and toppled over dead.

It was an afternoon in which most of the favorites were beaten, but the defeat of Mad Hatter was the real surprise of the day. What the Fair Play horse needed was Earl Sande. This is no reflection on Laverne Fator, who made no mistakes, but the whimsical old horse apparently won't run for anybody except Sande. He was off fourth and was crowded back slightly at the paddock turn, but going up the back stretch Fator had him in a comfortable position and there was no excuse for him except that he made up his mind not to do his best and only that would have been good enough to beat Sleepy Head.

Mad Hatter's Failure Disappoints.

Needless to say, Mad Hatter's failure was a keen disappointment to those who had backed him at 1 to 3, and, judging from the lack of noise at the finish, these must have made up about 90 per cent. of the crowd. The winner paid his scattering support 10 to 1, and C. E. Madden's Check, which was third, was the rank outsider among the five starters. The mile and seventy yards was run in 1:44 flat.

SIXTH RACE.

In speaking of Epinard's present condition, Trainer Leigh said that he is now pushing Belgoven which made him the wonder horse of the Continent last season as a three-year-old.

"Epinard has not been in his true condition all Spring," he said. "In his upper halves of his body he was practically left at the post, twelve lengths back, and went on to win. In the shape he was in at that time it didn't do him any good. He wasn't right for the match race with Sir Galahad III., and I was opposed to it; but Mr. Wertheimer had already made the agreement to race, and we kept the engagement."

Mr. Leigh by no means boasted of his colt's abilities, but he has the deepest faith in him and believes that he will show Americans a great race horse. With a brief rest at Belmont Park and the balance of the month and all of August in regular training under the rejuvenating environment at Saratoga Springs, Leigh expects he will bring the colt to the post at Belmont Park on Labor Day fit to run the race of his life.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1924.

NOT PROGRESSIVE, DESTRUCTIVE.

Senator LA FOLLETTE'S trumpeters affect to be overjoyed at the nomination of Mr. DAVIS. It is just what they wanted. It will drive "progressive" Democrats into the La Follettian flock. Some Republican brethren express the same pious belief or hope. Since the Cleveland surrender to the indispensable Badger happened before the Democrats had made their nomination, the faithful assumed that anybody named by the Democrats would and must be "reactionary." Loose as is the employment of that word and its antonym "progressive," what sort of "progressive" Democrats or Republicans, outside of the known devotees to whom Mr. LA FOLLETTE is an infallible religion, are likely to follow him in his personally conducted excursion into destructive radicalism? His program includes projects that, if they could be carried out, would sweepingly change American polity.

The subversion of the Supreme Court by Congress, the shackling of other Federal courts for the supposed benefit of the labor unions, would be a destructive change. It would place all the guarantees of the Constitution at the mercy of Congress. Government ownership of the railroads, with "democratic," that is railroad union, "control," would create an enormous Socialist State—and Mr. LA FOLLETTE is ready for other adventures of the same kind—with an enormous bureaucracy. That is the sort of "progressiveness" which Mr. LA FOLLETTE offers. Then, behind him for the purposes of this campaign, and also for further purposes of their own, are the Socialists. How attractive will they be to those mythical and multitudinous "progressives" whom the imaginations of the La Follettian apostles are invoking?

"Progressive" is a highly elastic word. At last it has been stretched until it breaks.

TYING OUR OWN HANDS.

It was only a tentative draft of a treaty for disarmament on which the League of Nations requested the views of the Government of the United States, so that there is no necessary finality in the reply made by Secretary HUGHES. Yet, in effect, it amounts to a plea of impotence. The United States has disabled itself from doing what it professes to desire to do for the peace of the world. Not being a member of the League, and confessing that it has no power to ratify the treaty as a State not a member may do under the plan proposed, Secretary HUGHES comes to the sorrowful conclusion that "this Government would "find it impossible to give its adher-"ence" to the scheme of all-round disarmament put forward by the League of Nations.

This dismissal of the project Secretary HUGHES plainly has no wish to make cavalier. He protests that our Government is "most desirous that "appropriate agreements should be "reached to limit armament." The Secretary says with emphasis that the American Government "notes with "keen and sympathetic interest every "endeavor to that end." There is no doubt of his sincerity. But what will the people in Europe think? We fear that they will be tempted to quote to Mr. HUGHES the deep sympathy of the Walrus for the oysters just before he sorted out and swallowed those of the largest size. A sympathy that does not go beyond words is not exactly what the international situation calls for today.

It will be noted that the officials of the League of Nations at Geneva regard the American reply as "friendly." The truth is that the whole matter of a supplementary treaty of disarmament has not yet got beyond the stage of discussion. The document as drafted and sent out is understood not entirely to meet the views of the different European nations. If a better form of words can be found, or a better procedure devised, the way is open. Moreover, the League has now before it the draft of another treaty of disarmament and security drawn by Americans, and recently printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES. There is an obvious effort to bring about a meeting of the minds of all the countries concerned upon some practicable plan. To refuse even to discuss it is impossible for the United States.

Our Government two years ago invited several nations to come to Washington to consider this very question of disarmament. They gladly came. Useful decisions were reached, but, as Mr. HUGHES himself states, these were only partial. No formula could be worked out for cutting down the number of auxiliary warships or for reducing land forces. If Europe now desires us to take up the discussion where it was left off at Washington, with what grace or consistency can we decline? The Secretary of State does, indeed, point out difficulties in the way of our doing anything positive. But these difficulties are of our own creation. If we now have to appear before the world as an enfeebled Government, the weakness of our attitude has been our own election. We could shake it off in a day if we chose. Nobody else has tied our hands. We have done it ourselves. That is the chief reason why our Government is forced to reply to the humane advances of other nations that it would very much like to go with them into useful arrangements to secure the peace of the world, but that unfortunately its legs are paralyzed and it cannot walk.

AMERICAN BOSSES IN BERLIN.

The German Nationalists have thrown out a suggestion which raises the possibility of a pleasant Summer vacation abroad for our party leaders, and of relief for the radiomaniacs from the prospect of listening in for four long months to the oratory of the coming political campaign. According to these tactful Germans, they control 1,000,000 votes in the coming American election, and are prepared to throw them for whichever candidate promises repudiation of the Dawes plan and revision of the Versailles Treaty. Evidently aware of the fact that some of our domestic pundits have been complaining that we have no real issues in the campaign, they offer us this one.

If properly used, it might well add a touch of novelty to an otherwise dreary Summer. It stands to reason that if Berlin is ready to deliver 1,000,000 American votes, Rome London, Dublin, Warsaw and Moscow should each be able to deliver as many. It is not impossible that the bosses in some of those countries could be induced to throw their American constituencies against the Germans, and so oppose revision of the treaty and insist on the enforcement of the Dawes plan. This would provide a clean-cut issue. Instead of having to undertake an expensive and tumultuous campaign throughout the length and breadth of this land, the Democratic and Republican leaders (with Mr. LA FOLLETTE Jr. trailing along behind) would only have to engage passage to Europe and there could meet the masters of these American votes controlled abroad, and over a mug or stein of beer settle the entire business. It would be agreeable—and educational—for the politicians, and the candidates would be spared much traveling to and fro. Incidentally, the various broadcasting stations would be relieved of the necessity of shutting off lovely sopranos in order to clear the air for political speeches.

The record of the German Nationalists for stupidity is so high that it is idle either to take seriously their boast of controlling a million votes in America or to blame them for their presumption. Unfortunately, however, the hope which they entertain of being able to influence American politics in behalf of the Fatherland has only too often been held by others here and elsewhere. It is regrettable that our own politicians have encouraged them by truckling to the so-called foreign vote. This is as unfair to the voters of alien birth as it is to the country, inasmuch as it has given them to believe that the interest of some foreign nation is a fit subject to bring into American politics. Incidentally, it casts a reflection by implication on the loyalty of the great mass of the foreign-born, who, in a Presidential election, are as earnestly solicitous of America's interests as are the descendants of the Mayflower stock.

A TYPICAL TRACTION EPISODE.

The New York Railways Company dies as it was born—in foreclosure—with ruthless disregard of paper values. Through its predecessor companies it has been reconstructed several times as the art of transportation advanced and as financial conditions altered. Horses, cables and electric plant have been bought and scrapped repeatedly. Once again we read that the common stock is wiped out. Some bondholders are not allowed anything under the plan, while others receive new stock for old bonds, and still others receive a bond on income instead of on property. The deceased was capitalized at $91,000,000, and had to meet $3,628,000 in charges, allowing the stock nothing for dividends. The new concern is bonded for a little less than a single million dollars of interest on $20,000,000 of property. There is another million payable on bonds on income, if earned. There are two classes of stock veraciously labeled of no par value.

This is the result of five years of financial purgatory, following a similar punitive period. The future is officially certified as hopeful. Engineers say that the new company can earn both its fixed and contingent interest, and that its rejuvenation will enable it to be a more serviceable public utility. The local and Federal officials and courts approve the union. Let it be hoped that there is no error now, as it was thought there was none before.

The occasion serves to ask whether "the interests" are not financial flagellants, who punish themselves for their sins more severely than they could be punished in any other way. They are jeered at as profiteers, although the original investment has been wiped out. They are now adding new funds in order that the nickel fare may be preserved, although they would have been richer if they had kept their first investment in their pockets. If Mayor HYLAN had never lived, these "interests" would have committed suicide under the economic conditions forced upon them.

EZRA MEEKER, OFFICESEEKER.

The perennially youthful EZRA MEEKER, within six years of a century, offers himself as a candidate for the House of Representatives in the State of Washington. He seems to be rather old for night sessions and deadlocks, but his motive may send him to the top of the poll. He stands for a highway through Naches Pass instead of through Chinook Pass. In a covered wagon more than seventy years ago EZRA creaked through Naches Pass when the country was a wilderness and Indian arrows might fall upon an encampment any night. The veteran, whose visit with oxen and prairie schooner in 1907 New York remembers, should be something of a good roads expert, for in the covered wagon days he knew what bad roads were. It may be supposed that his preference for Naches Pass is not entirely sentimental. MEEKER is so progressive that when Lieutenants KELLY and MACREADY flitted across the continent in twenty-six hours he telegraphed to them:

> Congratulations on your wonderful flight, which beats my time made seventy-one years ago by ox team at two miles an hour, five months on the way. Happy to see in my ninety-third year so great a transformation in methods of travel. Ready to go with you next time.

No one has done more for the Oregon Trail by example and precept than EZRA MEEKER. He has traveled it in a prairie schooner three times and preached the marking of it every few miles. "Pathfinder" FREMONT, he contends, followed a trail blazed and beaten down by the bearded pioneers. "If they failed," said he, "starva-"tion confronted them. Go ahead they "must, for retreat was impossible. "They were not in the position of the "Pilgrims landing on Plymouth Rock, "who could retreat to their ships." When MEEKER arrived in New York, long of hair and beard, with his ox team and Jim the collie dog, he came on a mission, which was to save the Oregon Trail from oblivion. A man of much reading, he wrote well about the covered wagons and also the Men of '49. At 94 his mind is still clear and his frame sturdy. No good roads "rooter" is more vocal than he. We should like to see him approaching the Capitol geeing and hawing to his oxen.

"CITIZEN BIRD."

Senate documents are not often classed as entertaining literature. An exception is Senate Document No. 151. The public has to thank the Senator from New Hampshire, Mr. MOSES, for reporting it to the Senate and asking for its printing. It contains the Proceedings of the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation, called by the President late in May. The document has just come from the Government Printing Office and should have widest possible circulation.

One of its delightful features is the address by the ornithologist, Dr. FRANK M. CHAPMAN, the veteran lover of birds, who pleads the "cause of Citizen Bird" in hope that he who learned to fly long before man may have that consideration which science, sport and sentiment think he so well deserves. Dr. CHAPMAN admits that he can give no ornithological reason for the belief that every one is born with a bird in his heart, but he believes it nevertheless. The interest in bird life is inherent and needs but to be aroused and developed in order to become a potent bond between man and nature. To "come at these enchantments" in nature is one of our outdoor recreational privileges. To preserve these creatures, more exquisite and attractive than the most nearly perfect product of the sculptor's chisel or the painter's brush, so that not only we but generations to come may still enjoy the "most eloquent ex-"pression of nature's beauty, joy and "freedom," should not be beneath the concern of even the most august of Senates.

Other reasons are given for protecting and preserving these citizens of the air, that will appeal even to those whose ears are deaf to song or whose eyes see no beauty in the plumage or form of birds. Of these human beings who have only fossil bird embryos in their hardened hearts Dr. CHAPMAN says:

> When the voter and the lawmaker learn that the stomach of a single cedar bird contained 100 canker worms, that one cuckoo had eaten 250 tent caterpillars when disturbed in the midst of a meal, that 454 plant lice were found in the stomach of a chickadee, that a flicker had devoured 1,000 chinch bugs, that a scarlet tanager was seen to eat 630 gypsy-moth caterpillars in eighteen minutes, or at the rate of 2,100 an hour, and that a Maryland yellowthroat ate 3,500 plant lice in forty minutes, they are apt to sit up and take notice.

Man has himself sometimes so disturbed the finely balanced relation between the organisms in nature and their environment that normally useful birds became harmful, but Dr. CHAPMAN protests against their wholesale condemnation without giving the accused a hearing before the Federal Court of Biological Survey. And as to game birds, our assets in them should be placed for protection in the hands of sportsmen who are most concerned in their conservation.

There are many alluring passages in Senate Document 151, but none more inviting than this paragraph in Dr. CHAPMAN'S eclogue in prose:

> The clarion "honk" of migrating geese wedging their way to parts unknown, the call of the loon or lonely mountain lake, the sunrise carol of the robin, the evening hymn of the hermit thrush in the cathedral of the hemlocks, "Do you ne'er think of what wondrous beings these?"

Those who are shut away from thinking on these and other such wondrous things in sight, hearing or memory have missed much of the charm of life between the coming of the stork and the call of the owl.

A TRAVELER IN HAPPYLAND.

We begin to miss, almost to regret, the growls of foreign travelers in the United States. Vinegar is at least as useful as molasses. Yet it is impossible not to admire the amiable and gracious spirit of our recent guest, M. EMILE RIPERT, Professor in the Faculty of Letters of the University of Aix-Marseille. He was over here last Winter and Spring, under the auspices of the Alliance Française, to speak—and most delightfully he spoke—on his native Provence and its literary glories, MISTRAL and the great Félibres; also of DAUDET, ROSTAND, J. H. FABRE; of Roussillon, JOFFRE'S "country"; of NAPOLEON'S Corsica, of LAFAYETTE'S Le Velay. For four months he traveled from Massachusetts to Texas and thence to Minnesota and Canada. He lectured in fifty cities. Anywhere else this would have been a hard task. Here it was made easy by "the ad-"mirable organization of private life "and everybody's extreme kindness."

Before he came he had heard the common legend that this was a feverish country in which "everything is "crowded and jostled in effervescent "haste." On the contrary, although he was almost always moving, he had a constant feeling of "calm, security, gentleness, perfect politeness"! Follow the happy traveler in his progress through the land of perfection:

> Hotels, taxis, porters, Pullmans, taxis, lecture rooms, luncheons, teas, dinners, and again hotels, taxis, Pullmans. So from city to city. Everything was just what it ought to be, in its exact place, at its exact hour. I never heard an angry or impatient word. In four months I never heard the sound of a dispute, even of a discussion. [Why discuss when everything is regulated the best it can be?] I never saw an employe in bad humor, a passenger in a hurry or impolite. Everywhere calm, order, cleanliness, comfort, a calm strength sure of itself. And everywhere also kindness.

One suspects that M. RIPERT is the Perfect Traveler. The rest of us are not gifted with ears that hear no quarrels or eyes that see nobody possessed of a "grouch." Were there no deep thinkers disputing about everything in the smoking compartments of the professor's Pullman cars? Some of us have wasted years in the aggregate waiting for trains, forgetful of their exact hour. Rude passengers, rude employes, proud porters, have been encountered. That New Yorker is singularly blessed or sedentary who isn't cursed at least three times day and evening by the impetuous and homicidal taxi driver, lord of the streets. Probably even M. RIPERT would have to listen to many thousand miles of discussion if he were here when the political season is fully open. But his temperament is to be envied, however marvelous to the native seem his peregrinations in Happyland.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Victim Who Earned No Sympathy.

It probably would be unfair and unjust to see in the killing of young REXON, over in Keansburg, N. J., anything particularly illustrative of country manners and morals as distinguished from those of cities, for in cities, too, humor may take strange forms. Still, the playing of what are called practical jokes seems to be rather more common among rustics than among urbanites, and the jesting of the former tends more toward brutality in the infliction of pain and humiliation on the selected victim.

The Keansburg episode was notable, even among its class, partly because of the viciousness and criminality of those who devised the jest, and partly because of the almost incredible simplicity that marked the young man who was to provide the amusement. Without difficulty he was persuaded to enter upon an adventure that would have involved two or three kinds of turpitude for him, and he was followed to his absurd tryst by a score of men who expected to be vastly amused by his terrors when he thought himself exposed to the anger of a betrayed husband.

The laboriously ingenious plot worked out to the satisfaction of its inventors until one of the pistols with which REXON'S terror was to be caused proved to have been loaded with other than blank cartridges, and the young man, as he fled through the darkness, was shot dead. There was no intention to kill, so it is useless to talk about murder, and little probability that the devisers of the sorry joke will be punished with even a close approach to the severity they deserve from every standpoint except the strictly legal one. But it is not easy to feel more than cold sympathy for the man who was killed. If he had been possessed of either sense or decency, he would not have been beguiled to what proved to be his death.

Journalists Cared for Journalists.

A little noted feature of the Democratic Convention was the successful effort made by the members of the Newspaper Club to take care of the little army of correspondents from out of town, to provide them with amusement for their brief periods of leisure, and to assist them in the performance of their work.

More than 500 of these stranger journalists registered at the club and utilized the facilities provided there in the shape of typewriters, telephones and messenger boys especially put at their service. Other forms of assistance were placed at the disposal of the visitors and constantly used. Thirteen carefully organized entertainments were conducted in the clubrooms with the assistance of men and women of the stage, and there were three midnight performances in theatres, trips to Coney Island and the race track, tickets for all the major league ball games and the free use of a dozen near-by golf courses.

This display of fraternal hospitality will be as effective, in its way, as were the many like efforts by others to entertain the delegates while they were not in the convention hall, in proving to the rest of the country that New York is not a place where strangers are coldly viewed or altogether ignored. The guests of the Newspaper Club will do a lot of writing after they get home, and the impressions of the city which they have carried away will help to give it a more just reputation for good-will and cordiality.

All Right—Blame the Masters.

If the defender of police dogs whose letter was printed on this page yesterday is an assiduous reader of its columns, he must know that no paper has oftener or more enthusiastically recognized the virtues and merits of the whole canine race. Even in what it had to say the other day about the particular dogs praised by him it charged them with nothing except what he himself in substance admitted, that, unless they are carefully and effectively trained, their size, strength and strongly developed traits as watchdogs make them dangerous creatures in urban and suburban communities.

And the number of them that are so trained is very small. The others roam the streets, and often the papers record an attack by one of them on some adult or child who unwittingly has done something that offended or irritated one of these animals. Of unreported scares and small injuries caused by them there are many more.

These dogs are not "vicious" or "treacherous" in the usual significance of those words. They are excellent friends to those whom they know, and there is no limit to their courage in the performance of what they suppose to be their duty; but they have more than the natural canine inability to discriminate between people who should be eaten up and people who should be allowed to live. In other words, they have the defects of their qualities, and their faults really are those of their careless owners, just as our correspondent declared.

That, however, does not make their assaults any less terrifying. Between the properly disciplined police dog and the one who carries on by the light of nearly or quite unassisted nature there is about the same difference as between a good soldier and a bandit, or between a member of the coast guard and a pirate. The same issue of THE TIMES that contained its correspondent's defense of these dogs also told how one of them had severely bitten a little girl encountered by it on a street up in the Bronx.

They Ignored Much Good Advice.

Judging from the total amount of money, $46,479, which was refunded in the first batch of checks, numbering 2,163, sent out from Washington to the people who paid their full income tax in March, the mistake of not waiting for the often promised and confidently prophesied 25 per cent. reduction was made by just the people for whom the reduction was of the most importance. They were, that is, not large taxpayers, but small ones.

The 2,163 now get back, on the average, a little over $20 each, which shows that their unreduced tax would have been about $80 each.

Why they did not wait for the passage of the Tax bill it is hard to understand. They were advised to do so, again and again, not only by every newspaper, but by several of the high Treasury officials. Yet there were of them, in all, it seems, 1,058,000 taxpayers! One can be quite sure that in the whole 1,058,000 there are very few persons with big incomes, and probably there is not one of them the possessor of a really large fortune.

THE OLD HARBOR.

Brave ships beat home long ago,
Rope and canvas tugging taut,
Brave ships in triumphant row,
Victors in the fight they fought;
Ships from Hongkong and the Horn,
Following a foamy trail,
Beaten, battered, bruised and torn,
Shattered spar and tattered sail—
Yet the brave ships still beat in,
Scarred but proud of mastery
Of the war they waged to win
Over the relentless sea.
Brave ships beat home long ago,
Holds abrim with oils and spice,
Coffee, sugar, cacao,
Coconuts and silks and rice,
Laden to the Plimsoll line
Till their decks were damp with spray—
Square-rig, brig and barkentine—
Ah, but that was yesterday!

SPIRIT OF THE CLASSICS

Often Missed in the Original but Caught in Translations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your moderate criticism of the classicists may attract deserved attention to a folly of our educational system. In the high schools, Latin demands a double portion of the time of our brightest students on what are, largely, false pretenses.

The study of Latin might, but—as Mr. Porterfield has observed—does not, awaken in pupils a lively curiosity as to the history of the English language. If, as critics acknowledge, our young writers lack fineness in the use of their vocabulary, is it not because they are ignorant of the pedigree of words, their history, and their romance? Might not a part of the time now spent upon Latin grammar be well devoted to an examination of the Latin expressions that have passed into English, the various roads they have traveled, and the varying fortunes of those interesting immigrants?

As for the thought and spirit of the classics, the urbanity of Terence and Pliny, the idealism of Plato, the passionate humanity of Euripides—with these we need acquaintance if we are to preserve anything of that essence of civilization, that nobility of attitude, which forced admiration from even the fanatics of the Dark Ages. But to most of our students these are vague ghosts with which they need not concern themselves; their business is only with the dead bodies of the languages, to sort part with part, and then—neatly bury the whole.

Keats caught the spirit of Greece from English translations; he had no opportunity to study Greek in the schools. Kinglake, historian of the Crimean War and author of "Eöthen," one of the most delightful travel books ever written, was equipped with all the knowledge the best English scholarship could give; but he says:

"A learned commentator knows something of the Greeks in the same sense as an oil-and-color man may be said to know something of painting; but take an untamed child, and leave him alone for twelve months with any translation of Homer, and he will be nearer by twenty centuries to the spirit of old Greece. * * *

"It was not the recollection of school, nor college learning, but the rapturous and earnest reading of my childhood which made me bend forward so longingly to the plains of Troy."

Objects to New York Dogs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On my visits to New York I am always impressed with the folly of the apparently well-dressed and well-to-do people, especially women, being led around the streets of your beautiful city by dogs with collar and chains around their necks. This is the most heathenish practice I know of for civilized and, I trust, church-going people to indulge in.

I heard a lady yesterday, who was dressed to the last degree in style and I guess the clothes she wore weighed about seventeen ounces, entertaining her friends at a leading hotel by telling them how near her poodle could come to talking. I ventured the remark, "Why don't you poison your pup and go to some orphan home and get a baby boy or girl, and then you would have something made after the image of God who, as the years roll by, will not only talk to you but will love, cherish and protect you in your advanced age?" For this advice I am satisfied that, as she gave me the "once over," she would have headed a mob and lynched me. Such a perverted affection is beyond my comprehension.

I am told that some wealthy dog lovers have an auto and a chauffeur to take their canine pets out for an airing on Riverside Drive. I notice a few colored (negro) women imitating their white sisters with dogs and chains, too. If I had the power I would tax dog lovers according to their ability to pay from $1 up to $1,200 a year for owning pet dogs and give this tax money to the orphan homes of New York City. By this they could continue loving their dogs, but at the same time they would be compelled to help support orphaned babies.

I am attending the National Democratic Convention and having a good time.

Alexander Hamilton's Home.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At the beginning of our nation party contest was strong; the Federalists and anti-Federalists were more bitterly opposed than our present day Democrats and Republicans.

Alexander Hamilton, the leader of the former, was hotly accused by Jefferson and Madison, the leaders of the latter, as an aristocrat and monarchist. To offset this false idea, Hamilton publicly avowed he was a "Republican," whereupon his opponents declared they stood for the people, and called themselves "Democrats."

New York City has reason to be proud that Alexander Hamilton was her citizen. His home, from whose steps he passed down the last time to accept the challenge of his political antagonist, Aaron Burr, stands on Convent Avenue and 141st Street. It is owned by the Corporation of St. Luke's Church, which extends an invitation to visit the historic house, now used as a dwelling for the rector, the Rev. William T. Walsh, S. T. B.

Sao Paulo Insurrection.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

According to the reports coming to this country, it is very easy for one who knows the military organizations in Brazil, also the topographical situation of Sao Paulo City, to understand that, while the Sao Paulo State Police are very numerous and strong, they cannot stand a real fight with the national troops. Moreover, Sao Paulo City is surrounded by high mountains, which do not afford any ways of retreat. Sao Bernardo Village, where a fight is reported to have taken place, is a suburb of Sao Paulo, no more than twenty-five minutes by motor car, on the side road to Santos. The Luz barracks are located in front of the North Station of the Sao Paulo Railway, about five minutes from Campos Elyseos, which is the Governor's Palace. Since the revolutionists aimed at the State Governor, and the outbreak started at the Luz barracks, the movement has no political or national character, and cannot be but the desire of the State Police to get rid of the French instructors.

Radio for the Bed-Ridden.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many thanks for your cooperation with us in the radio fund to which your generous readers have given in money $177.10, besides interesting a volunteer radio service man, who made a gift of a beautiful three-tube set, a volunteer interested in giving books and ten inquiries by letter or telephone. All this has enabled us to give the man in question the set mentioned and run it for a year, bought and will run for a year a one-tube set for a bed-ridden woman, and another for a crippled man, and we are getting into working order two other sets; one for a crippled boy, who also has a bad heart, only 6 years old, and a boy of 15, paralysed from his waist down, who goes about in a wheel chair and is learning chair-caning.

LOWERING THE DEATH RATE.

Nathan Straus Urges Small Towns to Use Pasteurized Milk.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with great interest your editorial article "New York's Health" in this morning's edition. It has so much relation to my personal work and experience. Coincident with the development of milk pasteurization in New York City the death rate among children under five years has dropped from 96.2 per thousand, which it was in 1892, to 24.7 per thousand in 1923. Other factors besides milk pasteurization have, of course, been active to reach these results.

I established my first milk depot in 1893. By the year 1920 there were 297 distributed over thirty-six cities, and their numbers are continually increasing. In connection with these depots pre-natal work and the care of children, including proper feeding, are taught to mothers. The educational part has been of great importance.

These benefits are still lacking in cities of from 10,000 to 25,000, which seems to explain their comparatively higher death rate.

What can be accomplished in smaller towns has been proved conclusively. Years ago I helped to established in Mamaroneck, my country home, a child welfare station. The population to a great extent is Italian, mothers who have no opportunity of knowing the value of pure milk, hygiene and sanitation.

Pre-natal work is followed and the care of children has been taught. But the main factor, as the trained nurse in charge of the station informs me, has been the dispensing of the pasteurized modified ready-to-drink milk in nursing bottles. The death rate, when this station was opened in 1917, was 85 per thousand. Last year it had been reduced to 45 per thousand, and there was not a single death from intestinal disease.

This work can be done with comparatively small expense and can easily be copied in every town and city with the same beneficial results in the prevention of sickness and the saving of lives by the simple remedy of pasteurization of milk.

POLISH MINORITIES BILL.

Minister at Washington Says It Extends New Rights.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The prominence given in Friday's TIMES to a Warsaw dispatch of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency captioned "Violence in Polish Diet" obliges me reluctantly to comment on the misleading character of the statements. The dispatch conveys the false impression that the legislation under consideration by the Polish Diet is designed to deprive minorities of the Eastern Provinces of existing rights.

The fact is that the purpose of the bill which was introduced by the Government a week ago is to grant rights to the national minorities which they did not possess under Russian rule nor during the period of reorganization of these provinces since they became a part of the Polish State three years ago. The principal purpose of the legislation is to recognize complete freedom in the use of the Ukrainian, White Ruthenian and Lithuanian languages in the schools, before the courts and administrative authorities. The measure was voted two days ago by common assent of all Polish parties, comprising 75 per cent. of the membership in the Diet. Deputies of the national minorities opposed the measure because from their point of view the rights granted were insufficient, and they abstained from voting.

The reason for the Jewish opposition was the omission of Yiddish from the list of recognized official languages. The fighting and disturbance mentioned in the Jewish dispatch were caused by divergencies of viewpoint among the several Jewish factions in the Diet, according to a news dispatch from the Polish Telegraphic Agency received by the legation today.

Statistics on the Horse.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of June 22, under the heading "Demand for Horses Greatest in History, Survey Reveals," is an article in which William E. Murphy, Secretary of the National Horseshoers' Protective Association, is quoted as authority for some rather startling figures on the increased demand for horses. Mr. Murphy was speaking at the annual convention of the association then in session at Asbury Park.

We were interested in this statement, particularly as it is in sharp contrast to reports which I have received from official sources. My information shows that in the largest cities the horse has decreased anywhere from 53 to 75 per cent. during the past ten years, while the total horse population of the country on Jan. 1, 1923, was 18,853,000, as compared with 19,099,000 on Jan. 1, 1922.

The following table, which is based on official reports from the cities concerned, shows how rapidly the horse is passing out of service in our large cities:

	1910.	1920.	1924.	Decrease.
New York	128,000		50,053	60.8%
Chicago	68,000	20,000		85.8%
Philadelphia	50,000	10,000		60.7%
Baltimore	15,000	7,000		53.3%
Cleveland	16,000	4,000		75.0%

East and West.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having traveled over a large part of the United States I should like to get into the controversy over "Western customs," &c.

The West is made up chiefly of people from the East or of their descendants. They retain their customs just as foreigners adhere to old-country customs. The fashion magazines and every other bit of reading matter go to every part of the country within a few days, and there is not a noticeable difference. A greater difference exists between the people of the country towns in the East and the cities of the East than any other division of the country. There is more difference between the east side and the west side of New York City than there is between the East and West of the United States.

No matter where one lives, he imagines his place is right and all that differ are wrong.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I do not believe that the 11,000,000 prescription holders who purchased whisky for medicinal purposes last year agree with the statements made by Mr. Wayne B. Wheeler, legislative Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in your valuable paper of today's issue. I rather believe they would have preferred buying medicinal whisky of unquestioned purity at one-fifth the price and without the necessity of paying for a physician's prescription. Since Mr. Wheeler believes so firmly in the efficacy of prohibition, he can, perhaps, explain why the withdrawals of alcohol have increased from 18,933,351 proof gallons in the year ended June 30, 1920 (the first year of prohibition), to 132,402,849 proof gallons in the year ended June 30, 1923.

PLANS NEW RULES TO BAR JAPANESE

Department of Labor to Act on Admission of Aliens Now in Hawaii.

LEGAL POINTS INVOLVED

Questions Raised as to Effect of Provisions in Immigration Act of 1924.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A new set of regulations concerning immigration to the American mainland of Japanese already in the Hawaiian Islands is being prepared by the Department of Labor. They are necessitated by the contention which has been raised that Japanese in Hawaii, numbering about 107,000, are in reality already within the limits of the United States, and, therefore, free to move about as they please. Those who have taken this attitude argue that the new immigration law excludes Japanese from the United States, and then proceeds to define the term "United States" as including Hawaii.

Roosevelt's Order Recalled.

In considering the legal points involved the Department of Labor has taken cognizance of the Executive order issued by President Roosevelt on March 14, 1907, which was designed to prevent Japanese from coming from Hawaii to the American mainland.

The Roosevelt Executive order follows:

Whereas, by the act entitled "An Act to Regulate the Immigration of Aliens Into the United States," approved Feb. 20, 1907, whenever the President is satisfied that passports issued by any foreign Government to its citizens to go to any country other than the United States or to an insular possession of the United States or to the Canal Zone, are being used for the purpose of enabling the holders thereof to come to the continental territory of the United States, to the detriment of labor conditions therein,

I hereby order that such citizens of Japan or Korea, to wit, Japanese or Korean laborers, skilled and unskilled, who have received passports to go to Mexico, Canada or Hawaii, and come therefrom, be refused permission to enter the continental territory of the United States.

It is further ordered that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor be, and he hereby is, directed to take, through the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, such measures and to make and enforce such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry this order into effect.

Action Taken by Taft.

Another Executive order taken into consideration in connection with the formulating of the new regulations is that issued on Feb. 24, 1913, by President Taft, which reads:

Whereas by the act entitled "An act to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States," approved Feb. 20, 1907, whenever the President is satisfied that passports issued by any foreign Government to its citizens to go to any country other than the United States, or to any insular possession of the United States, or to the Canal Zone, are being used for the purpose of enabling the holders to come to the continental territory of the United States to the detriment of labor conditions therein, it is made the duty of the President to refuse to permit such citizens of the country issuing such passports to enter the continental territory of the United States from such country or from such insular possession or from the Canal Zone; and

Whereas, upon sufficient evidence produced before me by the Department of Commerce and Labor, I am satisfied that passports issued by certain foreign Governments to their citizens or subjects who are laborers, skilled or unskilled, to proceed to countries or places other than the continental territory of the United States are being used for the purpose of enabling the holders thereof to come to the continental territory of the United States to the detriment of labor conditions therein;

I hereby order that such alien laborers, skilled or unskilled, be refused permission to enter the continental territory of the United States.

It is further ordered that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor be and he hereby is directed to take, through the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, such measures and to make and enforce such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry this order into effect.

Two Legal Questions Raised.

Two principal questions of law have arisen in connection with the consideration of these two Executive orders. The first is whether these Executive orders were valid after July 1, 1924, the date the new Immigration law became effective. The second is whether President Coolidge has authority under the new law to issue a new Executive order in the same sense.

In working out an opinion on the points involved, especially with reference to the question of whether Japanese in Hawaii are not already within the limits of the United States, legal experts are being guided rather by the intent of the legislation in question than by the mere letter of the law. The Executive orders quoted, it is asserted, prove conclusively that it always has been the policy of the United States Government not to consider Japanese in Hawaii as in the same category as Japanese who have been legally admitted to the continental United States.

While it was asserted that the regulations about to be issued had not been completed, and could not be divulged, the general opinion in official quarters is that they will provide for the denial of admission to Japanese who may attemp

SOUTHAMPTON AIDS CAMP CAREY BOYS

GIVE DINNERS FOR EVENT

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 11.—Many of the Southampton villas were deserted tonight at the dinner hour in favor of the dinner, followed by dancing, held at the Canoe Place Inn, several miles from this village, in aid of Camp William Carey, the Summer branch of the Boys' Club of New York, of which Charles H. Sabin is President. It was the largest gathering thus far of the season. Some of the boys from the camp entertained the guests with their camp and popular songs during dinner, and there were also some Russian folksongs.

Many came for supper and to watch the competitive dancing by young members of the Summer colony, for which prizes were awarded.

Colonel Henry Huttleston Rogers, whose dinner was given at his home, brought his guests to the dance. In the party were Countess Salm, his daughter; Mr. and Mrs. J. Couper Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. H. Roger Benjamin, Mrs. Gladys Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Newell W. Tilton and Edgar Leonard.

FIND WHITE INDIANS ARE ALBINO TYPES

Museum Anthropologists, After Minute Examination, Disagree With Other Scientists.

CONDITION IS NOT UNUSUAL

Unique Feature, Says Report, Is Large Number of Such Cases Found in Small Area.

According to the anthropological staff of the American Museum of Natural History, the white Indians recently brought from Panama by Richard O. Marsh are albinos. This opinion was expressed yesterday in a report prepared for the Museum's records, which states that the Indians were perfectly usual types of albinism, and compare in all essential details with those known in other Southern American Indian peoples as well as Italians and negroes.

This explanation of the white Indians differs from others already given by scientific men. When the Indians were exhibited Tuesday night at the Waldorf, the one thing on which the scientific men present agreed was that they were not albinos. With that opinion before them, the members of the Natural History Museum staff with equal unanimity agreed that they were nothing else than albinos.

"There is some slight pigment in both the hair and the eyes; hence, they are not complete albinos," says the report. "But this is the most frequent type of human albinism." If it is a disease, it is not a new one, nor one confined to the tropics."

Like Typical Case.

When a reporter from the TIMES who has seen the white Indian children at close range, sought Dr. Louis R. Sullivan, physical anthropologist at the Museum, who drafted the report, he saw on the latter's desk a photograph which at first he believed that of Marguerite, the girl in the group of white Indian children. The resemblance was striking. It turned out, however, to be the picture of a girl from the Zuni tribe of Indians which was in the Museum's records as a typical case of human albinism.

The report calls attention to the fact that 400 cases of albinism were found by Mr. Marsh within a restricted district. This was characterized as unusual.

"There is nothing new in these cases as such," said Dr. Sullivan, "but it is important that Mr. Marsh found so many cases. That is entirely unprecedented. There will undoubtedly lead to scientific men going into the region to make exhaustive studies of the condition. Such a study might lead to important results.

"Previous cases of human albinism were known only in small numbers. We have seen two or three each among the Hopi Indians and the Zuni Indians, and we have photographs here of examples from Italy and among negroes. But never have cases been found in such numbers, and as we consider Mr. Marsh a straight-talking man, this aspect of his discovery will undoubtedly be considered of great interest and will be further studied."

The report follows an examination of the three white Indian children and their brown-skinned adult companions made by the staff at the Museum on Wednesday, the most exhaustive and thorough examination they have received since they have been here. Its text follows:

Anthropologists' Report.

A Note on the So-Called "White Indians" from Panama, by the Department of Anthropology, American Museum of Natural History.

The press has given considerable publicity to a group of so-called "White Indians" recently brought from Panama by Richard O. Marsh and to various theories advanced to account for them. Upon first arrival these "White Indians" were in bathing remnants of a proto-Nordic race, but the theory was quickly exploded by a group of scientists and medical men who examined them at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City. Various theories were advanced to account for their condition.

An expert on tropical diseases has said that they are suffering from a tropical disease akin to the form of leucoderma known in the West Indies. It is proposed to call this Marsh's disease, in honor of Richard O. Marsh, the latest to call attention to these people. The press reports the rest of the group agreed that the people are abnormal or pathological and not albinos. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that this was a new form of inheritable endocrine disturbance or deficiency.

In view of the above uncertainty it seems as if more details were due those scientific men who have not had an opportunity to examine these people, and hence have no basis for passing judgment upon the opinions quoted in the press.

Diminution of Pigment.

Through the courtesy of Richard O. Marsh the anthropological staff of the American Museum of Natural History had an opportunity to subject the three "White Indians" and five normal members of the tribe to complete examinations. Drs. Clark Wissler, Ralph W. Tower, Milo Hellman and Louis R. Sullivan cooperated in the work. The unanimous opinion of these men is that the three "White Indians" are albino members of the tribe. They are typical Indians of this type except in two respects: there is a very great diminution of pigment and their heads are a trifle shorter and higher than the darker representatives of the tribe.

The diminution of pigment extends to all parts of the body and its appendages. The skin is white (No. 3 on von Luschan's skin color scale). One of the boys is somewhat freckled, but the tendency of the skin seems to burn rather than tan. The hair is a light straw color. The pubic and axillary hair when present is somewhat lighter in color. In texture the hair is coarse and straight. The eyes are a very light brown in color, the type often called hazel. In reality, they are blue or gray in color, with a narrow pupillary ring of golden-brown pigment, from which minute rays of pigment radiate across the iris. In other words, there is some slight pigment in both the hair and the eyes; hence they are not complete albinos. But this is the most frequent type of human albinism. If it is a disease, it is not a new one, nor one confined to the tropics. Dr. Sullivan has seen the same condition among Jemez Pueblo Indians, and the same condition has been described among the Zuni and Hopi Indians by Hrdlicka and others. It is the degree of albinism most frequent among Italians and negroes.

The eyes are nystagmus, as in total albinos.

Heads Are Normal.

The heads of these "White Indians" have been called acromegalic, but this diagnosis will not bear close scrutiny. No other parts of the body show effects of acromegaly, nor upon close examination does the head. One boy was 10 years of age, one boy 14 and one girl 14. Their heads were about normal in size for their ages in relation to those of the adults. The heads were relatively somewhat shorter and higher than the heads of the adults, the former a normal growth relationship, but in this instance exaggerated slightly by the fact that the heads of most of the adult present were artificially deformed. When questioned, the Indians told the story that when a child was born the old women of the tribe took upon themselves the task of shaping the head to conform to their ideal of beauty. This consisted in massaging the head, particularly the frontal region, with the hand. While the effect is not marked, the frontal regions of the heads, and to a lesser degree the vertexes, seem to be abnormally lower and flat. The heads of the albino children seem to be normal undeformed heads. At least they are not deformed in the frontal region. It is just possible that the albinos are not subjected to the same treatment as normal babies, since the albino population is despised and ostracized by the rest of the Indians.

Interest in the San Blas Indians should centre on the fact that there are said to be 400 albino Indians in a fairly restricted area. This is the only unique thing about the condition, since Davenport has estimated that about one albino in a population of ten thousand is a normal ratio.

POPE ANNULS FIRST ANNA GOULD MARRIAGE

Count de Castellane Wins Plea to Dissolve Ties With the Present Duchess de Talleyrand.

ROME, July 11 (Associated Press).—Pope Pius today ratified a decision handed to him by the special commission of Cardinals which he had appointed to examine and decide the Boni de Castellane-Gould case, whereby the religious marriage of the present Duchess of Talleyrand, the former Anna Gould, to the Marquis Boni de Castellane is annulled.

This is the fourth time that the petition of Boniface de Castellane to have his marriage with Anna Gould declared null by the highest authorities of the Roman Catholic Church has been considered—this time by a special commission of Cardinals appointed by the Pope for that purpose, and whose findings might or might not be approved by the Holy Father, beyond which there would be no appeal.

Three times the Court of First Instance has declined to nullify the marriage. Each time an appeal to the Tribunal of the Sacred Rota was then taken by the complainant. The last time the tribunal reversed the decision of the lower court, but Pope Benedict XV. declined to ratify it. A year ago Pius XI. was petitioned to have a commission of Cardinals deal with the case. On all three former occasions Mgr. Parillo, Defender of the Matrimonial Bond, has defended the permanency of the marriage.

It is understood that the principal piece of evidence submitted by the complainant was a letter alleged to have been written by Anna Gould before her marriage in which she declared her intention to remain a Protestant in spite of her open conversion to the Catholic faith. This letter was expected to prove that the defendant had entered into her marriage with the complainant under false pretenses which made her status at the Catholic marriage doubtful. The defendant, however, has declared that she never wrote such a letter.

Anna Gould, born in New York June 5, 1878, the younger daughter of Jay Gould, was married to Boniface de Castellane in New York City, March 4, 1895. She obtained a divorce from him April 11, 1906, in Paris. In London, July 7, 1908, she married Hélie de Talleyrand-Périgord, who later became the fifth Duc de Talleyrand.

Immediately after her civil divorce, her former husband petitioned the Vatican to have his marriage with her annulled, so that he could be free, it was said, to marry again within the Church. On July 17, 1906, the Holy Office declared the American marriage entirely legal from every ecclesiastical point of view. But Boniface continued to appeal.

Aviator Will Help Logan, Utah, His Birthplace, Founded by Maughan Sr., to Celebrate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The father of Lieutenant Russel M. Maughan, who recently accomplished a daylight-to-dusk airplane flight from New York to San Francisco, drove a team into Logan County, Utah, the first white man to enter the county. That was fifty years ago.

On July 24, the day set for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the town of Logan, Utah, Lieutenant Maughan will fly into Logan, which is his birthplace and home. Visitors from the entire State are expected to attend the celebration, and the father of Lieutenant Maughan will take part in the ceremonies.

At the request of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, the War Department has authorized Lieutenant Maughan to participate in the celebration with an airplane. He will land on the spot where, fifty years ago, his father, the town's first settler, stopped his ox team and built his cabin.

GETS 10-YEAR PRISON TERM.

Man Arrested While Out on Bail Sentenced as Old Offender.

Solomon Girsch, 28 years old, charged with having participated in several bank and mail robberies, was sentenced yesterday to serve ten years in Sing Sing and pay a $1,000 fine, for criminally receiving stolen property as a second offender.

Judge Francis X. Mancuso of General Sessions, who imposed sentence, said: "You must have had a remarkable pull, for while you were out on $5,000 bail for stealing this automobile you were arrested for stealing a truck load of merchandise and promptly released in $25,000 bail. The police tell me you were on hand with a machine when 'Kid' Dropper was killed, probably to use the machine in aid of his murderers."

BRINGS $21,000 SUIT FOR LOAN OF RADIUM

TWO MEN WERE ASSOCIATED

Violation of Agreement Charged in Complaint Against Physician's Widow.

The settlement of the estate of Walter Phelps Bliss, capitalist and philanthropist, who died in a Lexington Avenue subway train on June 10 last, resulted in the filing of a suit in the Supreme Court yesterday by the executors against the estate of Dr. George Stuart Willis to recover $21,000 for radium.

The complaint, filed against Mrs. Anna U. Willis as executrix under her husband's will, alleges that Mr. Bliss lent radium of the value stated to Dr. Willis in July last, under an agreement that Dr. Willis could buy any part of the radium in excess of fifteen milligrams at $70 a milligram. It was understood that in the event of the death of Dr. Willis the unpurchased part of the radium was to be returned to Mr. Bliss or to his estate. The complaint alleged that no part of it was bought by Dr. Willis, and demands for its return after his death have been unavailing.

Dr. Willis, who was one of the leading authorities on radium in this country and head of the Radium Department in the Post-Graduate Hospital, died suddenly of heart disease at his home, 116 East Fifty-third Street, on March 25 last. He and Mr. Bliss had a common interest in hospital work, because Mr. Bliss was Treasurer of St. Luke's Hospital and of the Society for the Ruptured and Crippled.

NOTE READY FOR CHINA ON OUR RAILWAY LOANS

Draft Firmly Informs Peking That Chinese Eastern Lines' Creditors Must Be Respected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The American Government has completed the draft of its formal reply to the June note of the Chinese Government regarding the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The American note, which soon will be delivered by Minister Schurman at Peking, reiterates in strong terms the American position as set forth in our first note, of May 3, in which this Government informed China that it is responsible as trustee for the Chinese Eastern Railway and as such should see that the rights of all creditors of the road are respected.

The stand is also taken that the communication from the Chinese Foreign Office, which declared that the question of the Chinese Eastern Railway is now one to be settled between China and Russia alone, totally ignores the fact that the activity of the American Government in connection with the road was due primarily to the desire to preserve China's interests in it.

Washington also feels that the Chinese Government has ignored the fact that the United States is a creditor of the Chinese Eastern Railway to the amount of $5,000,000, that sum having been advanced during the Wilson administration for the upkeep of the line, as a result of the allied and American expeditions into Siberia during the war.

No identical copy of the new American note to China will be sent by this Government to Soviet Russia, notwithstanding the fact that the Chinese Foreign Office takes the stand that the question of the status of the railroad lies solely between China and Russia. The American Government, officials re-emphasize, has no communication with the Soviet Government.

FOG DELAYED BERENGARIA.

Liner Arrives With Many Honeymoon Couples Aboard.

Among the notables who arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Berengaria was Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt 2d, who said that she had returned from Paris to pay her annual visit to Saratoga to see the races. She is the owner of Sarazen, which won the Carter Handicap a year ago. Gene Sarazen, after whom the horse was named, returned with his bride, who was Miss Mary Peck of Springfield, Mass. Another honeymoon couple on the ship were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Copley Thaw.

Colonel M. Serrati, general manager of the Lloyd Sabaudo Line in the United States, returned from England, where his company had placed an order, he said, for a 22,000-ton liner to carry 1,600 passengers. Arthur Hammerstein, the theatrical producer, returned with his bride, formerly Dorothy Dalton, the film star.

Captain W. I. R. D. Irvine, R. N. R., master of the Berengaria, said that he had encountered dense fog, which had delayed the liner eighteen hours.

Seashore Rest Benefits Gompers.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was reported last night to be showing continued benefit from his sojourn at the seashore at the Shelburne Hotel, Coney Island. The last two nights, the Democratic Convention no longer drawing him to the radio, he has gone to bed early, and his doctor says all he needs is plenty of sleep and quiet. He has been ordered to refrain from further labor conferences and to devote himself entirely to resting. Governor Smith called yesterday to see Mr. Gompers, an old friend, and they spent half an hour chatting on the porch.

GERMANS PLAN TO USE ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY

Believe Invention of Dr. Abel of Baltimore Will Save Lives From Poison.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 11.—German scientists are planning to use the artificial kidney invented by Dr. John J. Abel of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, to save life in cases of corrosive sublimate poisoning and other maladies where death is a consequence of overworking the kidneys, it was learned at the Johns Hopkins Medical School today.

Efforts to use the artificial kidney in that manner were made in Baltimore, but failed, because Dr. Abel's work was interrupted by the war and he did not have the parts of the kidney and could not make it available for use here.

Physicians believe that through it many will be saved which otherwise would be sacrificed, especially the lives of those who attempt suicide by taking bichloride of mercury or corrosive sublimate.

The artificial kidney is said to make it possible to relieve the kidneys, which nature has placed in the body, of all work for hours, the false organ meanwhile doing the work.

The false kidney is a tube of glass and other matter which can be attached to the arm or some other part of the body. It is connected with an artery on one side and with a vein on the other, so that blood flows through it. The impurities are filtered by means of the artificial kidney and are drawn from it, while the real kidneys rest.

Work on the artificial kidney in Dr. Abel's laboratory was halted eight years ago by the doctor's inability to get a supply of hirudin, a substance taken from a German leech which prevents the blood corpuscles from leaving the body through the false kidney.

German scientists have recently been in correspondence with Dr. Abel, saying that they purposed to use the kidney on human beings. Dr. Abel and his associates experimented on dogs in the Johns Hopkins laboratories before the war.

FOUR ALIEN CHARGES DENIED BY CURRAN

Ellis Island Commissioner Says Dr. Fama Would Have Him Break Immigration Laws.

Commissioner Henry H. Curran, at Ellis Island, denied late yesterday afternoon charges of incompetent administration of the immigration laws by the Ellis Island officials, made by Dr. Charles Fama, secretary of the Board of United States Pensioned Surgeons.

The Commissioner reviewed the four cases which Dr. Fama states were incompetently handled, and from the records of the hearings held before the special board of inquiry at Ellis Island showed that three of the cases had been ordered deported respectively for illiteracy, mental deficiency, and because one of the aliens who tried to gain admission as a nurse had not graduated from any training school and gave "ridiculous replies as to how to treat patients."

The fourth case, that of Dr. Paul Soldano, and his old family servant, a woman, is still pending before the Secretary of Labor at Washington. The Commissioner declined to comment on the latter case until a decision has been reached.

Commissioner Curran made a counter charge that Dr. Fama desired the Government to break the laws in respect to the four cases, "as he himself is personally interested in the cases."

"I feel," the Commissioner said, "that Dr. Fama is personally disgruntled because I refused to break the laws at his behest. One of the cases in which he charged us with incompetency is that of an alien who is mentally defective, according to the opinion of Government doctors at Ellis Island, who pass on the cases. Dr. Fama was accorded the privilege of sitting with the board of doctors at a second hearing, and, quite naturally, he disagreed with the verdict of the doctors to the effect that the alien is mentally defective.

"American asylums are already filled with aliens, imbeciles, idots and mental defectives, and we will not admit any more of these alien unfortunates who become public charges and a tax upon the United States citizens."

Referring to the case of the nurse, the Commissioner said that she is not a graduate of any training school for nurses, and cited the following questions and answers in the records of her examination:

Q.—How would you treat a patient whose arm has been severed below the elbow? A.—I don't know. The doctor took care of this and I do what he tells me to.

Q.—How would you stop the bleeding? A.—I would hold his hand, then go to call the doctor.

SUED BY A DYING GIRL.

Tuberculosis Victim Asks $20,000 for Breach of Promise.

A breach of promise suit was begun yesterday against Leo Botsis, proprietor of a candy store at 328 Springfield Avenue, Newark, by Miss Dora Rissis, who is now in the Newark City Hospital. Miss Rissis is now in the last stages of tuberculosis, and physicians attached to the Newark City Hospital do not expect her to live more than two weeks.

A large gold engagement ring was exhibited by the girl yesterday in substantiation of her story that Botsis had wooed her. According to her story, Botsis sent her to a sanitarium in Michigan when her health failed. After her return Botsis lost interest in her, she alleged. A local charitable organization in Newark has taken over the case and has sent her to the hospital.

DIE HARD MANAGERS PRESS EQUITY FIGHT

PLAN NEW PRODUCTIONS

Ames, Savage and Pemberton, However, Resign From the Association.

According to a statement issued from the office of Sam H. Harris yesterday afternoon, the situation between the Actors' Equity Association and the "round robin" group of managers is still practically what it was at the end of May, when a number of managers, under Shubert leadership, broke away from the Managers' Producing Association and signed a separate theatrical agreement with Equity. Yesterday's statement, in behalf of the "round robin" managers, was taken to mean that there had been no change in the "round robin" insistence upon forming theatrical casts freely from Equity and non-Equity members alike. None of the signatories to the statement could be reached for a precise definition of the latest statement.

During the five years preceding June 1, 1924, the theatrical agreement between the Equity and the Producing Managers' Association afforded managers, as long as they were members of the association, absolute freedom in the engagement of their casts as between Equity and non-Equity members, but called upon independent producers to engage casts made up throughout of Equity members.

The Position of Equity.

Equity officials recently have several times issued statements declaring that Equity's attitude toward the "round robin" managers now called for them either to align themselves with the newly formed Managers' Protective Association, whereby they would be called upon to maintain a strength of 80 per cent. Equity membership in their casts, or to proceed as independent managers, with 100 per cent. Equity casts. It was not believed that the "round robin" position, as made clear in yesterday's statement, would prove satisfactory to Equity, and further controversy, it was expected, would develop.

Many of the producers, whose names were signed to yesterday's statement are known to be proceeding with active plans for the coming season. A new show, "Be Yourself," will be put into rehearsal Monday by Wilmer & Vincent and definite attractions under the management of Gilbert Miller have already been announced for August and September openings at the Lyceum and Empire Theatres.

Along Broadway, too, it is reported that David Belasco is preparing a new production for Lenore Ulrich, and that the Sam H. Harris office is in an advanced stage of preparation for several new plays, one of them scheduled to come to the George M. Cohan Theatre shortly. It could not be learned last night whether an Equity approval of the position outlined in the statement was anticipated or whether the managers concerned propose to ignore Equity in their plans.

The Managers' Statement.

The full text of the statement follows:

"At a meeting of the 'round robin' group of managers at the office of Sam H. Harris on Friday afternoon among the many matters for consideration the only decision reached was that all existing contracts between their members and actors will be carried out and that in order to do so the members will engage companies for plays under the form of actors' contract in force during the five years preceding June 1, 1924, with such equitable modifications as experience during that time indicated as advisable.

"A motion was unanimously adopted to allow members not in a position to help in the accomplishment of the purposes of the group to resign if they desired.

"The resignations of Brock Pemberton, Winthrop Ames and Henry W. Savage were thereupon offered and accepted.

"The statement was signed by the following members of the Round Robin Group: David Belasco, A. L. Erlanger, George M. Cohan, Henry Miller, Gilbert Miller, Charles Coburn, Sam H. Harris, Lewis & Gordon, Marc Klaw, Wilmer & Vincent, Max Marcin, William Harris, Charles Hopkins, Arthur Hopkins, Abe Levy, George C. Tyler, Charles B. Dillingham, Wagenhals & Kemper and John Cort.

NEW STATEN ISLAND LINE.

Whalen to Start Fourth Trackless Trolley Monday.

Grover A. Whalen, who is about to retire from the position of Commissioner of Plant and Structures, announced yesterday that on Monday he would put in operation a fourth trackless trolley line on Staten Island. It will run from Meier's Corners, West New Brighton, to Tipperary Corners, New Dorp, via Bradley Avenue, Brielle Avenue and Rockland Avenue. The trackless cars will cover this route in fifteen minutes, Mr. Whalen said, whereas now it takes fifty minutes to travel between these points.

Meier's Corners is the terminus of the Linoleumville and Sea View Hospital Trackless Lines, which have been in operation since the Fall of 1921, and is on the Silver Lake and Concord municipal trolley lines. Tipperary Corners is in New Dorp on the municipal trolley system, on the line from St. George to Richmond.

LUNN RUNS A TRUCK TO HELP NEAR EAST

CLIMAX OF STATE DRIVE

Goods Are Turned Over to Brooklyn Safety Council for Shipment Abroad.

Lieut. Gov. George R. Lunn literally took off his coat and vest yesterday to aid orphans and refugees in the Near East. Under a boiling sun, the Lieutenant Governor toiled with a hand truck and helped take off the last motor truck load of the 850,000 pounds of clothing collected by the New York State headquarters of the Near East Relief, of which he is the State Chairman. The official's labors took place at the United States Army Base in Brooklyn and he was helped by eight young women in overalls, who had volunteered through the Brooklyn Safety Council, besides the regular longshoremen. Camera men took many pictures of the Lieutenant Governor and the girls wheeling the 200-pound bales of clothing into the warehouse.

The event yesterday marked the successful conclusion of the work of the New York State headquarters at 151 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, in collecting clothes for the destitute in Greece, Syria, Palestine and Armenia. Lieut. Gov. Lunn formally turned the clothing over to the Brooklyn Safety Council. It will be held until the council finishes its campaign and then the entire collection will be sent abroad.

Clarence E. Spayd, Secretary of the Safety Council, announced yesterday that Jackie Coogan, the child movie star, would hold a reception at Prospect Park for the children of Brooklyn on Aug. 16. A number of prominent officials and residents of the borough will be present. The reception will be under the auspices of the council. Jackie Coogan, it was announced, is collecting $1,000,000 worth of foodstuffs in this country to send to the people of the Near East. Jackie is to pay the entire expense of the shipment.

BILTMORE TO HOUSE A BLOCK OF SHOPS

ARCADE TO BE INCLUDED

New Thoroughfare Will Run From Forty-third Street Through to Forty-fourth Street.

To meet the constantly increasing demand for small shops in the Grand Central Terminal zone, and following the lead of the Astor and other large hostelries in New York, the Madison Avenue front of the twenty-six-story Biltmore is to be completely remodeled to include a block of stores, with an arcade from Forty-third to Forty-fourth Street added to the big structure.

The announcement of the improvement, which is of vital importance to Madison Avenue, was made yesterday by John McE. Bowman, President of the Bowman Biltmore Hotel Corporation, who estimates the cost of the improvement at more than $500,000. Architects and engineers already have started work upon the plans, and the project is to be carried out as soon as the preliminary work is concluded.

The growth and development of Madison Avenue north of Forty-second Street during the past two or three years as a small-shop centre has been remarkable. From a residential avenue it has been transformed into a business street that bids fair to rival Fifth Avenue. Fine old dwellings have been demolished to make way for business structures, while hundreds of brownstone residences have been rebuilt out to the extreme building line into first and second floor shops.

The result has been a big jump in rental values and today a small inside shop in the vicinity of Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue shows a return of about $15 a square foot a year, while those on corners rent for $20 a square foot or more.

The Biltmore arcade, Forty-third to Forty-fourth Streets, will be a public thoroughfare and will have a decided tendency to relieve the present congestion of pedestrian traffic on Madison Avenue in this vicinity.

Brokers and realty men predicted yesterday that the shops would be leased from the plans long before their completion. The space in the hotel to be utilized for the new shops will be that now occupied by the grill, the men's café and the men's lounge.

The recent improvement of the Hotel Astor with stores on Broadway from Forty-fourth to Forty-fifth Streets proved highly successful. They were all rented from the plans and are today reported at bringing the highest square foot rentals on Broadway.

NEW COTTON CONFERENCE.

British Objections to Our Standards to Be Debated in London.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Some dissatisfaction having arisen in England in connection with the universal cotton standards, agreed upon more than a year ago by the principal foreign cotton interests, officials of the Department of Agriculture and representatives of the American cotton industry, at which time the United States official standards were adopted as the universal standards, another conference of all interests has been called to meet in London, July 21.

Dr. H. C. Taylor, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, who has been abroad conferring with the foreign cotton interests, called the meeting and at the same time telegraphed for his assistant, Lloyd S. Tenny, and Chester Morrill, another Department of Agriculture official and an expert on cotton, to come to London for the conference.

The object of the conference is to discuss with the foreign cotton representatives, who have agreed upon the universal standards, all questions of difference and reach a supplementary agreement covering them. It is understood that the English cotton interests desired to hold a meeting in the Spring of each year to compare and overhaul all copies of the official standards.

No changes have been made in the universal standards and none can be made without formal agreement and one year's notice in advance of their promulgation.

Chicago's Customs Receipts Gain.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Customs collections at the Port of Chicago for the first six months of 1924 exceeded the sum collected in the same period last year by $28,105.93, and established a new high record of $7,172,162.56, S. C. Crafts, Deputy Collector of Customs, announced today. The sum already collected this year exceeds that of the entire year 1919, when $6,034,503.25 was taken in. Since then colections have increased every year. Last year a total of $15,529,539.07 was paid on merchandise arriving from foreign countries.

MANY FACTORS HELP COTTON'S RECOVERY

Spinners Taking Increased Amount, While Visible Supply Decreases.

Various factors combined to produce a stronger cotton market yesterday, and the entire loss of the previous session was recovered before the close. July moved to a 500 point premium over October at one time, while rains reappeared in Atlantic sections, but failed to materialize west of the river. An advance in grain and a steadier stock market, with favorable week-end figures, all operated to bring about covering. Prices gained 40 to 62 points, closing at the top.

All three markets worked somewhat lower during early trading, Liverpool losing more ground than either New York or New Orleans. Prices abroad declined 25 English points, making a loss of 42 points from high levels of Thursday. The course of Liverpool, together with private reports of showers in parts of Texas, brought out cotton the first half hour, but after October had sold around 24¼ cents, 70 points from best figures of the previous day, a less favorable weather map steadied the market. Covering operations developed and for the balance of the session Thursday's course of prices was reversed. Though uncertainty characterized early trading, the visible record greater resistance to pressure and various influences induced activity as the day wore on.

Week-end figures revealed larger spinners' takings and a heavier decrease in the visible supply than last week, while official details showed rainfall had been confined to 5 points in the Northeastern section of the State, ranging from .28 to .57 of an inch. So little cotton appeared for sale on actual spot that the list recovered over $3 a bale, with trading active toward the close at highest prices of the day.

Week-end statistics showed 40,000 bales in sight, against 42,000 last year, making 11,120,000 for the season, against 10,975,000 last year. Spinners took 136,000, against 108,000 last year, making 10,927,000 for the season, against 11,920,000 last year. This brought a decrease of 96,000 in the visible supply, compared with 67,000 last year, and left the world's visible supply of American cotton 1,062,000, compared with 1,023,000 a year ago. Spot prices at New Orleans were advanced a cent yesterday.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

WHEAT ENDS HIGHER IN ERRATIC MARKET

No. 2 Yellow Corn on Spot Finds Buyers at $1.11, and Oats Rise With the Rest.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 11.—While wheat markets were somewhat erratic, at no time were local values below the finish of the previous day. Foreigners were good buyers of futures here and at Winnipeg and, while the close was not at the top, net gains were 1@1¼ cents higher. Winnipeg was disappointing, gaining only ⅝c for the day. Both good and bad reports are coming from the three Canadian Provinces; conditions are spotted.

Liverpool closed 1½d higher on the bullish Canadian reports in the face of a higher exchange rate.

Offerings are readily absorbed on the breaks, with Eastern houses active at times on that side. Statistically the world's situation is regarded as getting much stronger.

Country offerings of wheat to arrive are increasing, but in the main are held above the market, which checks the business. Purchases for the day were 125,000 bushels, while domestic shipping sales were only 15,000 bushels.

Export sales in all positions were 300,000 bushels, mainly hard Winters via the Gulf, but the buying of futures suggests that the business is being kept under cover to a great extent. Australia needs rain badly, according to private cables.

July, September and cash corn sold at a new high on the crop, futures gaining 1⅝@3⅜ cents, with July leading, the latter touching $1.04⅜, while No. 2 yellow on spot sold up to $1.11, or within 3 cents of the outside figure of last year. As high as $1.09½ was paid for No. 2 yellow to arrive. At St. Louis cash corn is selling practically as high as hard Winter wheat.

The scarcity of cash grain is becoming more pronounced, and a leading industry bought corn at Minneapolis during the day for its Central Illinois plant.

Deferred deliveries were under pressure on account of the better weather and closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Domestic shipping sales today were 225,000 bushels, making around 1,600,000 bushels so far this week.

Primary receipts today were 439,000 bushels; last year, 394,000. Shipments were 406,000 bushels; last year, 308,000.

Oats gained ¼@⅜ cent, largely in sympathy with other grains, while rye was ½ cent higher on July and ⅛ cent lower on September.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Sales of Dollars and Purchases of Sterling Bring Sharp Upturn to That Exchange.

The most interesting and probably the most important development in yesterday's markets was the buoyant upswing in sterling which carried it through $4.36 to the highest price since May 19. The gain since July 1 now amounts to a little more than 4 cents to the pound. Improved conditions abroad and the cheerful news from the Premiers' conference were doubtless sympathetic factors in the day's advance. The most important, however, was the fact that London bankers were engaged all day in selling dollars in London and buying sterling here. The purpose is not yet obvious. It may be that London institutions are preparing thus early for their Autumn requirements. It may be, too, that some of the buying was to be attributed to the now well-grounded belief that the Bank of England discount rate will be advanced.

There is another factor in the international situation which probably had an effect on the sterling market yesterday. It is that American bankers, engulfed by a veritable flow of funds, have encountered increased difficulties in keeping these funds employed, and have finally sought the foreign markets where a spread of something like 1 per cent. above our own rates may be advantageously arranged. Doubtless these transactions have gone on, on a moderate scale, for some time, but only came to the surface when active bidding for sterling developed. It has been the experience of the last few weeks that any increase in the Federal Reserve ratios brings corresponding activity on the part of those seeking to loan funds in a market in which very keen competition has developed.

The reaction of the previous day in the stock market was not carried through yesterday. In fact, after irregularity during most of the morning, fresh buying of a determined sort appeared in the market leaders. Although transactions were not particularly heavy, stocks ended the day with fractional gains. It was particularly difficult to identify yesterday's buying in the market. Some of it, of course, was for account of those who were "waiting until after the convention" to buy stocks. Some of it was for account of those who had determined to get into the market on the first reaction. At any rate, it was the Wall Street view after the close that when the pressure of profit-taking and liquidation was lifted, stocks had "snapped back" in determined fashion. Public utility and railroad shares again were most in favor.

The reviews of trade and business, issued by the commercial reporting agencies yesterday, throw no light whatever on the well-advertised turn in industrial conditions. It was noted by Bradstreet's, for instance, that "continued warm weather and improved crops have made for fair retail trade and some slight increase in jobbing trade in Summer goods." It was pointed out at the same time, however, that midsummer holiday and vacation influences have been plainly visible during the week, and there has been a slowing down of mill, factory and mine operations. Dun's Review notes that "there has been no fundamental change in general business," but adds that "none is to be expected at this period of the year." Both of the agencies note that although the main trend of commodity prices continues downward, it is very much less pronounced than in previous weeks. Grain prices continued upward and they were joined in the upswing yesterday by the third member of the agricultural triumvirate, cotton. July corn now has gained approximately 4 cents since the publication of the Government's figures indicating a light crop. The report of the Canadian Government, estimating the condition of wheat at 92, compared with 105 per cent. at this time last year, found, of course, immediate reflection in our grain markets.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1924.

There was again no dearth of funds available for day to day accommodation on the Stock Exchange, but it failed to affect the rate, which continued at 2 per cent. Report had it, although it was unconfirmed, that some acceptance money was obtainable in the outside market at 1¼, where 1½@1¾ per cent. had prevailed previously. Rates for fixed periods were unchanged, with only fresh business reported for six months, a fair amount going at 3¼ per cent. Business money markets were steady and without change.

PLANS CORPORATION FOR FOREIGN LOANS

MANUFACTURERS TO HELP

Educational Campaign to Be Carried On to Interest American Investors in Foreign Securities.

What, it is asserted, will be the initial step in a broad-scale plan for the creation of a foreign loan market in this country, and one which, it is said, has the support of a half-dozen or more leading American manufacturers in basic industries, will be laid before the investment public soon in the form of a large debenture corporation whose purpose it will be to lend to nations at present unable to finance to the extent desired their own industries and developments.

The plan is being worked out here and, according to Franklin Remington, Chairman of the Board of the Foundation Company, the details may be expected before long. Mr. Remington declined to divulge the names of the manufacturers who are said to be interested in forming this corporation, explaining that these would be made public when the plan was in final shape for announcement. He said, however, that they would include "the leading American manufacturers of electrical supplies and railway equipment."

Mr. Remington made an address last month at Boston before the National Foreign Trade Council, of which James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, is the head, in which he proposed that such a corporation be formed by manufacturers. Yesterday he said:

"Our foreign trade needs more help from the American banker, but most of all it needs more help from the American investor. Here you have to make very attractive inducements to get the American investor into foreign securities. Our investors at the present time do not understand foreign securities. And our American bankers will not buy them to offer here until they are certain they can be passed on to the investment public.

"An American Debenture Corporation is being planned and along with it is suggested that there be organized a corporation of foreign bondholders, would carry on an educational campaign to acquaint the American public with foreign securities. It will go still further and be the means of supplying analytical information as to the merits of a proposed foreign loan to be sold here. In a sense this association or corporation will be a protective committee for the safeguarding of the American investor's investments, as the British corporation of bondholders does. The standing of this association would be very high, with full powers to blacklist a foreign security which failed to measure up to the requirements. The corporation of foreign bondholders would make records of existing outstanding bonds for purposes of comparison and analysis. It would use its good offices in cases where loans were in default or where it might develop that the loans might in future go by default."

The proceeds derived by foreign countries from loans placed in the United States would go for the purchase of American manufactured goods and American materials, Mr. Remington said.

Detailed examination into the history of a large umber of foreign loans made by Great Britain divulges few instances, according to Mr. Remington, in which money spent for manufactured articles was not spent on British products.

He explained that he was not speaking of loans made or to be made from refunding or other economic reasons, or for the purpose of helping those nations get on their feet who have been prostrated during the war. He meant, he said, loans for internal developments, for the building of railways, power plants, harbor improvements, sanitation and irrigation works, &c. The benefit to foreign trade, Mr. Remington asserted, and through that to industry in general, was an advantage which any forward looking nation must recognize.

The proposed debenture corporation is to be organized in cooperation with American bankers. Half of the capital would be taken, Mr. Remington has suggested, by the group of manufacturers. If the manufacturers comprising such a group are well known to the public for their financial strength and integrity, it should not be difficult, he said, to obtain from the investing public the other half of the capital required. Responsibility for the management of the corporation would rest with the manufacturers.

With the capital so acquired, the management would make its first purchase of foreign bonds issued solely for the purpose of purchasing American-made products, such as locomotives, rails, electrical machinery, cars, &c. These foreign bonds would be placed in trust and there would be issued against them as security the debentures or obligations of the debenture corporation.

WARNED NOT TO BUY STOLEN SECURITIES

National Surety Company Sends Out a Caution to Corporations and Individuals.

The National Surety Company sent out a warning yesterday to corporations and individuals, warning them that if they purchased stolen bonds, whether knowingly or unknowingly, they would run the risk of being held "accessory to the crime" in the theft of such bonds.

The warning was issued when the company learned, according to President E. A. St. John, that certain business concerns and persons had offered to purchase some of the several millions dollars of negotiatble securities stolen from Wall Street financial houses. To play on the safe side, Mr. St. John said, all buyers of securities should make sure that title was clear.

"Our campaign of recovery has continued quietly but determinedly and every month or two a new lot of stolen or 'disappeared' bonds is recovered," he said. "Recently $150,000 of 'disappeared' bonds were returned to us. Because we had paid a Stock Exchange house for their loss under one of our surety policies, we have a substantial interest in these returned bonds. The company has organized a Bureau of Recoveries to constantly warn stock brokers, investment houses, banks and investors generally not to buy stolen securities. By reason of this campaign of ours it has been dangerous for holders of stolen bonds to negotiate their sale."

The manner in which many of the stolen bonds are disposed of, he said, was through the thief selling them at "bargain rates" to some innocent buyer. Alfred Tyrrell and A. M. Birdsall, he said, are in charge of the Bureau of Recoveries and are watching all transactions in stolen bonds so as to prevent a free market for such bonds as had been expected by the thieves.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $56,769,498

State and Municipal Issues Aggregated $20,269,489 and Foreign Loans $18,000,000.

$13,200,000 FOR UTILITIES

Several Preferred Stocks Feature the Offerings—Realty Mortgage Bonds Marketed.

The total of $56,769,498 new bond offerings this week fell below the $100,000,000 average of the preceding seven weeks. Last week's total was $101,340,000. A feature of the week was the offering of several issues of preferred stock by public utility companies. Financing by public utility companies, both through the sale of bonds and of preferred stock, has been a prominent factor in the market for new issues.

By groups the figures for this and last week compared as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
State and municipal	$20,269,489	$10,850,000
Railroad		11,950,000
Foreign	18,000,000	11,040,000
Public Utility	13,200,000	48,150,000
Miscellaneous	3,800,000	4,400,000
Industrial	1,500,000	15,000,000
Farm Loan		2,250,000

Two offerings of foreign bonds were made during the week and in both instances the bankers reported good demand. According to their reports, there has been excellent evidence so far this year that American investors, who have generally held fast to domestic securities, are losing some of their prejudices against foreign issues. The offering of $6,000,000 of Province of British Columbia bonds established a new gauge for that type of security. For the first time an issue of $3,000,000 of these bonds was sold on a 4½ per cent. coupon rate basis, offered to yield a shade above the 4.50 per cent. mark.

Considerable public utility financing remains to be done, according to bankers' reports. Three weeks ago they reported that virtually every public utility banking house was working on new issues; the situation today is little changed, although a substantial amount of this financing, about $82,000,000 in bonds alone, has been accomplished.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering two issues totaling $300,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent. two and ten year serial coupon bonds of the Corey Arms, Inc., and Brookline Realty Associates, Inc., the bonds being secured by the land and two apartment buildings in Boston.

M. M. Freeman & Co., Philadelphia, and Ludwig Baumann & Co. are offering $169,000 Perth Amboy (N. J.) 5½ per cent. school bonds due July 1, 1925-1962, at prices to yield 4.25 to 4.35 per cent.

E. Rollins & Sons and Bond & Goodwin & Tucker, Inc., of San Francisco, announced yesterday the sale of their offering of $5,000,000 Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation preferred stock.

The West Side Trust Company of Newark, N. J., entered the highest bid yesterday for an offering by Essex County, N. J., of $953,000 of 4½ per cent. hospital bonds; $144,000 of thirty-year 4½ per cent. park bonds, and $100,000 twenty-year and $200,000 twenty-nine-year 4½s.

Cambridge, Mass., awarded a $500,000 loan payable on Jan. 15 next, to the National Shawmut Bank of Boston at a discount of 2.36 per cent. plus a premium of $4.75.

ROCK ISLAND BUYS 185-MILE IOWA LINE

LEASE PROVED TOO COSTLY

Negotiations for Purchase Began After the Rock Island Refuse to Renew It.

The Chicago, Rock Island &' Pacific Railroad Company agreed yesterday to take over the Keokuk & Des Moines, a 185-mile property, paying the bondholders of the Keokuk & Des Moines about $2,750,000 of 4 per cent. readjustment bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific for the property.

The bondholders of the Keokuk & Des Moines are to proceed with the foreclosure proceedings on the Keokuk & Des Moines as planned. The sale should be held not later than the last of August or the first part of September. After the bondholders have acquired control of the property they will in turn deliver it to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, that railroad paying the bondholders one readjustment 4 per cent. bond of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific for every Keokuk & Des Moines bond now held. The Rock Island has further agreed that it will refund to the bondholders any interest they lost since the regular payments on their bonds ceased.

Members of the committee of the bondholders of the Keokuk & Des Moines who negotiated the deal with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific officials included F. J. Lisman, F. W. Matteson, Samuel Sloan and R. B. Lanier. The committee has been at work on a reorganization since last October, and it was stated yesterday that their work would be completed within one year of that time, barring unforseen delays.

The committee to protect the interests of the bondholders was organized when the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific refused to renew its forty-five-year lease, which expired Oct. 1, 1923, on the terms of this lease the Rock Island paid to the Keokuk & Des Moines 25 per cent. of the gross earnings on the property. Officials of the Rock Island held that this sum was so great that the road could no longer afford to continue such a rental.

Then a temporary lease was made with the Rock Island whereby that railroad paid $10,000 a month for the use of the property.

WHEAT CROP MONEY GIVES WEST NEW LIFE

Marketing From Kansas Fields Begins and the Banks Receive Instant Benefit.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11.—The prosperity of the Middle West is quickening with new life as the golden stream of Kansas wheat begins pouring through its arteries. The flow of new grain rapidly is being turned into cash. More than 600 carloads of wheat were received in Kansas City Monday. The average daily receipts now are running about 400 carloads, against 200 at the corresponding time last year. Receipts soon will amount to nearly 1,500 cars a day.

Liquidation of debts began almost with the sales of the first carloads of grain. Kansas City banks report numerous instances of partial liquidation by country banks in Kansas and Oklahoma in the last week. One large bank reports several liquidations of $25,000 or more in this week. Other banks report a similar prompt reducing of debts by country banks.

In the face of a national shortage of 131,000,000 bushels of wheat compared to last year's crop, the Kansas City territory is blessed with a yield of nearly 86,000,000 bushels more than last year. Farmers are optimistic over the possibilities of higher prices in view of the national shortage.

EXCHANGE LISTINGS DECLINE THIS YEAR

Total for First Half $1,408,207,000, Against $1,884,144,000 in 1923.

Although the offering of new issues of bonds and stocks has been heavy in the last two months, the total of listings of new stocks and bonds on the New York Stock Exchange for the first half of 1924 was below the corresponding figures of both 1923 and 1922. EXPERTS TO CONFER ON TRAIN CONTROL

Engineers of Railways and Manufacturers Invited to Meeting in September.

FINDINGS TO BE EXCHANGED

Roads Which Have Used or Experimented With Automatic Devices Will Tell Experiences.

In order that the railroads of the United States may have the best and safest automatic train control devices possible, experts representing railroads and manufacturing companies have been called into a conference at Swampscott, Mass., on Sept. 24. The conference, to which will be invited representatives of more than 1,000 railroads, will attempt to bring together all available information on the automatic control of trains so as to eliminate accidents, regardless of what may happen to the men in charge of the train.

One entire day and evening will be given to the discussion of the problems growing out of train control, and it is hoped to produce ideas that will be of assistance to all railroad men in solving the question of train control, which has so forcibly been put before them by the two orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission to install it without delay.

The conference is to be held under the direction of the Signal Division of the American Railway Association and will be the feature of a three-day session of that section. The program will be arranged under the direction of W. M. Vandersluis, Chairman; A. W. Post, First Vice Chairman; H. McKeen, Second Vice Chairman, and H. S. Balliet, Secretary.

The discussion of train control will be divided into three parts. In the first division will be papers by train control men from the roads already employing autcmatic control. The methods and the success of the various types of operation will be reviewed by the representatives of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Chicago & Eastern Illinois and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific.

A number of railroads have made extensive experiments with automatic train control. The second section of the program will be given over to them. Representatives of the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Southern Pacific, the Chicago & North Western and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe will speak.

So that all angles of the train control problem can be thoroughly discussed, the third part of the program will be given over to five-minute talks on the subject by representatives of railroads and train control companies.

The Illinois Central Railroad has placed a contract with the Union Switch and Signal Company for the installation of automatic train control on its main line between Champaign, Ill., and Branch Junction, a distance of 122 miles, all double tracked. Sixty locomotives are to be equipped with train control apparatus.

AMERICAN MONEY SHIFTS TO LONDON

Bankers Find Higher Interest Rate Abroad Than in the New York Market.

STERLING STILL ADVANCING

British Withdrawals of Substantial Part of Deposits Regarded as Cause of Advance.

British bankers are withdrawing a substantial part of their deposits from New York, it was indicated yesterday, when inquiry was made into the causes for the recent advance of the pound sterling. The pound has moved up 4 cents since July 1, or from $4.32 to and around $4.36. New York institutions also are sending money to London, and, it was explained, the advance of the pound has been a natural consequence.

The movement was linked with the recent reduction in interest rates in New York City, and started soon after the latest reduction in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to 3½ per cent. Bankers have been finding it difficult to place money in the New York market and have shifted part of their balances to the London market, in which rates are 1 per cent. or a fraction greater than in the New York market.

This transfer has been effected through the purchase in New York of sterling and the sale in London of dollars. Actual cost of making the transfer has been virtually nothing, a cablegram between New York and London institutions establishing the new credits wherever desired.

Illustrating the attractiveness of the London market was a reduction in call loan money rates here in the outside market. The Stock Exchange market continued steady at 2 per cent., but the supply of funds overflowed that market and went into the outside, where the rate was quoted at 1¾ per cent. In London, rates are around 3½ per cent., against prevailing rates of around 2 to 2¼ per cent. in New York.

The upward movement in sterling, which came as a surprise considering the season of the year, was said to be a source of gratitude to British bankers, who have been perplexed over its failure to advance until recently. The attraction of money to London was said to be correcting an abnormal condition in the New York market, and the shift of funds has been welcomed on both sides of the Atlantic. London bankers have discussed the advisability of raising the official bank rate of England in order to encourage the movement, according to news dispatches received here, but New York bankers said that this would not be done.

The pound sterling will soon enter its period of dollar-accumulation incident to purchases of American crop commodities for English consumption. This buying usually starts in September and a month or two later reaches its height. No effort will be made to raise the pound sterling to par, it was believed, in view of this work ahead of the English currency.

Principal benefits accruing to London from the lowering of New York money rates below those of London have been seen in the withdrawal of British capital to London from the New York market; the attracting of foreign balances and the stimulation of speculation on the long side of sterling.

JUNE COPPER REPORT.

Calumet and Hecla Withholds Publication, Thus Delaying Figures.

The figures covering the production, sales and surplus stocks of copper metal of the producers in this country for June are expected to be delayed this month, according to statements made in the copper trade yesterday. This delay, it is understood, is due to the determination of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company to withhold the publication of such figures.

The publication of the monthly figures, in the opinion of some copper producers, has been responsible for the recent weakness in the copper metal market and its failure to move upward in spite of the constantly increasing demand for the metal during the first five months of the current year. The figures are compiled by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, which furnishes such statistics only to its regular subscribers. The Engineering and Mining Journal in commenting on the situation says: "It is too early yet to say whether or not this is the beginning of the end of the compilation as it has been made for the last two or three years. The reason, it is said, is too much information is given to the consumers without any courtesies in return."

FORD SALES BREAK RECORD.

Total of 1,036,978 Cars Retailed in First Half of 1924.

Sales of Ford motor cars and trucks crossed the million mark in the first half of 1924, this being the high record for any six-month period. The total reported from the thirty-four American branches was 1,036,976, which were sold at retail, against 963,883 cars and trucks in the first half of 1923. The first half of 1923 was regarded as a banner period in automobile sales, and the first half of this year was slower, but the Ford record, as shown in figures from Detroit, failed to indicate any slack in 1924 business compared with 1923.

According to the report, Ford sales have shown so far this year a gain in every month over the corresponding month of last year. The June, 1924, figures reached the high mark at 170,747, which represented a gain of 10,000 cars over the sales for June, 1923.

BELGIUM FUNDING DEBT.

Plans to Pay Netherlands Interest on War Obligations.

The Kingdom of Belgium is taking steps to fund its debt to the Kingdom of the Netherlands, according to information received by Moody's Investors' Trade Service from its foreign department. Belgium owes the Netherlands 60,000,000 guilders, of which 47,000,000 represents principal and 13,000,000 back interest. The plan is to pay off the back interest this year and fund the principal amount into 15-year bonds bearing a 5 per cent. interest coupon.

The Belgian indebtedness represents cost of maintaining troops interned in Holland during the war. The new bonds are to be secured on Belgian Government obligations to be turned over to Holland, which agrees not to bring these bonds into the market unless Belgium fails to live up to her agreement.

COFFEE CONSUMPTION RECORD HERE BROKEN

Average Per Capita of 13.30 Pounds Against 11.63 the Year Before.

The consumption of coffee in the United States for the year ended June 30, 1924, established a new high record for all time, according to figures published yesterday. It also was estimated yesterday that the consumption of sugar in the first half of 1924 was 3.52 per cent. greater than in the corresponding period last year.

According to the usual compilation of sugar consumption made by Willett & Gray, specialists in sugar statistics, consumption in the first half of 1924 aggregated 2,654,972 tons, against 2,593,691 in the same period last year. The detailed figures for 1924 and 1923 follow:

Coffee consumption in the United States for the year ended June 30, 1923, amounted to 10,758,080 bags, against 9,660,641 bags for the previous year, an increase of 1,097,439 bags. Estimated in pounds instead of bags the consumption amounted to 1,463,372,225 pounds, or a per capita consumption of 13.30 pounds, against 1,277,596,950 pounds and 11.63 pounds, respectively.

WOOL MARKET STRONGER.

Quotations Advance About 2 Cents a Pound In Fortnight.

BOSTON, July 11.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The strength noted during the last two weeks in the American wool markets has not only persisted, but even has further strengthened during the past week, and quotations on the local market are about 2 cents a pound dearer in the grease all around, and occasionally a bit more, fine wools being especially strongly held. This is due to any particularly better tone in the goods market, although there is a better tone there, too, dubtless in view of the settlement of the several garment makers' strikes and the general knowledge that the clothing market is not too well supplied.

"The foreign markets are stronger, more especially as regards merinos at London, while crossbreds are hardly changed from the opening decline. Foreign primary markets are steady. The new clip is moving steadily in the West, and prices show a hardening tendency throughout the West. Mohair is slow and hardly changed.

"The total and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1924, to July 10, 1924, inclusive, were 87,415,000 pounds, against 80,089,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1924, to July 10, 1924, inclusive, were 169,402,000 pounds, against 320,778,100 pounds for the same period last year."

METAL CORPORATION READY.

Benjamin Lissberger, President of the recently organized Federated Metals Corporation which was formed for the purpose of consolidating a group of nation-wide firms in the non-ferrous metals business, announced yesterday that all matters pertaining to the formation, consolidation and operation of the new company have been fully completed. The main office will be in the Woolworth Building.

In addition to Mr. Lissberger, the officers of the company are: Davis Blum of Chicago, Chairman of Directors; Vice Presidents, Ivan Reitler, Maurice Falk, Leon Falk, Henry Lissberger and Samuel Jacobson; Max Lissberger, Treasurer; I. A. Simon, Secretary; L. D. Waixel, Assistant Secretary.

Each of the companies concerned in the merger will continue to operate as heretofore, but as a branch of the parent company.

AMERICAN THREAD REPORT.

Net Profit for Year $1,501,544, Against $2,113,302.

The American Thread Company, Inc., has issued its report for the year ended last March 31, showing net profit of $1,501,544 after interest, depreciation, taxes and inventory adjustments, against $2,113,302 for the year before. The 1923 report of net profit showed earnings equivalent to $1.05 a share on the 1,200,000 shares of $10 par common stock after payment of the preferred dividends, against $1.55 a share in the preceding year.

After setting aside $100,000 for the pension fund and payment of dividends the company reported for 1923 a surplus of $82,317, against $492,778 the year before, and after $100,000 set aside as reserves for contingencies, against $500,000 the year before, there was shown a bookkeeping deficit of $17,683, against a similar deficit the year before of $7,222. The company's profit and loss surplus totaled $2,744,272.

WRITING PAPER INQUIRY.

Readjustment of Finances to Follow Report of Investigators.

The committee of bankers representing the security holders of the American Writing Paper Company and the creditors and others interested in the affairs of that organization have completed their investigation into the affairs and physical condition of the property and it is expected that conferences will be started shortly looking toward the rehabilitation of the property and a readjustment of the company's capital structure.

No date has been set for the holding of the conferences, which will bring all interested parties together to discuss the capital adjustment, but with the investigation of the property completed, thus giving a basis of discussion, it is expected that it will be a matter of only a few months before a general agreement is reached.

"There were more customers in market than during the same period in 1923.

GOLD INFLUX BRINGS BIG DEPOSIT GAINS

National City Bank Explains Reason for Recent Remarkable Increase Here.

COMMERCIAL LOANS DOWN

Report Indicates Bulk of Country's Investments Since March Were Made In New York.

The steady stream of gold coming into the United States from the rest of the world and not the current slackening of business has been the primary cause of the remarkable advance in bank deposits and bank resources in New York City, according to a conclusion reached by the National City Bank.

The institution, which now has deposits of nearly $850,000,000, sent out a supplement yesterday to its recent July Bank Letter under the heading "The Money Market: Influence of Gold Imports."

Deposits of Clearing House banks, according to the National City Bank, have increased by $526,358,000 from April 12 to the high figure of $4,824,142,000 on June 28. "It would be natural to attribute this increase mainly to the transfer of idle funds from the country, but the facts do not appear to support this view," according to the banks. "On March 26, 1924, which is about the date when commercial loans reached their highest point in 1924, loans classified as 'commercial loans' in these reporting member banks aggregated $7,997,853,000, and on June 18 the aggregate was $6,875,646,000, a decrease of $122,207,000. These comprise all other loans besides those made on stocks and bonds as collateral security.

"Between the same dates the total of all loans, investments and investments in the same banks rose from $16,579,757,000 to $16,870,782,000, an increase of $291,-025,000. Allowing for the decrease in commercial loans shown above, it is evident that loans on stocks and bonds, together with investments, increased in the sum of $413,232,000."

The analysis indicates that the increase of loans and investments in the country since March has been practically all in New York. "Outside of New York the decrease of commercial loans amounted to $26,423,000, while the increase in loans on stocks and bonds in investments was $30,532,000," the bank says. "This indicates that the reporting banks outside of New York have had no release of funds and apparently cannot have sent any large amount to New York. Such information as is available tends to confirm this view."

In seeking an explanation for the growth in loans and investments on stocks and bonds as contrasted with little change in the rest of the country, the bank's report says that they seem to have been largely created here by the loans of the New York banks, which would mean that their real source has been going to the banks rather than which have aggregated $197,000,000 since Jan. 1 and approximately $120,-000,000 since April 1." This gold has been going to the banks, rather than to the Federal Reserve Bank and has resulted in making it possible for the banks to increase their loans and investments from about seven to fourteen times the amount of these reserves, it is stated.

"In the past several years the effects of the inflow of gold have been offset in considerable degree by the action of the member banks in reducing the volume of rediscounts at the Reserve Banks, but at the present low ebb of rediscounts this influence is about exhausted," the report continues. "It is true that the temper of the public is against inflation, but the appeal of cheap money is very alluring, and the inevitable policy of bankers who are operating under heavy fixed charges is to use their available earning power to the limit, even at low returns. This has been strikingly illustrated in the last three months, when commercial demands for credit were declining, by the increased loans upon stocks and bonds and increased purchases of bonds for their own account, as shown by the foregoing figures."

NO PORK DROP IN SIGHT.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Prediction that hogs will sell up to around $10, and that there will be relatively no low prices for several years, is made by Everett C. Brown, a well-known live stock handler. Hogs advanced 10 and 20 cents on aggressive buying by shippers. The top was $7.65, the best since May 21, while the average price was $7.40, the best since May 22, and 65 cents above the low of last week. Shippers took 20 per cent. of the receipts, and large packers took hold freely.

Cattle were in good demand, and have recovered the loss early in the week. Top for light steers was $10.10 and best yearlings $9.10. Reports on the dressed beef markets more favorable.

Lambs were strong to 25 cents higher on smaller receipts. The quality was plain, and the top on Westerns was $13.95, while natives reached $13.75.

DETROIT UNITED RAILWAY.

President Admits Dividend Will Be Passed, but Promises One Later.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 11.—Shareholders of the Detroit United Railway realize since the recent financing carried out by the company in New York that the dividend on the common stock was as good as passed. This was admitted by Elliott G. Stevenson, President, in a statement made after the board meeting held here this afternoon. However, Mr. Stevenson has a cheering promise for his shareholders in the form of a preferred stock dividend in 1925 and 1926, equal to 4 per cent. per annum on the outstanding common stock, this to bear 4 per cent. for the first two years and 6 per cent. thereafter. This stock would be callable. This preferred stock dividend is subject to approval both of the shareholders and the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. Preferred stock will be issued to the extent of the retirement of the bonds through the sinking fund provision of $500,000 plus an additional $100,000. Mr. Stevenson stated that he believed that, at the end of two years, if not before, the company would be able to resume cash dividends on the common stock.

DELANEY ANSWERS ATTACK ON TUNNEL

OUTLINES BOARD'S PLANS

Commissioner Harkness Denounces $75,000,000 Tunnel as a Gross Waste of Public Funds.

Replying to a criticism by Transit Commissioner LeRoy T. Harkness directed against the Hylan Administration's proposed $75,000,000 combined freight and passenger tunnel connecting Brooklyn with Staten Island, John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation, yesterday declared that nothing should be permitted to stand in the way of new and better subway facilities for the city's passenger traffic.

He was not impressed by the charge that the city's available credit would be so impaired by the demands made upon it by the Staten Island tunnel enterprise that there would be no funds left for advancing the far more vital necessities of new subway lines in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens.

"The new Board of Transportation," said Chairman Delaney, "is now concentrating all its forces upon a study of the two alternative routes proposed for the completion to East New York of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway. We regard that as our primary duty and it is hoped that within a few weeks we shall have definite plans for that extension ready to report for the approval of the Board of Estimate.

"Next to that enterprise, to the completion of which the city stands bound under the dual contracts, we think the transit problems of primary and immediate importance are a line linking Brooklyn and Queens without the necessity of passing through Manhattan, as at present, and a Manhattan trunk line connecting Washington Heights with the Battery.

"It is the attitude of the Board of Transportation, and, I do not doubt, also of the Board of Estimate, that the advancement of these enterprises is of more immediate importance than the prosecution of any other plan of transportation or traffic, and I do not think the city will lack the necessary municipal credit to make, at least, a good start upon these improvements when the plans for them are perfected and approved."

Harkness Charges Waste.

The renewed criticism of the State Transit Commission directed against the Staten Island tunnel, the two shafts for which have just been completed at a cost of $2,000,000, was voiced in an interview with Commissioner Harkness, printed yesterday by an afternoon newspaper. That publication said, in part:

"The city, according to Arthur S. Tuttle, chief engineer to the Board of Estimate, is preparing to go ahead with the tunneling and this Fall will advertise for bids for the construction, expected to cost approximately $75,000,000.

"Since its inception by the legislative act on May 12, 1921, the project has been fought by the Transit Commission and the Port Authority, and has been rejected as unnecessary and railroads which enter the metropolitan railroads which enter the metropolitan district. Criticism of the tunnel was tersely summarized by Le Roy T. Harkness, member of the Transit Commission, as follows:

"'The spending of many millions on this ill-conceived project represents, to my mind, the grossest waste of public funds that I have seen in an experience of more than twenty years in municipal affairs.'

"According to Commissioner Harkness, transit construction in New York is now ten years behind and it would be at least five years until a subway would be ready for use were it started now.

"'If work on this tunnel is continued according to plans,' said Commissioner Harkness, 'the cost would consume a good part of what little there is now and prospectively available for transit construction and the completion dates for subways later to be built would be put off just that much longer. Meantime the number of people using our already overtaxed trains is increasing by 2,500 every day.'

Says Roads Won't Use Tunnel.

"Mr. Harkness pointed out the fact that the city not only had no assurance that the railroads would use the tunnel, but that, on the contrary, it was assured by the railroads that they could not use it. The Hylan Administration, through Mr. Tuttle, stoutly countered with the assertion that the tunnel is necessary to afford Staten Island passenger service, to give Brooklyn a freight and passenger terminal, to connect Greater New York and Long Island with Jersey trunk line railroads and to decrease waterfront congestion throughout the Port.

"Opponents of the project, declaring that the tunnel never should have been started, demand that the city, in greater need of rapid transit elsewhere and hard pressed for funds, postpone further work upon the tunnel and shift the scene of its activities. They declare the project is comparable to that other Hylan enterprise not far from the Staten Island shaft for the tunnel, namely, the $30,000,000 shipless docks at Stapleton."

Chairman Delaney, commenting upon the criticism, said that the most urgent necessity for the Staten Island tunnel was not to give to 100,000 persons in Staten Island better passenger transit facilities, but to give prompt access into the heart of the city for the products carried on the trunk line railroads having their terminals on the New Jersey waterfront. Mr. Delaney cited the desperate plight in which New York found itself during the coal famine in the Winter of 1918, when fragile coal barges, virtually the sole means of transportation from the New Jersey docks to Manhattan and Brooklyn consumers, were blockaded by ice and, not infrequently, crushed and sunk in the harbor.

Concerning the financial aspects of the situation, Mr. Delaney said he had not specifically checked up the status of the city's credit since the Board of Estimate recently voted more than $40,000,000 for schools, terminal markets, sewers and other improvements. His impression was, however, that when he made his estimate some weeks ago that there would be approximately $50,000,000 available with which to make a start upon the most sorely needed of the new subway projects, the appropriations named had been foreseen and deducted from the available total.

He called attention to the fact that, while the sum of $75,000,000 might represent the ultimate cost of the Staten Island tunnel, appropriation of much smaller sums would suffice to keep the work progressing, without blocking an early beginning upon passenger subway work.

DISCUSS CLOAK AGREEMENT

Governor Smith's Commission to Consider It Next Tuesday.

The proposed agreement between the manufacturers and the union in the cloak and suit industry of New York city was submitted to the Governor's Advisory Commission yesterday afternoon at a conference attended by representatives of the workers and employers. Two points were opened for discussion, according to Samuel Blumberg, counsel for the jobbers, who explained that they were only minor in detail.

He explained that they had to do with the strike situation and to the duration of the collective agreement. In its final form the collective agreement contemplates a year's duration. Some of the conferees suggested that it would be advisable to have the agreement terminate in June, 1925, rather than on the first of July. No final action was taken on the proposed agreement because two of the members of the Governor's Commission were unable to be present at the conference. The commission meets again next Tuesday to consider the proposed draft of the agreement.

RULE FOR AUTO BEGINNERS.

Persons Learning to Drive to Receive 30-Day Permits.

Persons learning to drive an automobile in New York City will receive a thirty-day permit instead of the former ten-day permit. The Motor Vehicle Bureau, at 220 West Fortieth Street, announced yesterday that the change was due to the new motor vehicle law, which extends the period from ten to thirty days.

The application for the permit must be made out in writing on a form furnished by the Motor Vehicle Bureau. Every person driving a car under authority of one of these permits must at all times be accompanied by a licensed driver.

PREDICTS $10 HOG AGAIN.

Chicago Live Stock Man Says Expensive Corn Will Cause Rise.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Everett C. Brown, President of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange, indicated today that hogs would bring $10 a hundredweight before Oct. 1. He said:

"It is plainly evident that hog prices have seen bottom for this Summer. Today's market is 35 cents to 60 cents higher than Monday, with a broad general demand from both local packers and Eastern shippers.

"On the basis of the present price of corn matured hogs are worth at least $10 per hundred, and I would not be surprised to see that figure reached before Oct. 1. These good 90 and 220-pound pigs that are selling from 4½ to 5¾ cents per pound, if fed a little corn and grass by the hog feeder, will make more money in the next sixty to ninety days than anything he could handle.

"Hogs have been losing from $400 to $500 per car on the basis of the present price of corn. In other words, if the farmer had not fed his corn to the hogs but had sold it at the present market for corn he would be $400 to $500 better off.

"Hogs have always eventually reached a corn basis of values, and they are going to do it now. I do not think we will see as low prices for hogs during the next two or three years as we have seen this Summer."

MAYER CHALLENGES CRITICS OF COURTS

Federal Judge Upholds Right of the Judiciary to Conduct Receiverships.

ASKS BAR FOR SUPPORT

Fourteen Lawyers Praise His Work in New York Railways Receivership.

On the occasion of winding up the receivership of the New York Railways Company in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday afternoon lawyers for the bondholders, for the creditors, for the claimants of damages and other parties in interest rose, one after another, and paid tribute to Judge Julius M. Mayer for his conduct of the receivership and his services in salvaging some $40,000,000 worth of property from the wreckage of the system.

Lawyers of high standing testified that the work of Judge Mayer was a masterpiece of brilliant business administration and a triumph of judicial workmanship in the disentanglement of overlapping equities, claims and interests which had previously made the affairs of the company an intricate maze.

The lawyers who joined in praising the Court were Frank D. Pavey, Joseph P. Cotton, Samuel Seabury, Edwin S. Sunderland, Mansfield Ferry, Harold A. Content, Charles W. Miller, Bronson Winthrop, Harold C. McCollum, Charles P. Howland, R. K. Prentice, Wilson B. Brice, James D. Ewing and Henry V. Poor.

Judge Mayer Expresses Gratitude.

After the shower of compliments was over Judge Mayer paused for some moments, and then expressed his gratitude. In the course of his address Judge Mayer took occasion to defend the receivership in which vast properties have come under the legal and business direction of United States Judges in New York.

The judicial policy under which great public utilities and other properties worth a large fraction of a billion dollars came under the administration of a few Federal Judges has been criticized recently, and the speeches in praise of Judge Mayer were regarded partly as a reply to these criticisms.

Judge Mayer indirectly discussed these criticisms in his reply. He challenged objectors to work out a system of administering properties in receivership which will separate the business matters from the legal issues so that the Court can concern itself with points of law alone.

Taking up the subject of attacks on courts and judicial policies, Judge Mayer suggested that the bar should interest itself in such attacks and take the responsibility for preventing the public from being misled "by the uninformed."

Court Replies to Criticism.

"When I speak of the uninformed," he continued, "I include two classes as utterly different as the North and South Pole.

"I include the academic student or teacher of the law who knows nothing whatever about practical affairs and who with insufficient data assumes to criticize constructive efforts, and who in his cloistered environment knows nothing whatever of the driving, pulsing life of a great community of which the court is a part when it administers affairs of this character. Then there is the other type, the demagogue, whose main object is to attack and never to build."

Coming to his proposal that the bar should establish machinery for defending Judges against ignorant or demagogic attack, Judge Mayer continued:

"My purpose is to emphasize as strongly as I know how that, until some one comes forward with a sounder method of dealing with a subject matter of this character, the bar should not leave the contentious side of the question to the Judge. When a professor of a law school or any other person assumes to pass upon the subject without any knowledge of it, it is time that the bar took it into its hands to protect the courts and the Judges, because the Judge cannot enter into a personal controversy, and the bar has been supine in failing affirmatively to take up the cause of the courts against the academicians, whom I regard as infinitely more dangerous than the demagogues, because you can dispose of the demagogue readily, but the academician has his following of those who do not understand.

"As indicated by my emphasis, I feel very strongly on this subject and I challenge the bar and may perhaps have some part in assisting a little later on, when we have that sort of criticism, from certain quarters, to meet it fully and openly, and not to leave a Judge or set of Judges here or elsewhere to combat what are plainly fallacies."

Job E. Hedges, who has been receiver of the New York Railways Company, relinquishes his post this morning and the receivership is terminated except in certain technical respects, in which for legal reasons the receivership must be continued a little longer. Hugh J. Sheeran, assistant to Mr. Hedges, will succeed Mr. Hedges while the technical receivership remains in force.

Defends Judicial Receivership.

In his general defense of the policy of judicial receiverships and of the work of the Federal courts in this city, Judge Mayer said:

"Out of the great mass of receiverships with which the Judges of the United States District Court have dealt, the ones perhaps of the greatest importance are those, first, which had to do with great commercial enterprises whose position was made unfortunate or difficult through the sudden changes of the war, and, secondly, the great utilities not only here but other utilities elsewhere, managed through jurisdictional reasons from the Federal Court here, of which the National Railroad of Haiti is a very interesting and striking example, to me.

"Now, what are courts organized for? They are organized as the last resort, an impartial tribunal where questions of life, liberty and property are involved. No one fails to appreciate the important relations of the courts to life and liberty, but from time to time there are those who fail to understand that property is an important element in the life not only of an individual but of a nation. It is the desire to acquire property, which is one of the mainsprings of human activity, and there is no man of right view and mind so humble who does not at least desire to acquire a home for himself. When, therefore, you move on from this humble man to those who through greater efforts or greater skill acquire more property, you are reaching in one way or another practically every human being in the entire nation.

"Great enterprises are built with money, and the money is the money in one form or another of the people at large. There is the person who directly invests in the property, but even those who do not invest are vitally interested to see that the property is successful so that it may pay its obligations in taxes and in other ways to the nation, the State and the particular governmental subdivision in which that property operates.

Aid for Public Utilities.

"When that property touches the public interest, as do public utilities, it has a very wide relation, as every one knows or should know. When such a property falls into difficulties the main purpose should be to reconstruct it; because the property performs a vital public function, and economists and courts alike appreciate the necessity of keeping in sound financial condition or restoring to sound financial condition any type of property which performs a public service.

"Now, how shall that be done? Those who are familiar with the practical requirements of administration know the value of the work that the courts have done, the great work that has been done in respect of interstate carriers by great judges, of whom Judge Sanborn, Judge Hook and others are striking examples. In this jurisdiction a great work was done by Judge Lacombe in the old Metropolitan receivership, and he blazed the way in many directions by establishing and developing practices that had to do not only with questions of law as such but also with administrative properties. And my contemporaries have done their full share in this jurisdiction in one direction or another in this important work.

"These affairs are, of course, very burdensome to courts and judges, but courts and judges do not exist to avoid responsibilities or burdens. The theory of paid boards of administrators has been disposed of with many illustrations. Whether such a method would be constitutionally sound is very doubtful, but practically it would be of no real service. You can not select receivers and counsel for receivers by some sort of automatic method; you must have individual ability, and none of the lawyers in this case could have done the work he has done so competently unless all around the circle there had been high equipment in respect of this kind of subject matter.

Upholds Courts in Business.

"I am tempted always when any one has a criticism to the effect that the courts should not deal with business to ask the critic to state a definite method which is better than this tried method of dealing with the subject matter, and I have as yet found nowhere at the hands of any one a concrete suggestion. I have throughout my entire life and now always entertained utter contempt for the critic who is not able to state affirmatively how an alleged evil can be corrected.

"I am imposing on your patience because I want to make this of record. Let us see about the courts. Is there any reason to be ashamed because the courts as a part of their duty do something more in cases of this character than to pass upon questions of law? Is there any finer tribute can be paid to any institution than the tribute that it builds or rescues? If you descend to an almost schoolboy illustration, you are grateful to him who takes something that is in disrepair and restores and rebuilds it. Why wouldn't that same appreciation apply to the courts! It has in your case because you understand. But in some quarters it is supposed in some way that the court descends from the bench when it plays its part in helping to build up great properties, and particularly those that are of public usefulness and value."

CITY WINS DISPUTE OVER A BOUNDARY

Court Decides Tax Case Against Hempstead—Much Property Affected.

Justice Leander B. Faber of the Queens Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision establishing the boundary between the City of New York and the Town of Hempstead. The case decided is that of Elbert J. Decker against the city and the town.

Decker sought to prevent the city from levying taxes on his property, bounded on the north by an inlet of Jamaica Bay, known as Mott Basin, on the west by Bay Street and on the east by property of the Elstone Park Realty Company. Justice Faber finds that the city has a right to levy the taxes, as the Decker property is not within the town.

The decision will affect other properties similarly situated in many localities of the former Village of Far Rockaway. The city insisted that the boundary line was either the shore line along Mott Basin or some point in the channel north of the shore line. The plaintiff and the Town of Hempstead held that the boundary was that designated as such on the final map of the city, Section 226. The amended charter of the city states that the part of the Town of Hempstead which was annexed to the city was "bounded on the east and north by the east and north bounds of the former Village of Far Rockaway," so that the question at issue was as to the location of the east and north lines of the former Village of Far Rockaway.

HEARST FAILS TO APPEAR.

Disregards Order to Testify Before Trial of Leon $10,000 Suit.

William Randolph Hearst disregarded a Supreme Court order yesterday by failing to testify, before trial, in the suit for $10,000 brought against him by Maurice Leon, a lawyer, for alleged services in procuring for the Hearst papers a restoration of news despatches from France and England in the Spring of 1918. Mr. Hearst's examination was ordered by Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young, in White Plains, on Thursday.

One hour and ten minutes after the time scheduled for Mr. Hearst's examination before Thomas F. Keenan, a notary public, in the law office of Evarts, Sherman, Choate & Leon, at 60 Wall Street, the non-appearance was noted on the record. After a short hearing, which showed that the court's order had been served upon William A. DeFord, Mr. Hearst's counsel, Mr. Leon announce that he would take steps to have the publisher cited for contempt of court early next week unless Mr. Hearst should make his appearance in the interim.

"I can't quite understand how a man of Mr. Hearst's responsibilities could disobey a court order and lay himself open to a charge of contempt," Mr. Leon said.

After several clerks had testified to the service of the papers, and another had stated that he had searched for Mr. Hearst in the Supreme Court in New York, believing the defendant may have forgotten where his examination was to have been held, Mr. Marsh said:

"We have duly proved the service of this order upon the attorney for the defendant, William Randolph Hearst, and that Mr. Hearst has not appeared here in compliance with this order. I request that you make a certificate that there has been a default on the part of Mr. Hearst to appear, in order that such may be made the basis for a motion to cite Mr. Hearst for contempt or for any other motions that may be made."

In the complaint, Mr. Leon states that he spent the months of March and April, 1918, in attempting to have Great Britain and France restore to the International News Service its mail, wireless and cable privileges which had been denied it since January, 1918. The news rights were obtained in May of the same year. Mr. Leon contends that $10,000 is a "respectable value" of his services.

In his answer Mr. Hearst denied that the lawyer had the service restored and contended that he never even represented him.

LIQUOR AND CHINESE SEIZED

Smuggling Expedition Halted by Bullets at the Vermont Border.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., July 11.—A rum-running and Chinese smuggling expedition on the Canadian border was broken up by customs officials at Newport, Vt., who stopped two automobiles by revolver shots, it was learned today. Four Chinamen and the two alleged principals of the party were brought to the county jail here, the latter giving their names as Arthur S. Paige and Edward V. St. Aubin, both of Lowell, Mass., were ordered held with the aliens for the Federal Grand Jury next October.

The tires and gasoline tanks of the smugglers' cars were punctured by the customs men's bullets before their capture. Thirty cases of liquor were found in the two cars.

Wilson's First Nomination

Behind the Scenes at the Democratic Convention of 1912

The July Issue of Current History Magazine contains the inside story of how Woodrow Wilson won his first nomination despite the strong opposition of politicians. F. Parker Stockbridge, the author of this illuminating chapter of political history, managed Mr. Wilson's publicity campaign when he first decided to become a candidate.

Mr. Stockbridge was his intimate and confidential associate. His article shows the entire truth of the entrance into national politics of the Great War President. The turmoil of the present Democratic Convention makes this story of the greatest interest.

A thoroughly critical and brilliant exposure of the menacing evils of the religious and racial prejudices in the United States, by the Justice of the Appellate Court of Illinois, Frank Johnston, Jr. This article is followed by another, of equal significance, on the changing conception of government in America, and the departure from the ideals of the Fathers, by the former Attorney General of Alaska, Hon. J. H. Cobb.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard University, Chairman of the Current History Board of Associates, writes the story of the Republican Convention, and includes therein a verbatim copy of the Republican platform.

The World History of the past month is told by thirteen university professors of history, each of whom specializes in the area assigned to him.

Together, they cover the entire surface of the globe by means of their own educational contacts, the world-wide news gathering organization of a great newspaper, and the reports received from the Embassies of the different countries.

Twenty other important articles, by prominent authorities, treat the big questions and outstanding events of the day in a most interesting and informative way.
